Nixon Asks Change On Nuclear Arms

Call Issued To Helsinki Delegations

HELSINKI (UPI)—President Richard M. Nixon called today for a reversal of the U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms race.

His statement was read to the long-awaited opening session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) which brought the two super powers together today in a first preliminary session.

The talks opened with a champagne toast in the mirrored portrait-lined salon of Finland's yellow stucco banquet hall which was built for the Czarist governors 150 years ago.

ASKS CONFIDENCE

Nixon's statement called the SALT meeting "one of the most momentous negotiations ever entrusted to an American delegation." He asked for an agreement in which both sides can have confidence.

Today's opening session was purely ceremonial. The real talks begin tomorrow in the U.S. Embassy and will alternate between the U.S. and Soviet embassies. They could last for months, even years.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir S. Semenov, chief of the Russian group, listened attentively as Nixon's remarks were translated into Russian. Semenov in his opening remarks had said "it is our desire to see this meeting in Helsinki successfully solving its tasks."

IMPORTANT GOAL

"Curbing of the strategic arms race, limitation and subsequent reduction of such armaments—this is an important goal the achievement of which would meet the vital interests not only of the Soviet and American peoples but also of other nations of the world," Semonov said.

Nixon's statement was read by U.S. arms director Gerard C. Smith, head of the American SALT delegation. Nixon listed recent agreements such as the Antarctic, the limited test ban, the outer space and the nonproliferation treaties and said:

"Other tasks remain on the agenda of the United Nations and the conference of the committee on disarmament. Today, however, you will begin what all of your fellow citizens in the United States and, I believe, all people throughout the world, profoundly hope will be a sustained effort not only to limit the buildup of strategic forces but to reverse it."

Nixon spoke of the difficulties, suspicion and distrust surrounding the conference and said:

"I believe it is possible, however, that we can carry out our respective responsibilities under a mutually acceptable limitation and eventual reduction of our strategic arsenals.

NIXON HOPEFUL

"I am, nevertheless, hopeful that your negotiations with representatives from the Soviet Union will serve to increase mutual security. Such a result is possible if we approach these negotiations recognizing the legitimate security interests of each side."

Nixon said the Americans "are prepared to engage in bona fide negotiations on concrete issues, avoiding polemics and extraneous matters."

The Russians have accused the Americans of trying to link the SALT talks with other unresolved East-West problems.

TWO-DAY PENALTY

San Rafael High Forbids Smoking

San Rafael High School has reinstituted a former policy of suspending students for smoking on campus.

Florence Abraham, administrative assistant to the principal, has notified parents through the school's newsletter that any student caught smoking will be suspended for two days.

"A student who is suspended from school is expected to be at home during school hours and may not participate in any school-sponsored activities during the period of suspension," she announced.

Students have been warned of the rule, she reported, emphasizing that smoking by those under 18 is against the law.

A decade ago, smoking on campus was the No. 1 cause of suspension of students at San Rafael High School. In recent years, however, there has been little enforcement of the campus smoking ban.

No Official Reaction To Alleged Massacre

SAIGON (AP) — The province chief of Quang Ngai province said today that villagers told him 460 Vietnamese civilians were killed during an American military operation in March 1968, but he said he had no firm evidence they were executed by American troops.

Two soldiers, a lieutenant and a staff sergeant, have been arrested in connection with the alleged massacre on March 16, 1968, at Song My village, six miles northeast of Quang Ngai city.

Newsweek Magazine and the New York Times reported yesterday, however, that eyewitnesses said 50 or more soldiers were involved. They said the villagers were herded together, their homes destroyed, and then they were mowed down by GI gunmen.

The province chief, Col. Ton That Khien, said in a telephone interview that three months after the operation by the U.S. Americal Division, villagers "cried that the Americans killed them when they went through the village and made contact with the Viet Cong and they opened fire."

Asked if he believed the villagers were telling the truth, he said: "I think there is some truth but there is also an extension of it. Maybe they exaggerate because of Viet Cong propaganda, because it is a Viet Cong hamlet and the people have been trained by the Communists. The people are guided by the Viet Cong."

Khien said American and Vietnamese investigators from Saigon visited his area about a year ago and discussed the incident. He said the investigators "could not go into the hamlet because it was still in Viet Cong control."

Asked if the Viet Cong still control the village, he said, "No, sir, there's only snipers." The colonel said villagers told him that 370 civilians were killed in one hamlet called Tu Cung and another 90 were killed in the hamlet of My Hoi. Both are part of Song My village.

Khien said he could not confirm the number of dead, that "is the village chief's report."

Khien said he had not spoken to any witnesses to the killings.

"When the villagers told me the Americans deliberately opened fire on them," he said, "I asked, 'Who saw this?' They said they didn't see it for themselves."

Khien said he was aware that bodies of civilians had been buried in rice fields outside the village. But he said there were no plans to dig them up because "they are old bodies."

Both the U.S. Command and U.S. Army headquarters in Saigon refused to comment on the published reports of the alleged massacre, saying they lacked sufficient information to discuss the case.

"We have no records," said an Army spokesman, "everybody involved in the case is gone, and the investigation is being conducted under another command's jurisdiction. We have nothing to base a statement on."

Newsweek said yesterday the case of an Army lieutenant accused of murdering Vietnamese noncombatants "was only one of a string of related incidents in which a total of 567 South Vietnamese in three separate hamlets were slain."

The New York Times, in today's editions, carried a dispatch from Troung An, South Vietnam, relating the same tale and reporting about 60 soldiers implicated. The Times said the slayings took place March 16, 1968.

Apollo 12 Nearing First Moon Orbit

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — America's Apollo 12 explorers swept into the grip of lunar gravity today as the good ship Yankee Clipper hurtled unerringly toward an orbit of the moon tonight.

Their target, a shimmering silver crescent, loomed larger and larger as their home planet shrank in the distance.

At 8:38 a.m. (EST) astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean zipped through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal.

Once across this invisible line, lunar gravity took hold and Apollo 12's speed accelerated after slowing to about 1,500 miles an hour on the long outward coast. The ship was 211,322 miles from earth and 38,933 miles from the moon.

The speed will increase to about 5,700 miles an hour as the astronauts loop behind the moon's backside tonight. At 10:47 p.m. (EST), the are to fire Yankee Clipper's big engine to whip into lunar orbit.

The spacemen were asleep as they entered the lunar sphere of influence. They retired at 7:15 a.m. for a 10-hour rest period after Conrad and Bean inspected the cabin of the lunar landing craft for 45 minutes and reported it in excellent condition. A scheduled eight-hour rest period was extended to 10 hours when the near-perfect flight allowed an afternoon midcourse change to be canceled.

They will attempt to steer the lander, called Intrepid, to a pinpoint landing in a 400-foot-wide circle on the moon's Ocean of Storms early Wednesday to open a new era of discovery, the first detailed exploration of the lunar surface.

Conrad and Bean carried along a television camera to transmit live color pictures of their transfer through a three-foot connecting tunnel into the cabin of the fragile, four-legged vehicle.

As Conrad and Bean moved into the lunar module for the familiarization check, the camera watched as they removed the tunnel hatch and the har-

IT WASN'T COATLESS OUT TODAY

It was a bit nippy in Marin and Southern Sonoma this morning as temperatures plunged to the freezing mark. Frost covered roof tops and cars for a decorative warning of winter.

However, the weatherman predicted temperatures would be in the upper 40s tonight and mild daytime weather would continue tomorrow.

Lowest temperatures were reported in Petaluma and Terra Linda where the overnight low was 32 degrees. Other overnight readings were Novato, 33 degrees; Mill Valley and Tamalpais Valley, 38; San Rafael, 39, and Sausalito, 40. The temperature at 8 a.m. today in Bolinas was 44 degrees.

Mrs. Gandhi In A Major Victory

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi easily won today her first major test in Parliament since the breakup of her ruling Congress Party — indicating her government will be able to survive despite the loss of its absolute majority.

With the aid of independents, Socialists and Communists, she defeated a censure motion brought by the right-wing Swatantra party criticizing the government's participation in the Rabat Islamic summit conference in September.

The vote, 306 to 143 in Mrs. Gandhi's favor, showed she was able to pick up more votes than she had lost by the split in the party.

Bridge Board Hires Chief Of Ferryboats

Harlan L. Soeten of Mill Valley, long-time advocate of reviving ferries on San Francisco Bay, has been hired by the Golden Gate Bridge District as its first chief of ferryboat operations at $16,500 a year.

Soeten, 55, had recently joined the new Oakland Museum as manager of services after leaving the San Francisco Maritime Museum, where he was curator for eight years.

He has 10 years experience at sea as a deck officer, and was Matson Navigation Co.'s night port captain in San Francisco before becoming curator at the maritime museum.

Soeten, in a 1967 interview with the Independent-Journal, proposed four 25-knot, 2-500-capacity passenger ferries with sailings every 20 minutes during peak hours between Marin and San Francisco. He also favored a single terminal in Corte Madera, near the end of the Greenbrae Boardwalk.

He envisioned ferries with "overstuffed seating, coffee shop and restaurant, TV lounge, showers and locker facilities."

Soeten was a member of the San Francisco-Marin Water Transportation Study Committee, which made a $45,000 study that concluded ferryboats would be feasible. The committee's recommendation has been incorporated in a decision by bridge directors to set up a joint commuter bus and ferry system.

Soeten, also in charge of the interim ferry operation resumed last week from Tiburon, reported today that 850 to 900 one-way trips were recorded daily, up slightly from the 700 to 800 before the service was halted by a strike in June. Commuter use was down slightly, he said, but the addition of midday runs had attracted enough shoppers to fill the gap.

Also hired by the bridge district, at $12,500 a year, was Jerome M. Kuykendall, former transportation analyst for the Marin County Transit District. He has been hired to work on the bridge district's long-range transit plan, due to be submitted to the 1971 Legislature.

Byrd Attacks News Media For Anti-Haynsworth Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd said today opponents of the nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. are unwiling to recognize that President Richard M. Nixon won last year's election and that the people want more conservative Supreme Court Justices.

The West Virginia Democrat told the Senate that "the real motive forces" behind the opposition to Haynsworth, now chief judge of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, are powerful economic and bloc pressure groups.

"Specifically," he said, "I refer to the NAACP, certain organized labor groups, and the so-called 'liberal' establishment which controls much of the news media of this nation and which cannot reconcile itself to the results of the last presidential election."

"The truly paramount issue involved in this nomination," he added, "is whether these groups will be able to exercise a veto power over the appointments to the Supreme Court by the President of the United States."

Byrd led off the day's debate on the nomination, expected to be voted on later in the week.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, the acting GOP leader, told newsmen he thought the showdown would come Wednesday or Thursday. He said he expects Haynsworth to be confirmed.

Byrd, the No. 3 Democrat in the party's Senate leadership, said "a frenetic effort" had been made to convince the public that Haynsworth had been guilty of unethical or illegal conduct but that on examination all

Joseph Kennedy Is Reported Near Death

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, father of an American political dynasty, was near death today at his seaside home in the Kennedy compound on Cape Cod.

His condition was described as "very low" by his son-in-law, Ambassador Sargent Shriver, shortly before 8 a.m.

"The end is only a matter of hours aways," Shriver told a newsman after attending early morning mass at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in Hyannis.

Kennedy, father of the late President John F. Kennedy, is 81 and has been in poor health for eight years.

He suffered what a doctor said was a minor heart attack over the weekend.

Shriver said the former ambassador has been unable to eat for several days.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, matriarch of the Kennedy clan, also attended mass this morning at St. Francis Xaiver's, though not with Shriver. She entered the tiny church quickly, and remained inside for several minutes after the service was over.

There was no word on whether Kennedy was conscious, but one unofficial source said he was given the last rites of the Ro-

Reagan Will Use Road Funds To Combat Smog

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Reagan said today that some highway funds will be diverted for smog relief in his 1970-71 budget proposal.

The often-made suggestion that highway funds — derived from taxes on motor vehicle fuel —be used for things other than highway construction and maintenance has been a hotly debated item for years.

In the keynote address at his Conference on California's Changing Environment, Reagan didn't say how much money will be designated to fight smog, but made clear his budget, for the first time, will include it.

"While we are not planning to open up the highway trust funds to finance everything under the sun as some would have us do," he said, "let there be no misunderstanding about our feelings on the use of highway funds to battle smog.

"We have the responsibility to invest these dollars to develop, operate and maintain our streets, highways and freeways. Since the automobiles which use them are the major single contributors to air pollution in California, we also have the definite responsibility to solve the statewide air pollution problems which these automobiles cause."

Blast Kills Five

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Five workers were killed today when a quantity of paint thinner exploded while they were painting a tank in the basement of a building under construction. The building was to serve as a workers' dormitory.

Mass Protest—Peaceful Or Violent?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The demonstrators who jammed the capital for the biggest peace demonstration in history have gone home, leaving behind a dispute over whether the mass protest against the Vietnam war was peaceful, as they had promised, or violent, as the government had warned.

"I do not believe that, overall, the gathering here can be characterized as peaceful," Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said yesterday of the massive gathering that brought at least a quarter-million war protesters to Washington.

He accused the organizing New Mobilization Committee of failing to heed Justice Department warnings of potential violence.

"That's a lie," New Mobe project director Ron Young retorted when told of Mitchell's statement. "Yesterday, thousands of people were gassed in Washington by this government. Yesterday, hundreds of people were killed in Vietnam by this government. Yesterday, villages were destroyed in Vietnam by this government.

Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson had estimated 250,000 demonstrators turned out Saturday. But he said that estimate was modest.

Herbert G. Klein, who speaks for President Richard M. Nixon, said although the demonstration "again proves that this is a country which allows people to express themselves. "I don't think there's a value in trying to form policy for the United States government, or any government, from crowds on the street."

Nixon himself had nothing to say publicly about the demonstration. He went to a football game yesterday after having spent rally day in the White House, conducting official business and watching a televised football match.

Mitchell, contending the gathering had not been peaceful, pointed to two clashes between police and a militant fringe group of the antiwar protesters.

Near the South Vietnamese Embassy Friday night, and at the Justice Department Saturday after the rally, the police used tear gas to rout the several thousand militants.

A total of about 130 persons were arrested in the two days—only two in connection with the main march and rally. Most were charged with disorderly conduct and released on posting collateral. No serious injuries were reported, and damage appeared limited to several dozen broken windows.

Mitchell, in a statement delivered to news offices as the last stragglers were hitching rides out of the capital and workmen were cleaning up yesterday, said he was "pleased that the great majority of participants obeyed the law."

"I seriously doubt," he said, "that any other nation in the world would have extended the formal and informal cooperation that this government extended, in view of the enormous numbers of persons expected and the substantial likelihood of violence . . .

"Unfortunately, the planned demonstrations were marred by such extensive physical injury, property damage and street confrontations that I do not believe that, overall, the gathering here can be characterized as peaceful."

The department had hestiated for weeks in granting a parade permit for the main march down Pennsylvania Avenue. Intelligence reports, it said, told of impending violence by militant groups that endangered the capital.

"I see no reason," Mitchell said, "to condone the illegal actions of a hard core of militants merely because they were undertaken during a 'peace' demonstration.

"There is only one conclusion that any reasonable person can derive from this series of events:

"The New Mobilization Committee expected violence to occur and that was the result.

"The committee aided this violence through a combination of inaction and affirmaive action.

"The blame for the violence must lie primarily with the New Mobilization Committee—pecifically with those influential members of the steering committee who knew the gathering in Washington would be a vehicle for violence."

Mitchell's statement also blamed the committee for violence "at the Department of Labor."

Although a brief rally was held there Saturday, there were no reports of violence. The Justice Department confrontation was three blocks away.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, meanwhile, began planning for its December activities. Sources within the committee said it was tentatively planning to observe at least one December moratorium day on Christmas Eve.

While the New Mobilization Committee activities had focused entirely on the Saturday march and rally, spokesmen said yesterday the committee will meet next weekend to determine what future steps the peace movement can take.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Still On Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States still has chemical warfare agents on Okinawa nearly four months after announcing plans to speed their removal.

The question could come up for discussion by President Richard M. Nixon and Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato, who arrives here today for talks, including the future of Okinawa.

"Preparations for its removal are under way," is the Pentagon's standard reply to questions about the status of chemical weapons, including nerve gas, on the island south of Japan.

The Defense Department July 22 announced that gas removal plans, which it said have been under study for several years, were being accelerated.

Trip Protest

The biggest police turnout in memory kept the leftists from making good on their threat to prevent Sato's departure.

Some 22,000 riot police and plainclothesmen guarded the roads to Tokyo's international airport. Another 3,000 men were deployed throughout the terminal building.

Link Is Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union should join their communications satellite systems into a worldwide communications link for all nations, experts from 10 nations say.

The proposal was made yesterday by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the Twentieth Century Fund, summarizing the conclusions of a conference of experts held Sept. 21-25 in Talloires, France.

The report conceded that "obstacles undoubtedly exist" to setting up such a system, but said the 68-nation United States Intelsat system and Russia's proposed seven-nation Intersputnik system could be merged without technical difficulties.

Jet Noise Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's first limits on jet airplane noise go into effect Dec. 1, but it probably will be many months before the public notices any less whine in the sky.

Initially the limits are aimed at the four-engine Boeing 747, first of the jumbo jets, a 360-passenger flying hotel lobby scheduled to enter airline service late in February.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the new rules will not be applied strictly at the start because the 747 engines will come close to, but will not actually meet, the standards.

In addition to the 747, the standards, announced by the FAA Nov. 12, will apply to the three-engine Lockheed L1011 and Douglas DC10 air-bus giants, scheduled for delivery to the airlines late in 1971 or in 1972.

Auto Is Looted

A stereo tape player and 24 tapes valued at a total of $150 were stolen sometime last night from the car of Wim Goeree of 21 Madrone Avenue, Woodacre, while the car was parked at a service station at Nellen Drive and Fifer Avenue, Corte Madera police reported.

Cycle Stolen

U.S. Jets Cross Into Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers crossed the Cambodian border today for the second day of strikes against North Vietnamese artillery pounding the Bu Prang Special Forces camp on the South Vietnamese side of the border.

The U.S. Command said the air and artillery strikes against the gun positions inside Cambodia, which began yesterday, were "an inherent right of self-defense against enemy attacks."

The American bombers returned to Cambodia's skies after a two-hour North Vietnamese artillery bombardment early today against a South Vietnamese task force headquarters a mile southeast of Bu Prang.

Ten South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded, but the results of the retaliatory air strike were not immediately reported.

South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed twice later in the day with North Vietnamese soldiers southeast of Bu Prang. Nine enemy soldiers were killed, and there were no South Vietnamese casualties, spokesmen said.

Yesterday, American fighter-bombers streaked across the border near Bu Prang to attack 85mm and 105mm artillery and 37mm antiaircraft guns.

The U.S. Command said the artillery had fired more than 100 rounds at the camp, 110 miles northeast of Saigon, while the antiaircraft guns had forced down a small American observation plane.

The command said the raiders destroyed two North Vietnamese guns and silenced the others.

During the night, about 20 B52 bombers dropped some 600 tons of bombs on other North Vietnamese targets less than two miles inside South Vietnam between Bu Prang and Duc Lap, another Special Forces camp 25 miles to the north.

Egyptian Frogmen Hit Israeli Ships; Retribution Is Demanded

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli newspapers today angrily demanded swift retribution for an attack by Egyptian frogmen on Israeli ships in the southern Israeli port of Eilat.

Cairo indicated the frogmen took off from the Jordanian port of Aqaba, which faces Eilat across three miles of the Gulf of Aqaba.

"Jordan is responsible for the acts committed from its territory, and it could not have been unaware of plans for this one," said the semiofficial paper Davar.

The last time Eilat was hit—by Arab rockets seven months ago—Israel retaliated with an air raid on Aqaba.

"Aqaba, Jordan's only sea outlet, could be completely paralyzed without a single Israeli soldier crossing the frontier," said the English-language Jerusalem Post, "and there is nothing the Jordanians could do to prevent this from happing."

"It is unthinkable that Israel will not repay the attackers with a strong hand," commented Haaretz.

The papers mentioned the "gentleman's agreement" between Israel and Jordan whereby the two ports are off limits to attack because of their mutual vulnerability.

"It must be made clear to the Jordanians that what goes for Aqaba goes for Eilat," said Haaretz.

Israel's cabinet planned a special session today, presumably to approve plans for retaliatory action.

Israeli military authorities at first thought yesterday's raid was staged by Arab guerrillas based in Jordon. But Cairo took the credit, claiming the "destruction and sinking" of three ships. Cairo spokesmen said the frogmen were Egyptian regulars dropped near the port by aircraft Sunday morning, and that they returned safely to Egyptian territory after accomplishing "their heroic mission successfully."

Israeli officials said five football-sized holes were blown in the hulls of two ships, the beaching of one to keep it from sinking.

Spokesmen in Tel Aviv said the ships were the 1,800-ton coaster Hey Daroma and the 13,700-ton freighter Dalia. The Hey Daroma was holed twice and had to be beached when it started sinking. The Dalia reported three holes, but damage was described as light and it remained at its anchorage. Both crews were removed without casualties.

The Cairo statement claimed that "the targets were enemy vessels which took part in the recent assault against our Suez Gulf position. Those ships were equipped to be used for military operations . . . These ships had carried enemy troops to attack our coastal positions."

Israeli spokesman said the Hey Droma was sometimes used to carry military supplies.

Israeli naval vessels made a search for the frogmen, but Tel Aviv spokesmen said they escaped.

Guideline For Teaching Of Morals Attacked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Parents testifying before a state board of education committee opposed a proposed guideline for teaching morals in the schools on grounds that the guidelines wasn't moral enough.

"At least teachers should be restrained in the classroom from teaching against morality, against manners and against patriotism," said Mrs. Joseph Bean of La Crescenta at the Los Angeles hearing.

Hearings were held throughout the state Saturday on the newest version of a proposed code. Several parents opposed the code because it lacked biblical references.

"The original moral guidelines mention God 68 times," said Wendy Anderson of Ramona, testifying in San Diego, "while the new draft refers to God only once and that in a quotation."

MOSES, UNCLE SAM

Bus Drivers Win Battle Of Beards

NEW YORK (AP) — Are beards on bus drivers beyond the fringe of neatness?

No, an arbitrator ruled, pointing out that Uncle Sam, Moses and Abraham Lincoln were never labeled slobs for their face hair.

Eight bearded bus drivers for the Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority were suspended for their foliage. The authority and the Transport Workers Union sought arbitration from labor lawyer Theodore Kheel.

Any beard is all right if it is neatly trimmed, Kheel ruled yesterday, and the eight beards he surveyed were neat.

"I was not completely persuaded of the soundness of the analogy," Kheel ruled. "A ragged beard can be trimmed back. There is no legal retreat from pregnancy."

The authority had demanded in a 1963 directive that drivers "must be clean-shaven while on duty." It made exceptions for "neatly trimmed mustaches," but forbid "beatnik-type beards, unusually long sideburns or other facial hair that detracts from dignified appearance."

The directive was reissued last May and the crackdown began.

Twenty-one bearded drivers were ordered to shave. Nine refused and were brought before a suspension hearing. One more gave in bare-facedly.

But the bearded eight vowed to fight. "The beard is part of me. I want to be me. This is my happiness," one driver told the hearing.

In 1870, horse-drawn trolley operators were bewhiskered, Kheel noted. And what about Biblical characters, Aristotle, Plato, King Arthur, Father Time, Uncle Sam and Santa Claus? he asked.

"The rule must be interpreted in light of the times," Kheel ruled. "I am of the opinion, and hold, that beards, sideburns or other 'facial foliage' or hair styles are permissible providing they are 'neatly trimmed.'"

Even though some famous men have been depicted with a flowing untrimmed beard, he said, "I do not believe the riding public is quite ready for that."

Fresh Food Labels Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Leonard Farbstein introduced today a bill requiring packagers of perishable foods to put on the label the date after which it can not safely be used.

"The store manager should not be the only one able to recognize fresh food," said the New York Democrat, noting many stores have an internal system of coding foods with a date beyond which they will spoil if left on shelves.

The measure would allow the secretary of health, education and welfare to determine how long a food can be kept before deteriorating and require the packager to print it on the label.

Execution Date Set For Robles

A Jan. 7 execution date has been set for Anthony Jose Robles, San Quentin Prison inmate convicted of killing a Los Angeles store owner during a 1966 robbery. The date was set in Los Angeles by Superior Court Judge William B. Keene.

Robles is the only inmate now on Death Row whose execution date has been set. The California Supreme Court upheld Robles's death penalty in September.

The Death Row population fluctuates around 75 to 80 men as inmates are granted new trials, appeals or stays of execution.

man Catholic Church yesterday.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, a long-time family friend, said yesterday that he had received a telephone call from the family "advising me that he had a very serious setback, and it seems that the good Lord is about to take him in the foreseeable future."

Besides Edward and his family and the Shrivers, other members of the family at the compound included Patricia Kennedy Lawford and Jean Kennedy Smith, whose husband Stephen also was there.

And a family spokesman said Ethel Kennedy, widow of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, had been notified of the elder Kennedy's condition and might return to the Cape also.

Kennedy, a financier and one of the nation's wealthiest men, was U.S. ambassador to Great Britain from 1938 to 1940.

He suffered through the loss of three of his four sons—Joseph P. Jr., his eldest, in a plane crash during World War II; John, felled by an assassin's bullet in 1963; and Robert, also killed by an assassin in Los Angeles in 1968.

Tragedy also befell son Edward last summer when his car plunged into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island, south of the Cape, taking the life of Miss Mary Jo Kopechne.

Family sources said that while Kennedy was told of Robert's assassination—though not immediately—he never was informed of Edward's accident.

Kennedy suffered a stroke in Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 19, 1961, and has been partially paralyzed ever since.

He suffered setbacks from time to time in the years that followed. His latest seizure, a spokesman said, occurred Saturday.

Land Rezoning To Be Studied

Rezoning of 710 acres south of Highway 37 and west of Black Point to planned community will come before the Novato City Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The council was considering the master plan for this area for John E. Kenney when City Att. Clark M. Palmer Jr. on Nov. 4 gave the legal opinion that previous zoning by the county did not apply on annexation to the city. Now the council must rezone it before it can consider the master plan.

Other items on the agenda include the awarding of a contract for the spray pool at Pioneer Memorial Park, funding of the senior citizens program and an appeal by Jack D. Kinner for a 40-foot cutbank for a convalescent hospital on Hill Road at Indian Valley Road.

Novatan Is Booked On Weed Probe

A 22-year-old Novato man was booked into Marin County Jail last night on suspicion of marijuana possession after an off-duty sheriff's deputy allegedly noticed the drug in his auto.

His companion, a 20-year-old Washington youth was booked for investigation of being in a place where marijuana is used.

Richard J. Fountain of 39 Lambert Way was released on his own recognizance. Timothy W. Jones of Puyallup, Wash. was held in lieu of $315 bail.

The arrest occurred at a boat launching ramp on Harbor Drive in Black Point when Deputy Richard Borba, returning from a boating trip noticed a car parked in the middle of the ramp. When Borba went to ask the driver, to move, he saw, a plastic bag containing a green substance, believed to be marijuana, on Fountain's lap and what appeared to be a hand-rolled cigarette.

Fountain was ordered to appear at 2 p.m. in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow. Jones was to appear this afternoon.

150 Hike In JFK's Memory

More than 150 persons hiked to the top of Mount Tamalpais Saturday to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the death of President John F. Kennedy.

Hikers were accompanied by the Piedmont High School Bagpipe Band which gave a brief concert half way up the mountain, according to Mill Valley City councilman Jerome C. Hauke, master of ceremonies for the hike.

At the summit, telegrams from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Cmdr. James T. Lovell, chairman of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, were read, Hauke said.

The annual march was sponsored this year by the Mill Valley Youth Commission.

Youths Arrested For Gang Fight

Two Petaluma youths were arrested last night for disturbing the peace as five police officers and a police dog broke up a fight involving 35 persons at Walnut Park.

Dennis J. Silva, 18, of 315 Seventh Street, was released on $125 bail to appear in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court next Monday at 1:30 p.m. A 16-year-old boy was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Police said the crowd fighting at the park and on F Street near Petaluma Boulevard South was quickly dispersed. No reason for the fight was known. No weapons were involved.

Patrolman Hit; Injuries Minor

A California Highway patrolman from Novato was injured Saturday when he was struck by a car as he was setting out flares for a tow truck, the patrol reported today.

The patrol said he was placing flares on a connector road on the south side of Golden Gate Bridge when he was hit at 4:50 p.m. by a car driven by Fred Casissa, 74, of San Francisco, who braked too hard and skidded. Casissa's car then went into the path of a second tow truck driven by Steven Paul Saft, 28, of San Francisco.

Inside the lander cabin, the astronauts beamed pictures of the control panels, the back packs they'll wear on the moon, window markings that will help them land on the moon and dust particles floating in weightlessness.

Through one window they showed the receding earth, about three- quarters in darkness. And through another they pictured the moon, a thin sliver of light.

"The view is spectacular," Bean commented.

"It seems that we're in suspended animation," Conrad said.

An Accident, Weather And Traffic

Beautiful weather, baseball fans returning to Marin from Candlestick Park and an injury accident on the Golden Gate Bridge got together yesterday afternoon and came up with one of the worst Sunday jams ever to hit the congested corridor.

The accident was at 5:35 p.m., when three airmen returning to Travis Air Force Base hit the rear of a second car, bridge officers reported. One, Robert Campbell, 20, suffered minor injuries, but was not removed from the scene by ambulance until shortly after 6 p.m.

By then, however, northbound traffic had backed up to Lombard Street, onto the Marina, and back to Fulton Street. The glut did not ease until after 6:30 p.m.

California Highway Patrol officers reported that they asked the bridge officers to open a third northbound lane after the accident, but bridge officers said the shift of traffic dividers would have had to have been switched back to give southbound traffic four lanes.

The bridge district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring, said his staff is studying installation of automatic "pop-up" lane dividers. They would cost "several million dollars," he noted.

Airmen Injured In Span Crash

Three Travis Air Force Base airmen were injured yesterday when their car hit the rear of a second car stopped for heavy traffic on Golden Gate Bridge, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Treated for minor head cuts at Park Eemergency Hospital were Lawrence Christopher Corcoran, 20, the driver of the car, and David S. Weinkauf, 24.

The patrol said their car hit the rear of one driven by Richard Frank Czapleski, 27, of 1801 Vistazo West, Tiburon, at 5:30 p.m.

JUDGE

of the cases cited "amount to nothing."

"The real reasons for the high pressure campaign to defeat the Haynsworth nomination are his judicial philosophy and the fact that he is a white, conservative Southerner," Byrd said.

"To be brutally frank," he said, "President Nixon was elected because his political position appeared to be less liberal than that of the candidate of my own party, a fact which apparently is not fully understood by some members of the President's own party in the Senate.

"Now Mr. Nixon is criticized because he does not adopt the politics of the losers in appointing Supreme Court judges. Haynsworth has a conservative image but that, after all, is what our nation voted for."

Debate on the confirmation began Thursday and at week's end an Associated Press poll showed 40 senators against and 37 for Haynsworth.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott, meanwhile, said Nixon should name another southerner and a "strict constructionist" to the high court should Haynsworth's nomination be rejected.

"I said if it should fail," the Pennsylvanian said. "The President fully expects it to be confirmed."

Scott was interviewed yesterday on the ABC program "Issues and Answers."

HIS WISH GRANTED

Susan Anderson(left), a 16-year-old San Rafael High School junior, ran out of gas Friday on Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill and later she was "terrified" when no one stopped to help and thoughts of what to do raced wildly through her mind. Then Fred Katen (right) came along. Katen, who lives in Petaluma and is employed as a truck driver for a road construction outfit currently working on the freeway, offered some of the company's gas. Susan accepted and offered a return favor. Katen laughed it off but Susan persisted. "Well," he said finally, "Id like a chocolate cake." Susan obliged that afternoon.

Firm Agrees To Restudy Center Plans

Representatives of the Bothin Real Estate Co. have agreed to restudy development plans for a shopping center on nine acres at the intersection of Camino Alto and Miller Avenue to provide more commerical recreational development, Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon reported.

Bragdon said the developer's plans for the shopping center were opposed by approximately 12 Mill Valley merchants and land owners at a workshop session held Saturday by the Mill Valley City Council and Planning Commission.

Commissioners and councilmen also opposed a general commercial development, Bragdon said, and asked developers to resubmit plans for a commerical recreational center with general commercial development as a secondary use.

Businessmen argued that the downtown, Miller Avenue and Alto Bowl commercial areas already provide adequate area for commercial development and that development of an additional nine acres could not be justified.

Additionally, Bragdon said, commissioners and councilmen said that because the proposed development will be adjacent to two schools and the city's proposed yacht harbor, a recreational commercial use would be more appropriate.

12-Horse Corral Denied By Zoner

A 16-horse corral in Santa Venetia, next to Gallinas School and Venetia Oaks housing project for the elderly, must be discontinued, County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill ruled this morning.

His ruling may be appealed to the Marin County Planning Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bosch of 11 Meadow Drive operate the horse stable on 10.6 acres at 257 North San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia. The property is owned by the estate of the late Paul Schmidt. Bosch is administrator of the estate.

Residents, Princnpal Virgil Birdsall of Gallinas School and Edwin T. Ryken, executive director of the senior coordinating council, cited danger from runaway horses and health hazards from flies, manure and dust caused by the corral.

Ryken reported that about six months ago, runaway horses nearly charged a group of elderly people on the sidewalk in front of Venetia Oaks.

Birdsall said that last year a school child was bitten by a runaway horse from the corral.

The only person in support of the stables was Bernard Todman of San Francisco, a member of the Marin Sheriff's Posse, who keeps two horses there. He said his stable is always clean, and the fences around the corral have been repaired to prevent runaways.

Mrs. Bosch said the horses have been there for years, and no complaints had been received until now.

Cordill said the property is zoned for suburban agriculture, which permits only three horses. He said the keeping of any horse on a commercial stable basis appears to be detrimental to the health and welfare of the surrounding residential areas.

He denied Bosch's request for a use permit for the stable.

Open Space Policy Will Be Studied

A basic disagreement on future planning of open space will be discussed when the Corte Madera Town Council meets at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The planning commission has submitted its reactions — unfavorable — to the county planning staff's report on open space. The county planners reported that it is "a deception" to imply that local zoning can meet open space needs, and said state or regional zoning will be needed.

The town planning commission last week objected to state or regional zoning, and suggested the council consider dropping out of the City-County Planning Council when the current agreement ends in 1970 because its meetings "have tended to be more of a monologue than the dialogue which was originally intended."

The council also will discuss a proposed policy statement by the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen about city-county services and tax equity. Cities have complained that the county slights incorporated areas in services although collecting taxes from them.

Near-Collision Sparks Brawl, Four Arrests

A near head-on collision between an unmarked Marin County sheriff's car and a vehicle carrying four youths led Thursday to a brawl and the arrest of one of the youths for suspicion of assaulting a police officer, deputies said Saturday.

Arrested was Robert J. Kirby, 19, of 105 Garden Avenue, San Rafael. He posted $6,500 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers Alfred Teixeira and Dennis Sawdon were patrolling on San Pedro Road near China Camp at 3 p.m. when their car was nearly hit by a car driven by Kirby, deputies said.

Upon stopping the car, officers noticed open cans of beer in the vehicle and informed the quartet they were under arrest for possession of alcohol by minors and having an open container of beer in the car.

Kirby, officers reported, resisted arrest by first shoving Teixeira then kicking him in the groin. He allegedly attacked Sawdon.

The officers reported that a second youth, Michael L. Goelz, 18, of 27 Montecillo Drive, San Rafael, yelled "Lets get them" and jumped from the car.

Teixeira, however, drew his revolver and held the other three at bay while Sawdon battled for several minutes to subdue Kirby.

Goelz, Randell L. Pagano, 18, of 195 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, and Bruce D. Smith, 19, of Petaluma, were arrested on suspicion of possession of alcohol by minors.

Sigma Delta Chi Rebukes Agnew For Media Blast

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Sigma Delta Chi, the nation's largest journalistic society, has rapped Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for unconstructive criticism and pledged itself to reject any governmental attempt to control the news or its analysis.

The group, which represents about 19,500 journalism students and newsmen in both the print and electronic media, adopted a resolution rebuking Agnew at the society's 60th annual convention during the weekend.

The resolution said the group "rejects and condemns efforts by the vice president or other government officials to control or impede coverage and the flow of legitimate comment on and analysis of the news."

Decision On Dues Brings Peace To Employees Group

The northern regional conference of the League of County Employees Association agreed to a slight raise in dues to the statewide organization, at a conference held in San Rafael Saturday.

About 60 representatives from the Bay Area to Shasta County were hosted by the Marin County Employees Association at Holiday Inn.

The question of dues was the big issue, said Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association. Dues for some smaller counties will go up, but for Marin, it will remain about the same, said Prevo. Marin County Employees Association dues at present are about $800 per year.

Southern California wanted a raise in dues from each county organization. Northern counties resisted, causing a split at the statewide convention held in Fresno last Oct. 16-18. Prevo said Saturday's decision by the northern bloc to go along with the southern suggestion means that peace has been restored in the state league.

No Objections To Ramp, Float

No objection has been filed to a request to build a pier, ramp and float in Belevedere Cove, the Army Corps of Engineers has reported. The request was made by Western Dock Enterprises of Novato for Scott Newhall of San Francisco.

However. the permit has not been issued, pending comment from the state which could take as long as six more weeks, a corps spokesman said.

Fairfax Marchers Call For Peace

By CHARLES YOAKUM

The little corner restuarant was closed and a small sign in the window explained why.

"No business as usual Nov. 14-15. Vietnam moratorium march."

An elderly couple who had come down for noon coffee Saturday peered into the dark restaurant, read the sign, then sauntered up the street toward an open coffee shop.

Around the corner, about 100 yards away, a handful of people cast apprehensive glances skyward, where dark, threatening clouds were forming, as they busied with a loundspeaker mounted on a flatbed truck.

Then the first sign cautiously poked its head out against the grey skyline, followed quickly by others, as the vanguard of the march reached the top, then started down the gentle slope leading to the Fairfax city park.

There were mostly children and tee-agers in the front, shuffling really rather than marching, but as the procession snaked down into the park, its fat middle bulged with adults.

When the tail of the snake coiled comfortably in the park, more than 300 persons — who had started from various locations around Fairfax but who joined into one parade on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — crowded around the flatbed truck that was to be the center stage for an afternoon rally.

Almost everybody had a sign of some kind. Some big, some small. Almost all carried one message . . . "Peace" Only one sign differed. It read "Only in Fairfax does freedom of speech end at dark," alluding to a court decision Friday which limited the rally to the daylight hours.

The audience was mixed. There were long-haired, barefooted teen-agers, and crew-cut, turtle-necked adults.

While the onlookers raised their collars against the wind and shielded children between their legs, the first speakers neared the microphone.

There was Councilman Adelaide P. Wilson, who said she had decided it was time local political bodies became active in trying to convince the Nixon administration to end the war.

Then there was Fairfax's senior citizen director, Eleanor Jones, who called for the younger generation to "bear with the establishment" and to unite in an effort to end the war.

Then there was Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. who said he was concerned most about the "serious polarization of opinion brought on by this tragic controversy."

Then there was Sir Francis Drake High School teacher Gerald M. Lucey who called for the immediate withdrawal from Vietnam and an "immediate end to this terrible and immoral war."

And in between there was music, some folk, some rock.

By about 3 p.m., the crowd had dwindled. Mothers left to take children home for naps, long overdue. Others were driven away by the cold wind, and threatening rain.

There had been fears there might be violence at the rally, but there was only one untoward moment all afternoon.

About 3 p.m., a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. truck appeared and cut power in the park. Police Chief James R. Orr said someone had complained the hookup was illegal.

However, the turn-on had been cleared with the city and the PG&E district manager in the name of a PG&E official who lives in Fairfax.

The committee had guaranteed payment and members said they thought it had been turned on by PG&E. However, there was no argument as committee members switched to a power source across the street.

At 5:30, with only a handful of faithful remaining, the rally concluded with a candlelight ceremony.

Democrats To Study Endorsement Policy

Circumvention of a state law barring official political organizations from pre primary election endorsements will be considered by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 204 of the Marin County Courthouse, San Rafael.

Notices of the meetings sent to committee members and others said the main purpose of the meeting was "to seek means to have one candidate and only one contending for the nomination for state senator at as early a date as possible."

Section 11702 of the state Election Code declares that state and county central committees "shall not endorse, support or oppose any candidate for nomination by that party for partisan office in the direct primary election."

The notices were written and mailed by the committee's corresponding secretary, Gordon Pusser. Informed by the Independent-Journal of the state code's restruction, Pusser said, "If that's the case, we won't do it."

But he added that the committee "only is doing in the open what other parties do in secret."

The committee's chairman, S. Robert Politzer, objected that Pusser's notice "did not use the correct words." The committee only would discuss "lending suppor to a preprimary endorsing convention," Politzer said.

But Politzer stressed that the while the committee may "sponsor" such a convention, persons attending the convention would represent the volunteer Democratic groups in the three-county senatorial district, and would not represent the central committee.

Politzer acknowledged that memberships in Democratic volunteer groups had fallen, and that the convention instead may be opened up to all registered Democrats, Pusser noted that the two known contenders for the nomination, Richard M. Adams of Belvedere and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, would attend and "test the wind." Pusser said one of the two reportedly may drop his candidacy, but he declined to say which one.

The senate seat at stake next year is held by Republican John F. McCarthy of San Rafael.

Unification Vote On Board Agenda

Proposed legislation to eliminate mandatory school unification elections in California will be discussed at Wednesday's meeting of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the county school board's office in Corte Madera.

The committee, which agreed to back the legislation at its Oct. 15 meeting, has asked for responses on the proposal from all county committees on district organization and Marin school boards.

Letters and resolutions received in answer to the inquiry will be presented and considered at the meeting.

The committee will also elect a new chairman and vice chairman.

A MESSAGE OF IMPORTANCE TO ALL PEOPLE AT THE REBELLIOUS AGE.

There comes a time in your life when it seems absolutely right to rebel against old ideas. Against all the things that seem to be stacked up against your generation.

Your Faith echoes the very feelings you probably have right now. About injustice. Inhumanity. Poverty. Cruelty. Prejudice. Hate.

That's why your Faith is the very thing you should be working with.

It can strengthen you. It can make things happen. In yourself, and in all the world around. But only if you let it. And only if you put it to work.

Klein Urges Media Debate On Coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's criticism of network television news coverage raises "a legitimate question," but one that should be debated within the industry, says a spokesman for President Richard M. Nixon.

But should the industry fail to scrutinize itself, said Herbert G. Klein, "you do invite the government to come in. I'd like not to see that happen."

REEXAMINE CALL

"He (Agnew) was proposing that the networks, and I think you can go beyond that, all the news media, needs to re-examine itself in the format it has and its approach to problems of news to meet the current issues of the day," he added.

Klein, a former newspaper editor and now Nixon's director of communications, said yesterday of Agnew's contention that a "small and unelected elite" in the national television networks is abusing its power over public opinion:

"I think there's a legitimate question to be debated within the industry. I would be opposed to government participation in it. But in the industry, whether we're doing a good enough job, whether we're being objective enough and whether we might not spend more time in self-examination."

Klein appeared on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation." Meanwhile, a top Republican leader was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

SCOTT'S VIEWS

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Agnew's Des Moines, Iowa, speech last Thursday "brought out the issue that to a degree television isn't always objective.

"You aren't. And it isn't your role to be," Scott told his interviewers. "I think he has asked everybody in the country to look at television and compare it with the press and say to television that 'we hope you will give us the straight news . . . but when you're editorializing say so.'"

Scott also said he would oppose any attempt by government to censor the news.

The vice president was accused by some network officials of advocating news censorship when he said: "Perhaps it is time that the networks were made more responsible to the views of the nation and more responsible to the people they serve."

REVIES PLAN

Agnew, however, said he was not proposing government censorship.

NBC board chairman Walter D. Scott said in New York yesterday he did not interpret Agnew's speech as a call for censorship, but for "restrictions we don't agree with.

"Implicit in the vice president's speech was a call for restrictions on the ability to conduct journalistic enterprise, the NBC chief said.

Pegging his speech to network analysis and comment on Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam policy address, Agnew also said: "They are challenged to turn their critical powers on themselves . . . toward improving the quality and objectivity of news presentation."

WAS HIS OWN

Klein said Agnew's speech was his own, but acknowledged the Nixon administration is concerned about television news coverage of its activities.

"I think that there's concern," he said. "It's a concern among all the American people as is evidenced by response to the vice president's comments, which was a tremendous outpouring."

Cat Burglar Hits Shop Inside Walls Of Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A cat burglar hid in the cupola of St. Peter's Basilica last night, looted a souvenir and jewelry shop on the cathedral's roof and escaped through a side door early today.

The Vatican said he got away with $8,000 to $9,600 in gold and religious objects and cash. A small part of loot was money, said the Vatican press spokesman, Msgr. Fausto Vallainc, adding that none of the Vatican treasures were missing.

The thief apparently made no attempt to break into the sacristy on the main floor of the basilica, where the so-called "treasure of St. Peter's" is kept. The treasury is locked at night and extensively rigged with burglar alarms, making illegal entry extremely difficult.

The treasury contains vestments, missals, chalices, monstrances, crucifixes and similar religious objects. Its most ancient possession is an 8th century bronze crucifix set with jewels and containing a fragment of what is aid to be the original cross.

Vatican sources said the thief apparently entered the church with the crowds yesterday and hid on scaffolding inside the cupola, which is being restored. After the cathedral closed for the night, he presumably went through the door leading out to the roof and went to the shop at the base of the dome.

After the theft, he apparently came down an interior stairway, found a set of keys and let himself out through a side door called the Door of the Dead. It was found open at 6 a.m. by a gendarme making his rounds.

The doors of the basilica were kept closed for an hour and a quarter later than usual this morning while officers checked the premises.

The theft was the first of its kind at St. Peter's. Another souvenir shop was burglarized at night several years ago, but it is located outside the basilica, on its north side, near the Vatican post office.

A week ago there were reports that priceless paintings had been stolen from Pope Paul's own apartment, but the Vatican denied the reports.

PG&E Requesting Underground Cable

Announcing the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe.

If it wasn't for the way it copes with panic stops and unexpected curves, it would be just another beautiful automobile.

The announcement of the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe might easily become lost amid the din of pronouncements like "daringly different," "startlingly bold," and "dramatically new" which emanate from Detroit each year at new car introduction time.

But it hasn't escaped the notice of automotive experts and Mercedes-Benz enthusiasts. They recognize that the 250 Coupe introduces the pure, simple and honest styling of a Mercedes-Benz in a classical coupe configuration.

Sharply raked windscreen and formal rear pillars of the 250 Coupe are attractive indeed. But the true beauty lies in the way it performs in a tight situation.

Reacts professionally under stress

The rake of the windscreen and the graceful slope of the formal rear pillars give the Coupe a certain élan. Yet Mercedes-Benz scorns the concept of automobiles that rest their reputation on beauty—but then turn ugly in a tight situation. The true beauty of the Coupe, they insist, is the professional way it reacts under the stress of an emergency. A beauty you have to experience to appreciate.

You know the feeling. Another driver runs a stop sign. Or brake lights suddenly flash ahead of you on a busy, high-speed expressway. No matter how beautiful your car is on the outside, your heart shudders momentarily as you make what is aptly termed a "panic" stop.

You may still get that feeling the first time a similar situation confronts you in the 250 Coupe. But after you experience the enormous stopping power, you begin to appreciate the priceless value of this automobile. For suddenly you are a more confident driver.

Disc brakes reduce fade

Hopefully, you will never need the heroic stopping power of disc brakes. But Mercedes-Benz refuses to just hope. So they insist on attaching a massive disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Automotive engineers acknowledge the superiority of disc brakes over common drum brakes.

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in smoking panic stop situations—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus resist fading.

Racing car suspension

If you ever built a soapbox racer, you know the principle of a solid-beam rear axle—one wheel at each end of a rigid shaft.

In combination with springs and shock absorbers, a solid-beam axle is a simple, relatively inexpensive way to suspend the rear of an automobile. The design enjoys widespread acceptance—in fact all domestic sedans use solid-beam rear axles.

But like most simple solutions, it raises other problems. You have to choose between boulevard ride and surefooted handling. Soften the suspension and you sacrifice road holding—so important in those circumstances that demand sharp reflexes from both car and driver. Stiffen the suspension and the ride becomes unduly harsh. You improve cornering—at the expense of your backbone.

But there is another way. Independent rear suspension. Put four joints in the axle to allow each rear wheel to move over bumps independently of the other just as the front wheels do.

Enjoy driving again

The sophisticated braking and suspension systems that make you a more confident driver also work to make driving enjoyable again. In an era when most automobiles are designed to transport you from point A to point B in ultimate isolation and boredom, the 250 Coupe is a revelation.

With its 2.8-liter overhead camshaft engine, the responsive and obedient Coupe is engineered for those red-blooded souls who refuse to relegate their driving skills to monotonous turnpikes. Designed for more than just "straight line" driving, Mercedes-Benz automobiles exhibit the versatility of a decathlon champion under all types of driving conditions.

So avoid the expressways when the mood strikes you. Take that interesting back road and enjoy scenery more dramatic than someone else's exhaust pipe. You'll find the 250 Coupe and all Mercedes-Benz motor cars make driving something to do—not something that must be done.

A lasting investment

It takes a bit longer than your first refreshing drive to appreciate the durability of the 250 Coupe. Perhaps 50,000 miles or so. Then you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle. For the Coupe, like every Mercedes-Benz, is not bolted into being like most cars, but fused into a single rattle-thwarting unit by thousands of welds.

But Mercedes-Benz engineers don't stop there. They stubbornly insist that each component be designed and inspected to be as staunch as the next. Vital engine parts are probed with X rays to spot invisible flaws. Tolerances are checked on special marble tables with instruments so precise a human hair propels the recording device off the scale. Even items like washers, screws and dashboard knobs are regularly sliced in half and analyzed by infrared spectrography.

The end result of this demand for perfection is not something that you can see, but something you will appreciate—in time.

Understanding Mercedes-Benz styling

Ten years ago, rocket-ship taillights, bumper exhausts and wraparound windshields were "in." Today it's decal "racing" stripes, peekaboo headlights and spoilers that don't really spoil anything at legal speeds. Tomorrow—who knows?

Mercedes-Benz does not employ "mod" designers to create and pander to these fads. For fads seldom last more than a couple of years. Certainly not the lifetime of a Mercedes-Benz.

Example: The graceful roof was engineered as an integral part of a sturdy safety zone surrounding the occupants.

Example: The hood covers the engine. Period. You don't push around yards of sheet metal in front of the radiator for the sake of imagined status.

Drive the 250 Coupe for ten years—and it will be on its way to becoming a "classic"—not a laughable reminder of passé fetishes.

Cab Driver Dies In Fall From Boat

A San Francisco man died yesterday at 7:15 p.m. in the Clipper Yacht Harbor in Sausalito after he fell off his boat and hit his head in the edge of the dock, the Marin County Coroner's Office reported.

The coroner's report said Mitchell Parhomenko, 67, a San Francisco cab driver, became ill aboard his 28-foot cabin cruiser and radioed the Coast Guard for aid at 5:25 p.m.

After the Coast Guard had towed the boat into the yacht harbor, Parhomenko's wife, Lee, went to get the car to drive Parhomenko home. While she was gone, he apparently attempted to climb off the boat by himself, fell and may have drowned, the coroner said. An autopsy report is pending.

Funeral arrangementw are pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Novato Unified School District trustees will dedicate a right-of-way for widening Hill Road along the south side of Hill Junior High School when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the district administration offices.

The City of Novato asked for the right-of-way so the street can be widened to the development of Paul Pickaat. The right-of-way will include land at the intersection of Hill Road and Diablo Avenue which was constructed into a street, but has never been dedicated to the city.

Other items on a short agenda include a cafeteria report, the elementary library program and a discussion of board policies.

Robert D. Torrey, who had been assistant superintendent for 12 years, was named acting superintendent on the resignation of Supt. Chester G. Carlisle on Aug. 8.

The trustees will also hold a general discussion on the district building program, after the failure of past bond issues, and the use of the portable classrooms.

Other items to come before the board include a report on workshops and plans for salary negotiations with employees.

San Bernardino Curfew Lifted

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — The five-day old dusk-to-dawn curfew, imposed during scattered violence on the predominantly Negro West Side, was lifted this weekend at the request of Negro City Councilman Norris P. Gregory Jr.

Mayor Al C. Ballard Saturday called off the curfew after racial tension subsided in the two square mile area, which was the scene of five nights of scattered rock and bottle throwing.

Gregory, speaking for "the collective voice of the black community," asked the mayor to lift the curfew after meeting earlier Saturday with black youths and adults in the community, comprising a group called Black Fathers, Inc., a Negro men's group formed after racial violence had flared last month at San Bernardino High School.

Park Vandalism

Court Changes Mind On Obscenity Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court issued an order today indicating it was about to review its position on obscenity—but two and a half hours later the court announced it had made a mistake.

The court announced first that it would hear an appeal from a Watertown, N.Y., grocery and sundry store operator, Louis Carlos, who was convicted of selling girlie magazines.

Later the court issued a new order saying without explanation, that the earlier order was revoked. A court spokesman said the switch was the result of an error but would not elaborate.

Putting the Carlos case on the calendar for argument would have been a major step since in similar cases in the past the court has summarily reversed convictions without going through a formal hearing.

The case remains pending before the court, which could later reject the appeal, overturn the conviction or set a hearing. Setting a hearing would give the court a chance to say more on the obscenity question, one of the most controversial issues currently before the courts.

This was the third such slip-up by the court this term. In October the court announced it had taken on an Alabama criminal case, then said it had made a mistake and dismissed the case the following week.

Later in October the court announced it had taken on a draft case but said at the end of the day it was an error. It has done nothing about the case since.

Suspects Booked On Grand Theft

A Lagunitas man and an East Bay man were booked into Marin County Jail early this morning for investigation of grand theft.

Lance L. Brown, 22, of Alto Road, and James R. Watkins, 22, of El Sobrante were arrested about 7 a.m. after sheriff's deputies discovered them in a truck allegedly containing 18 sheets of plywood taken from a 20th Century Homes building site in Mill Valley.

On a tip from a neighbor, the deputies went to the site on Montford Avenue and made the arrest.

Both were held to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Pair Jailed For Exploring Span

Two San Francisco men who tried to walk on the underside of the Golden Gate Bridge Saturday to study the understructure found they would have to learn about it some other way.

The two, Arthur Robert Martin, 37, and Larry O. Brandon, 34, were seen going over the rail and ordered to return. Martin did, but Brandon refused and officers reported they had to lift him over the rail.

Both were booked into San Francisco City Prison on suspicion of trespassing and Brandon was also booked on suspicion of being drunk in public.

Hiking Salaries Of Six To Be Reviewed

Salary raises for six elected county officials, ranging from $3,400 to $6,800 a year, will be considered by the Marin County Board of Supervisors tomorrow.

If the supervisors adopt the new salaries, they must do so before February, when filing starts for the next four-year terms for the posts, according to County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney.

Two-step raises will be recommended by county personnel director Maren Rinne, one to take effect Jan. 1, 1970, and the second effective Jan. 1, 1973.

The proposed salaries: Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, now paid $22,000 a year, to $25,200 in 1970 and to $27,800 in 1973.

Sheriff, Louis P. Mountanos, $21,000 now, to $24,000 in 1970 and $26,400 in 1973.

Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley T. Fontez, $19,500 now, to $22,725 in 1970 and $22,300 in 1973.

County Clerk, George Gnoss, same as Fontez.

County Recorder, Niel T. Giocomini, $15,000, now to $19,350 in 1970 and $22,300 in 1973.

Coroner-Public Administrator Donovan O. Cooke, $13,000 now, to $15,150 in 1970 and $16,400 in 1973.

The supervisors will open a long agenda at 9:15 a.m. tomorrow when Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, will present the board a $17,000 check from the state for Bolinas Lagoon, now under county jurisdiction.

The supervisors are also to pick seven youths to serve on the Marin Youth Commission from a list of 11 presented by the commission's screening committee.

The board will also hold hearings on alignment of the Miller Avenue extension in Tamalpais Valley, a special assessment district for sewer installation at Oceana Marin subdivision at Dillon's Beach, and future street width lines on Merrydale Road, Los Ranchitos.

The board also will discuss alignment of South San Pedro Road at Bayside Acres, and a recommendation by the Public Works Director Donald R. Frost that the Los Ranchitos Road entry to Highway 101 be closed.

A hearing on the request by Smith Ranch airport for commuter flights to San Francisco has been withdrawn.

Three Are Critical From Santa Cruz Gang Rumble

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Three persons were in critical condition today, two of them shot in the head in a clash between Negroes and a band of motorcyclists.

It appeared simply a fight between two groups, one of local blacks and another "either members or followers" of the Hells' Angels, said detective Lt. Charles Scherer.

Just how it started was not known, officers reported. "Some one said something and one thing led to another," said police Sgt. William Pinard.

Police arrived soon after the fighting erupted and controlled the two groups quickly, Pinard said.

By that time, three persons had been downed by bullets. Wounded in the head were Larry Smith, 17-year-old black, and Elizabeth Bigwood, 19, white, both of Santa Cruz. Shot in the stomach was Larry Wilder, 19, white, of Santa Cruz, whose condition was listed as fair at Santa Cruz Hospital.

Also listed as critical was Rick Gutierrez, 28, white, of Oakland, who had been hit on the head with a blunt instrument.

Two blacks, Lewis Jones, 22, and William S. Blam, 18 were arrested and booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

The clash involved about 12 blacks and 15 cyclists, Sherer said.

A .22-caliber rifle was found at the scene and investigators believe a .38-caliber gun also was used, he added.

Quarterly Service Taken By Library

The Mill Valley Library is now subscribing to the Congressional Quarterly Service, a news research service which provides an up-to-date thorough and objective account of national government and politics, according to librarian Dorothy Thomas.

Although the service focuses on congress in operation, it also encompasses national politics, presidential activity, major judicial decision, lobbying and reviews of significant national issues, Mrs. Thomas said. A weekly listing of how members of Congress vote on roll calls is also provided.

Clausen Given Distinguished Service Award

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, today was presented the Distinguished Service Award by the board of trustees of the Americans for Constitutional Action.

The award is given every two years to legislators whose voting records in Congress support legislation which strengthens and defends the principles of the Constitution.

Admiral Ben Moreel, chairman of ACA board, made the award in Washington. He praised Clausen for "devotion to the fundamental principles of good government which serve to promote individual rights and responsibilities, a sound dollar, a growing economy and a desire for victory over Communist agression."

Clausen, serving his fourth term in Congress, is a member of the House public works, and interior and insular affairs committees.

Goals On Agenda

The Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Civic Center to discuss goals and priorities for the commission with the new co-ordinator, Gwen Monroe.

Urbanization Continues To Swallow Land

Marin lost 40 per cent of its cultivated agricultural land to urbanization between 1960 and 1966, according to an agricultural resources report released by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The report indicated Marin lost 8.6 per cent of its land area to new subdivisions during that period.

Land in field crops in Marin dropped from 5,944 acres in 1960 to 3,500 acres in 1966 in Marin, the study showed. Marin's total acreage is 332,800, nearly half of it in livestock production, including dairying. Marin had 167,817 acres in pasture and range in 1960, which droped in 162,441 acres in 1966, according to the study.

The Bay Area loses an average of 13,000 acres of agricultural land a year to other uses, the report said, but farm production has remained constant at $300 million a year because farmers have turned to higher yeild crops and increased productivity.

The study, noting that a third of the Bay Area's best farm land has been converted to urban use, suggested a detailed method local planners can use to determined actual costs and benefits of keeping or developing agricultural land in future.

The study recommended that the value of agricultural land as an open space resource be considered by local governments, as well as its value in production, flood plain protection, airshed quality protection, visual attractiveness and as a tourist attraction.

A recent state law giving landowners a tax break if they promise to keep the land in agricultural use for 10 years has been only moderately successful in keeping land in farm use, the study noted. The study said Marin has more agreements under the law than any other Bay Area county, although a greater acreage in Santa Clara County is covered by the agreements.

Essex Street Rezone Before Hub Council

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing on rezoning from single family to planned community of three acres on Essex Street at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

Scope Of Biblical Drawings Powerful

By LAURA DEVENDORF

There is almost nothing to them — just a few black lines on an expanse of white. Yet Eleanor Dickinson's huge, life-size drawings of biblical characters have more flesh, soul and substance than many more elaborately drawn figures or even painted work.

An exhibit of these unusually powerful Old Testament figures is being shown through Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. And though the selection is small, there is enough to describe the artist's total empathy with human emotion.

Her figures, while inspired by biblical people and events, are more simple human beings in the act of caring and loving, of meeting pain and punishment and of responding with all the despair, fortitude and hope within the human psyche.

The emotions are complex but Mrs. Dickinson's spartan style gives them a directness and reality which is gripping. Just a few sure lines and the Job she shows fallen naked to the ground, head in hands, personifies the anguish of his words, "If a man dies, may he live again? . . . I loathe my life; I will not live forever. Let me alone for my days are a breath."

In "The Awakening of Adam," the head lifting from the earth seems to look up into a new life, awed, and not a little anxious.

Mrs. Dickinson's characters wear no masks. The looming figure of "Lot's Wife," as she looks behind her at home and children, is a face mingling resignation with pain. It is a face heavy with living.

With equal agility the artist composes others which are fresh with youth or tense with anger. Or, as in the leanly drawn lovers in "The Song of Songs Which is Solomon's," they are filled with a protective, regenerative power flowing through each other that states all there is to say about love at its most perfect.

Through body attitudes, eyes, beautifully expressive hands and faces Mrs. Dickinson covers it all in a clean knowledgeable stroke of line. The beauty of what she does is in its lack of overstatement, and her simplicity is inspiring.

Hours of the exhibit are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 9:30 to 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Writer Of Andy Hardy Films Dies

Ruskin also wrote the song, "I May Be Wrong, But I Think You're Wonderful." With Oscar Hammerstein II, he wrote "Ballyhoo." He came to Hollywood in 1931 after selling his first work to Florenz Ziegfeld for the 1923 Follies.

Ruskin also wrote the screenplay for "The Postman Always Rings Twice" and "Three Men In White."

Sebastopol Driver Hurt In Collision

Hazel E. Campo, 64, of Sebastopol, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma with multiple cuts and bruises suffered in a two-car collision on Highway 101 near Cotati, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the accident occurred at 5:05 p.m. Friday when Mrs. Campo swerved her car to avoid a slow-moving auto and collided with a car driven by Everett D. Nell, 35, of 29 Cherry Street, Petaluma. Mrs. Campo was thrown from her car by the impact.

Westover Ensemble —A Rare Concert

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A new chamber group, the Westover Chamber Music Ensemble, presented yesterday afternoon in the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater, a rare concert in the college concert-lecture series.

Consisting of four violinists, two violists and two cellists, the ensemble was founded by Wynn Westover of Sausalito, known in Marin music circles as a teacher of music in the adult education program of the college and for his own system of sight reading and ear training.

Of late he has been concentrating on conducting orchestras, using his own theories on breaking down barriers between performers and audiences, but in this concert he appeared as violinist, turning over the duties of conductor to Randall Keith Horton. Horton is founder and conductor of the Black Madonna Symphony Orchestra in San Francisco.

I was hoping to see Westover's theories about breaking down barriers in practice, but while he did introduce the various numbers with pleasing informality and used the technique of singing major themes of two works and requesting the audience to read them with him, this particular concert was not suited to demonstrating the technique. The audience was too small and too scattered throughout the large auditorium to permit success.

The program of late romantic French chamber music of Ernest Chausson and Lucien Capet was interesting and unusual, performed, however, with varying degrees of success.

Though certain elements could be pointed out to make inclusion of Brahms' sonata "The Rain," Opus 78, with the French works relevant, I felt it could have been omitted, since the program was too long. The sonata was played by Westover on the violin and pianist Norma Di Tano.

The best parts of the concert were the Chausson and Capet songs sung by lyric coloratura Joan Smith and the Concerto in D Major, Opus 21, for piano and violin by Chausson.

In the "Chanson Perpetuelle" by Chausson and "Nuages" and "Wild As The Wind; And Soft As The Falling Snow" by Capet, Miss Smith, whom I have heard many times, showed she has achieved the maturity and assurance of a full fledged concert artist. The songs were well suited to her lovely vocal quality and talent for sensitive interpretation. She was ably accompanied at the piano by Judy Ballora.

Westover, playing the violin, and Miss Di Tano at the piano, accompanied by the ensemble, were more successful, despite some confusion in the last movement, with the richly sensuous romanticism of the Chausson concerto than with the cool elegance of the Capet Quatuor N. 1, Opus 10.

Both works were conducted well with rhythmic grace by Horton, but his frequent hitting of the music stand with his baton, whether accidental or deliberate, was disconcerting.

Miss Di Tano, who was at the piano for all but the songs, was an accomplished pianist.

Misner Renamed To GOP Leader

Gerald E. Misner of San Anselmo was reelected general chairman for 1970-71 of the First Congressional District Rupublican Committee at the group's annual meeting Saturday in Ukiah.

Robert D. Huber of Mill Valley was reelected legal counsel of the volunteer group, which has about 300 active members.

Misner, Huber and Norman B. Livermore Jr. of San Rafael, secretary of the state Resources Agency, were awarded life memberships. None of them, under the 1967 redistricting of California's congressional districts, lives in the First District.

Requests On Tap

A request to build a sporting goods store and offices for a termite and tree service business will be considered by the Fairfax Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Fairfax Women's Club. The application is by Meldon Embury and Harry Brogioli.

DRAMA REVIEW

A Tribal Bash Novato Style

By GARY TISCHLER

The Novato Community Players put on something called "Far Out Fling" Saturday at the Novato Community Center. It looked like a grand tribal bash in which half the population of Novato participated and as such, it was good, mostly clean fun.

I suppose, if you come with an extremely severe set of eyes, you could also say it was terribly amateurish, pointless, obvious and long, but I don't think that's the whole idea of this original revue written, according to the credits by director Lei Mann and "Friends."

It struck me that this was no night for purists, not with ladies in net stockings selling champagne and popcorn, and hawkers taking orders for beer in buckets. I would assume that everybody was supposed to have a good time, get just a little tipsy ogle the dancing girls and clap for friends and relatives on the stage.

As such, it was all innocent fun. Like a child's birthday party, a New Year's Eve bash in the summer, Ted Mack gone West, faint reminders of a respectable burlesque house, theater in the barn, and jokes by a barbecue. It was all a little rowdy, sometimes a little naughty, songs every two minutes, and three drinking intermissions hung around a threadbare chase plot that gave the designers a chance to throw in several exotic sets that ranged from Japan, Araby, and Spain to the moon, which is pretty far out.

The story, as far as it went, concerned a scientist who has discovered something called Super X, which half the world is after. Which leads to a hectic chase with Russian, British, Japanese, Arabic, Spanish and Hippie spies in tow. Otto Haiungs does a beautiful imitation of a bewildered, latter-day Dagwood Bumstead in the role of the scientist while Vivienne Terry is his panting lady-friend.

The exotic settings give vent to equally exotic musical numbers, spiced with dancing girls of considerable variety. There was "Sukiyaki", done quite well by John Bernardi, and "If I Were A Rich Man," a Jewish song from "Fiddler on the Roof," as sung by Scott Wright as an Arab beggar. The Spanish set piece got a couple of ovations with J. D. Nichols singing "Spanish Eyes" twice.

Elaine Bernardi had a funny number in the continuing role of Verushka, the bosomy Russian lady spy, singing "I Spied For You" as in "I Cried for You."

There were also God-awful puns, a gay "Gay Cabellero" and a yodeler in the grand finale, which should make the Swiss happy.

Cavanagh's Condition Reported As Improved

Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital reported his condition as good. Mrs. Cavanagh said that he is expected to remain in the hospital for another week for a thorough rest. Cavanagh is now permitted visitors.

Chance Now Looks Good For Saving Seashore

The chances look very good that Point Reyes National Seashore will be saved — all 54,000 acres of it.

The bill to appropriate $38-365,000 to complete purchase of the land designated eight years ago for the park, which cleared the national parks and recreation subcommittee of the House last Friday, has been ticketed for "priority action" by the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

This means that Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D—Colo., who heads that committee, has put his weight behind it. And when Representative Aspinall gets behind a bill, his committee does not say him nay.

THERE IS STILL a long road ahead for the measure — House passage, Senate concurrence, presidential signature. But opposition is lacking, so the way may not be too hard even though long.

The many, in Marin and elsewhere, who have lobbied for the measure should not take premature satisfaction from subcommittee approval and give up their efforts. We feel sure they will not do so.

The bundles of Save Our Seashore petitions collected by the committee headed by Peter H. Behr should make their impression on congressmen and the President.

They represent a genuine "grass roots" lobby — a thing rare enough so that those in Washington give it respect.

IT IS A LONG time since the acreage was set aside for the seashore and Congress appropriated $19,-135,000 to buy it — a figure which those in the National Park Service who set it were told at the time was far too low.

The cost now is more than it should be — as usually turns out to be the case when insufficient money is put aside initially.

The land purchase program the government followed may not have been wise. A key section of beachland almost escaped through subdivision while those in Washington argued and passed the buck. But now the pressure must be kept on to complete the entire purchase.

THAT HAS BEEN well recognized here in Marin. It seems almost like a chapter out of ancient history to recall the objections of some landowners and others to spending public money for a "fog-bound shore that nobody would care to visit anyhow."

In the current chapter, none of that has been heard from Marin — though some old echoes have rolled out of Sacramento now and then.

The drive for completion of the land purchase has seen remarkable unanimity in this county which is so often beset by neighborly quarrels.

A GREAT MANY people deserve credit for the push that may save the seashore. Certainly near the head of the list must be Rep. Don. H. Clausen, R-First District, who has worked tirelessly on behalf of this project that was initiated by his predecessor, the late Clem Miller.

All the people who led the drive — and all who signed the petitions — deserve credit. Their reward will be deep satisfaction if the bill goes through, is signed by the President, and the stretch of the Point Reyes Peninsula is preserved as open country for this and future generations.

Mansfield Gives Democrats New Direction In Senate

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Democrats are significantly reshaping party policy to keep control of Congress in next year's elections.

Their newly developing strategy on three main points is this:

1. They are deliberately taking the play away from the Senate Democratic doves in the conviction that a peace-at-any-price image will be a grave political liability.

2. They are turning away from nearly automatic hostility to the Nixon administration to selective but meaningful support.

3. They are acting to move policy toward the Democratic political center and away from the left.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield isn't talking a lot about this, but he is doing it by taking more active and decisive personal command of party leadership than at any time since he succeeded to the leadership nine years ago.

WHY IS MANSFIELD turning his party in these directions? Apparently he concluded that the Democrats, especially in the Senate, were slipping into a do-nothing trench and heckling the President instead of helping the nation, and that such a course, being both bad policy and bad politics, would lead to party disaster.

Here is what he has done already:

HE DID WHATEVER was necessary to insure that the Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would veto Chairman Fulbright's repeated intention to use public hearings to attack the President's peace efforts.

He vetoed Senator Kennedy's efforts to keep his draft-reform hearings going so long that nothing would be done to adopt the President's proposed lottery system. He induced both Senators Kennedy and John Stennis, the powerful chairman of the Armed Services Committee—both draft-reform delayers—to give up their tactics and support quick passage of a bill authorizing the lottery as Mr. Nixon asked. All of this was done in Mansfield's office at Mansfield's urging with Mansfield's influence.

Again, Mansfield is putting the majority of Senate Democrats strongly behind President Nixon's Vietnam peace plan and against the moratorium advocates of hasty withdrawal. He blandly detoured the Foreign Relations Committee and put the extremist Democratic doves—Fulbright, Gene McCarthy, George McGovern and others—into the background. He accomplished this by amending and then joining to support a fully bipartisan Senate resolution, proposed by Republican leader Sen. Hugh Scott, endorsing the President's peace efforts and urging him to press for a mutual cease-fire which he is already doing.

WHETHER OR NOT there is a new Richard Nixon, there is certainly a new Mansfield—or at least a Mansfield determined to use the powers of his leadership to save the Democratic Party from putting itself in the position of frustrating the President's peace plan and from arousing the ire of the voters by devoting itself so constantly to opposition to the President's legislative requests.

Mansfield is, of course, fully aware that the Senate leader whose party does not control the White House can be a tower of influence on national decisions and can strengthen his party for future elections more by discriminating support of the President than by indiscriminate opposition.

Sen. Everett Dirksen proved this under President Johnson. Sen. Lyndon Johnson proved it under President Eisenhower, and in foreign policy Sen. Arthur Vandenberg proved it under President Truman.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Smog Readings Spotlight Problem

Thank you for your newest service to our community: Daily publication of air pollution readings. This could be the greatest long-range good the I-J has ever given Marin County.

Your publication of these readings evidences your awareness of this real and growing problem — and of too many citizens' total disregard of it. "Not in Marin" is a myth difficult to eliminate.

One large group acutely — and painfully — aware of our polluted air is comprised of suffers from obstructive airway diseases such as emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma. Representatives of this rapidly expanding group attend Marin's Christmas Seal-financed outpatient clinic, and I have observed that without exception each of these patients suffers a "bad spell" every time the pollution level rises . . .

With the I-J spotlighting this urgent health problem, surely our citizens will be sufficiently aroused to demand official corrective action — for example, stringent emission controls now on private cars pending government-spurred or sponsored development of steam and/or electric cars, plus development of adequate mass transportation throughout the Bay Area.

It's truly a matter of life and breath.

Firemen, Police Respond Quickly

My wife and I wish to extend our greatest appreciation to the Fairfax Fire Department and the police department for the greatest maximum efficiency possible which was extended to us by the aforementioned departments.

Early Tuesday morning (Nov. 11) we found our son lifeless in his bed. While I attempted artificial respiration, my wife called the emergency fire number which was stenciled on our phone. As she hung up the receiver we could hear the siren. Upon their arrival our neighbor, Tom Bogue, summoned the police department for a vehicle to rush our son to Marin General Hospital. Their response was equally efficient.

We wanted this printed so that our neighbors might sleep more easily knowing that those people responsible are doing an outstanding service for our community.

These days there are rash decisions and easy criticisms of the police and fire departments which we feel are unfair. They are doing a wonderful job and we feel a deep gratification and commend them highly.

Rights Eroded By Council Action

I am the person who was to have conducted the Candlelight Vigil for Peace and in memory of the men who died in Vietnam this Saturday night in Fairfax. I was not able to be at the city council meeting Monday evening, when the decision to allow the observance was reversed, much to my shock. I wrote the council last week telling them of my responsibitlty and plans for the vigil, and asking for any particular instructions.

I see two of my constitutionally guaranteed rights being denied by the invoking of some obscure ordinances. I do not plot the overthrow of our government, I am not a dupe of the international Communist conspiracy, I am simply a concerned taxpaying citizen who does not agree with U.S. foreign policy. I am concerned about the insidious erosion of my rights in this precious republic. The stifling of dissent by the Fairfax City Council, the making of mental health policy by the board of supervisors beyond the public view, and the refusal of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District to reveal the major sources of ths health hazard to myself and my family, all constitute this kind of erosion of our rights.

We invite destructive confrontations when we deny basic rights, Why is the working of real democracy viewed with such hostility and fear by so many of us.

Seashore Efforts Bearing Fruit

Thank you for the outstanding publicity you have been regularly giving to the efforts to perserve the Point Reyes National Seashore. Many persons, both public and private, have given a great deal of effort to save this part of our county for our own and future generations. For several years, the members of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, both in Marin County and elsewhere, have been contributing to the campaign to preserve this area. One of the primary purposes, of course, of the Native Sons and Native Daughters is to help to preserve both California's historic and natural heritages.

Hopefully, now it appears that the united efforts of all will meet with success. Your own cooperation has made a significant contribution.

Pollution Index Related To Burning

If Mr. M. A. Raiser, in his letter of Nov. 1, "Burning Ban Delay Would Help," would check the CPI figures for Marin County for the month of October, he would see that the first light rain fell on Oct. 10, a Friday. The CPI that day was 28. Over that weekend Marinites took the light rain as a signal to open burn, even through the ban was not officially lifted until Nov. 6. The CPI rose to 46 and 42 respectively. The next Monday through Thursday the readings were again down (26, 18, 28, 35). It rained heavily that week and the next week a combination of unusually warm weather causing an inversion and widespread open burning (despite the hot weather) ran our CPI up to 69 on Monday and 93 on Tuesday compared to San Francisco's 65 and 88. During the rest of the week we again dropped down to 27, 18, 18, and again the weekend saw a 50, 30. Halloween week saw a 25, 24, 39, with a sharp increase Thursday through Sunday (63, 55, 49, 40).

If Mr. Raiser would worry less about his own personal inconvenience and more about our frightening pollution problem, he would quickly see the urgent need to insist that local cities take the responsibility of providing alternative disposal methods . . .

Atomic Power Plants Pose Needless Hazards

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The growing dangers to American cities of nuclear fuels in fission-heated electric generating plants have been brought home to the public as never before in two recently published books, "Perils of the Peaceful Atom" and "The Careless Atom."

As these volumes make quite clear, circumstances are combining to concentrate construction on the most dangerous of all types of atomic furnaces; to build them at increasingly enormous sizes, heats and pressures which involve special hazards and for which there has been no experience; to situate them extremely close to and sometimes in the very hearts of major cities; and to suppress effort by private citizens and private organizations to be heard with respect to these matters, much less heeded.

CENTRAL TO THIS whole untidy picture is the United States Atomic Energy Commission with its built-in conflict of interests. As its former chairman, David E. Lilienthal, has put it: "The AEC, as a general promoter of atomic power, must also decide the quasi-judicial issue of whether a license is issued. With a world of goodwill and integrity and technical competence on the part of the AEC, how well is the public protected by this dual and conflicting role?"

How well? The commission has been routinely licensing construction of plants about whose designs there were grave questions of safety, on the basis of the fiction that unless the questions were satisfactorily settled meanwhile the constructed plants, costing many millions of dollars, would not be licensed to operate. Licenses to operate have been awarded despite dangerous defects in construction which have been exposed and condemned in the strongest terms by Admiral Rickover, who has directed the development of the U.S. Navy's atomic submarines.

WE THINK the only cure for these conditions is to take away the licensing authority from the Atomic Energy Commission and vest it either in the Federal Power Commission or in a new agency specially set up for administration of safety and licensing. In either case provision should be made for mandatory inspection of the design, construction and operation of nuclear plants closely and continuously.

At the same time research into safe means of disposal of radioactive wastes from nuclear plants should be put on a crash basis, as the emergency in this area demands. We do not agree with the extreme view that the nuclear power program should be shut down.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Lowering Of Voting Age Would Require Many Changes

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO. — (CNS) — Some tremendous pressure is being applied on behalf of lowering the voting age in California to 18 years, and it will not be surprising if a measure is placed on the 1970 general election ballot to that effect.

However, the question is more complicated than most people realize, according to the Assembly Committee on Elections and Constitutional Amendment, headed by Paul Priolo, R—Santa Monica The committee has just completed after lengthy study, the job of rounding up the multitudinous policy questions involved.

Without commenting on whether the state should or should not invoke age 18 as the minimum age of statutory responsibility, or the "age of majority" the committee report points out that more than 60 categories in the law of major nature would have to be changed should the minimum age of statutory responsibility be changed.

THERE IS MUCH more to allowing 18-year-olds to vote than the mere appearance at the polls and the casting of ballots for the candidate of their choice. It is probably certain that the majority of the electors of the state, and the young people themselves, have given little thought to the responsibilities of attaining majority at 18 years.

Probably the most discussed of the privileges and obligations of a civil nature involve the question of proximity to alcoholic beverages, and matters of marriage.

BUT THESE are only a couple of legal matters out of more than a dozen in this category alone. Others are questions as to whether a person 18 years of age should be qualified to sit on a jury, have authority to disaffirm certain types of contractural agreements, be permitted ot change a name without consent of parent or guardian , control his own estate, he licensed as doctor, dentist, druggist or in many other categories.

Also, should persons under 21 be eligible for appointive or elective office, act as administrators of estates, sue and be sued without interference from parents or guardians?

Then in the field of criminal law, would the Youth Authority or Adult Authority have jurisdiction? And could 18-year olds be permitted to possess a concealable weapon without permission of parent or guardian?

The field of motor vehicles is another involved. Parents now are responsible for civil liabilities for persons under 21 years old. Also, parents must sign for drivers' licenses. Presumably, this requirement would drop to age 18 if a constitutional amendment were passed dropping the voting age.

THUS IT IS readily seen by these few examples that lowering the voting age to 18 years, involves radical changes.

"The responsibilities of citizenship go with the privileges of citizenship," an observation made many years ago is no less true today.

Don't Count On Auditorium Being Open By Next Summer

The new Veterans Memorial Auditorium, under construction at the Civic Center, was scheduled to open for business in January or February next year, or maybe in the spring.

But the unofficial word is that the opening may be closer to September of 1970, which is a pretty good guess. If the delays encountered in the new Hall of Justice (it's more than a year behind schedule) are any indication, the auditorium completion would even be pushed back to January of 1971.

IN THE EXISTING administration building, the planter areas in the basement floor, which are fed by sunlight from the overhead skylight, are doing fine. But plants in the darker corners aren't doing too well.

Learning from this experience, they've installed special overhead growing lights in the new Hall of Justice to simulate the sun and fool the plants into growing.

CLEAN AIR campaigners who are circulating petitions to put two measures on the 1970 ballot are shifting into high gear because the deadline is only about a week away.

Jean Barnard of Mill Valley, one of the petition circulators, reminds us that Nov. 26 is the last day for petition signing. Those who want to sign or circulate the petitions may notify Mrs. E. P. (Betty) Franklin of Fairfax. The measures seek to outlaw pollution by putting the responsibilities on industries and strengthening laws on industrial and vehicular pollution.

Mrs. Barnard will plant herself in front of the Civic Center entrance tomorrow morning behind a card table to continue the petition campaign.

AMERICAN ZOETROPE, a film company that used the Civic Center grounds for scenes for a science fiction movie last month, has mailed a $100 check to the county parks and recreation department in lieu of a rental fee.

It was a voluntary contribution but probably helped along by a letter from the recreation and park director, Pierre W. Joske, who suggested: How about a contribution to the park acquisition fund since your company found the park-like setting at the Civic Center area useful for their scenes?

Wonder if Twentieth-Century Fox, which used the Civic Center and courthouse much more extensively, including tying up downtown traffic, came through with a similar contribution?

IT'S ENOUGH to make you wonder how much faith you can put in "expert" testimony presented at hearings and trials.

One professor with years of forestry work and soils analysis says that logging on Bolinas Ridge is one of the cleanest and best operations he has seen, and assures you there will be no silt flowing into Bolinas Lagoon and little or no erosion.

Other experts with comparable degrees and experience assure you with just as much conviction that the logging operations will cause serious erosion and choke the lagoon with silt.

Two Kids, Two Blocks Apart, And Two Different 'Messages'

When I came down out of the Utah mountains after having been snowed in for three days and another three looking at the big country, I was told of the news I had missed by being away, and it was that Jack Kerouac had died.

Did I know Kerouac? I don't know. Maybe. I'm always asked that question. I could have. We both came from Lowell, Mass., both the same age, give or take a bit, and he rumbled around the Moody Street area. Market Street was where I kicked the cobblestones. The streets run parallel and only a couple blocks apart — but the distance is much greater than can be measured with a tape, a speedometer or any other kind of meter.

YEAH, I COULD have known him. We could have played baseball in one of those catch-as-catch-can games that we used to put together whenever someone showed up with a bat and a ball or rolled over some of the pebbles and dust of the Common in a game of football or maybe in the summer we might have gone swimming together in the Moody Street Canal.

But if I knew him, I knew him as just another dirty little French kid, a crazy Canuck, and not as the man who made the scene in San Francisco and gave the Beat Generation its name — Jack Kerouac, the Beat poet. I didn't know him as that, and as that we came from different worlds light years apart.

OUR PATHS crossed once though, in an odd sort of way, about 10 years ago. John Farrar, the publisher, had asked me to go to New York to talk publication of my book, a novel. At dinner Farrar, who was publishing Kerouac and pleased about it, asked me what I thought of him.

"I can't read him," I said, "except a paragraph at a time. I suppose it's all this essence of things and pureness and foreverhood and unbornness and holy honey and all that, which for me is just another way of saying jazz."

Farrar looked at me, his eyes glazed. I didn't know enough to keep my mouth shut.

"All this business about the way of Zen and Ramakrishna and you've read the Vedic Hymns and the beautiful Buddha and the pure Dharma. Sure it makes poetry, and it is, and who can argue with poetry?"

HAVING JUST finished dinner, we were having cognac. At this point, I was into my second cognac.

"Poetry is poetry and truth is truth and there's nothing — nothing ever has or ever will make them necessarily both. It all comes out jazz."

By this time Farrar was twitching.

"I like to sink my teeth into what I'm chewing," I said. "When I slap a chick on the butt, I like the feel of it. I don't give a damn about the metaphysical-ness of it.

"Sure we're both looking for the same thing. Kerouac is looking for it in oneness and universality. He mixes Frenchness with Americanness in a pot of Oriental oneness. Beautific!"

THE SILENCE was terrible. Farrar never did publish my book. But then I never bothered reading any more of Kerouac after that. All Kerouac ever told me was: I don't know. I don't care. It doesn't make any difference!

And I'm too Greek for that.

Council Due Business Fee Debate

Long-dormant discussion of a revised business license ordinance will be revived by the San Rafael City Council at 8 p.m. today in the city hall.

The council last May proposed changes in the ordinance to base license fees on a flat rate plus an amount for each employee. It delayed adopting the ordinance at that time at the request of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, which wanted to study the measure.

City Mgr. James H. McCown will present a revised ordinance to the council, embodying some of the suggestions of the chamber of commerce.

Other items to come before the council include a joint powers agreement with the San Rafael Sanitation District for maintenance of sewers, group insurance for city employees, finding a spoils disposal site for the dredging of the turn basin in San Rafael Canal, the fourth phase of widening of San Pedro Road, annexation of seven acres at Main and Bayview drives and an increase in the cost of the new animal control program.

Two Chutists Collide; Both Fatally Injured

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP) — Two men died yesterday from injuries suffered when they collided while making parachute jumps over Burlington County Airport.

Police said Kay K. Komae, 28, of Maple Shade, and John J. McGuire, 28, of Philadelphia jumped with two others from an aircraft flying at 7,000 feet and that Komae and McGuire intended to perform a linkup and then ride their chutes to the ground.

However, as McGuire's chute opened, Komae was still in free-fall above. As McGuire decelerated, Komae slammed into him.

The collision sent Komae spinning away to plummet 3,000 feet to his death. His skull was fractured and he died at the scene.

McGuire, apparently knocked unconscious, made a hard landing under his chute. He died later at Burlington County Memorial Hospital in Mount Holly of multiple internal injuries.

White Man Proves Surprise As Kenya Parliament Boss

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — It was a shock to some visitors to see the bewigged, resplendently robed white man overruling African members of Kenya's Parliament, and on occasion even the country's attorney general.

They won't see it much longer, for Humphrey Slade has just announced plans to leave the speakership he has held since 1960.

"As I told the president," Slade remarked to an interviewer, "you don't want the head of an institution to become an institution himself."

Of his wine robes and powdered wig, the 64-year-old lawyer said he had asked the Kenyans repeatedly "if they wanted to junk all this archaic European outfit as a remnant of colonialism. But they said they wanted to keep it."

WHITE MAN'S ROLE

Slade said he thought it was part of his job to assure all minority voices a hearing in Parliament. He added that he thought a white speaker was preferred by the Africans here at first because one might be more objective than a man from one of Kenya's 50 tribes.

Only one member of Parliament is white.

Parliament adjourned this month in anticipation of new elections. Slade will remain on the job until Parliament is reconvened and elects a new speaker.

LIKE A TEACHER

Slade has been compared with a schoolmaster and he agrees his role was to teach, but adds: "I think it is the time when Parliament needs a change of horse; we are entering a different phase of Kenya's history."

But he says: "I have no fear of the future of these Parliaments."

Educated at Eton and Oxford, Slade came to Kenya about 40 years ago and served on its ruling councils for 17 years. The father of four and a grandfather, he plans to fish and putter in his garden when he retires.

The newspaper East African Standard commented: "No Parliament could have wished for a better speaker, patient and tolerant, yet firm when necessary."

County, Officers Targets Of Suit Over Jail Fray

A 31-year-old San Francisco man has filed a $60,000 suit in Marin Superior Court against Marin County and several law offices, claiming that he was beaten in the county jail Nov. 16, 1968.

The man, Daniel John Kelleher, said he sustained injuries which caused some permanent damage and that he was unable to work for a period of time.

Named in the suit, filed Friday, are Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, Deputy William Nabers, Belvedere police Sgt. William P. Brust and Deputy James Hickey, as well as the county and the board of supervisors.

Kelleher said he was arrested by San Rafael police on Nov. 16.

Jail records show that he was arrested on Nov. 17 by Brust for disturbing the peace and being drunk in a public place.

There is a lengthy report saying Kelleher berated Brust and jailers, refused to remove his belt and shoes, and struck officers, finally being placed in the padded cell. The report also says that Kelleher was given a bandage for a small cut on his face which was apparently sustained in a scuffle with the officers.

New Drug May Prove A Blessing In High-Risk Heart Surgery Cases

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A new and still-experimental drug may pave the way to corrective surgery for defective heart valves —and possibly other cardiac defects—for many patients who would normally be considered too ill to withstand "open heart" operations.

This was reported to the American Heart Association Saturday by Dr. Bernard Burack of Montefiore Hospital, New York, to seven gravely ill patients before replacing their defective valves with artificial ones — and had achieved highly gratifying results.

Declaring all seven patients were initially classified as high-risks for surgery—including some who ordinarily would have been refused surgery outright—he said six of them are now alive and active 16 months after surgery. The single death was unrelated to the operation.

The drug, called phenoxybenzamine hydrochloride, is designed to keep tiny blood vessels —called capillaries—wide open during surgery.

Dr. Burack indicated that the stress of any kind of surgery tends to constrict these tiny vessels—thus impairing blood flow to the tissues. In "open heart" surgery—where an artificial heart-lung machine takes over the job of pumping blood and allows surgeons to work directly on the heart—there is special stress of this nature, he said, and it's particularly dangerous for a severely ill patient.

At a news conference Friday on another subject—increased efforts to reduce the nation's 300,000 deaths annually from coronary heart attacks—Dr. Arthur J. Moss of the University of Rochester said a major contributor to the sustained high deaths toll is the following:

Many victims of heart attacks, including even some physicians who have had a previous attack, are not prompt enough about seeking help.

What's needed, he said, is a "sophisticated program of public education so that people will seek out help earlier"—especially those who already are in a "high-risk" category as regards suffering a coronary. These would include people who have had prior attacks, diabetics, and people who suffer from angina pectoris, episodes of vise-like pain in the chest.

But he and Dr. James V. Warran of Ohio State University Hospital conceded that further research is needed to pinpoint specific "early warning signs" of an incipient coronary that could trigger action by people who never previously had had any cardiac or related trouble.

'Nutcracker' Set For Children

More than 1,200 Marin school children will attend two special performances of the "Nutcracker Suite," presented by the Marin Civic Ballet Association at the College of Marin.

The children, from Granada, Bel Aire, Novato Elementary, Greenbrae, Dixie, Laguna, Lucas Valley, Larkspur-Corte Madera, Ross, Don Timoteo, Manor and Ross schools, will see the show Dec. 18 at 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jody White, director of the ballet's apprentice group, will give special demonstrations of ballet prior to the shows and will explain the "Nutcracker" story to the youngsters.

College Policies On The Agenda

Possible revisions in discipline sections of the college policies handbook will be discussed when the Marin Junior College District board meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in Room 69 of Olney Hall at College of Marin.

Proposed for revision are sections 7020 through 7025, which deal with the powers of the student conduct committee and the appeal process available to students suspended or otherwise disciplined.

Since the suspension of four students and placing of a fifth on probation for disrupting an October board meeting, student government groups and the Academic Senate have recommended changes in the rules.

Marriageable Men Over 40 Are Scarce In Germany – Survey Tells

BONN, GERMANY (GF) — Six million women over 40 in west Germany would like to marry — if only they could find a partner!

Statistics drafted for a study by the country's federal government reveal there are only 1.3 million eligible bachelors in the over-40 bracket on the domestic market. And in fact, not even all these are on the market: 13 percent say they are determined to remain single.

On the other hand, 97 percent of those six million women definitely want to march down the aisle. But they are not the only age group finding it difficult to lasso a partner.

The government study reveals German girls 20 to 25 generally have few problems finding a man to marry. But only 50 percent of single girls at age 31 are able to do so. By age 40, the chances have dropped to 20 per cent and at 50 to five percent.

Forty-five percent of German girls in the 28-37 age group today are married to men younger than they are — even though the broad prejudice against such

Job Choice Is Soviet Worry

By GAY PAULEY

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (UPI) —Ask an editor of one of the oldest youth newspapers in the Soviet Union what problems beset the young people and the answer is:

Choice of jobs.

The Soviet has no drug problem with its youth, no alcoholism, he insists, and no generation gap as you hear of it in the Western world.

And because the young are worried abut their futures, the daily paper, Komsomol Smena, now in its 50th year of publication, recently started a front page column called, "Hello, Working Generation" offering advice and a clearing house for jobs with special mention of technical and trade opportunities.

It was Vitale Mikhailov, 32, an engineer turned editor and father of a three and one-half year old daughter, speaking in the offices of the publication.

The woman editor in chief, Alla Belyakova, was on vacation.

The building serves also as the center of other Komsomol (Young Communist League) activities in the greater Leningrad area.

Mikhailov invited some of his department heads, including three women, to sit in on our conversation. When I mentioned that youth world-wide seemed to get the same hangups (he understood the slang even through the interpreter), he just as persistently explained why job futures are the special problem with the Soviet young.

"This year," he said, "76,811 young people in Leningrad wanted to go on to higher education (universities). Only 25,000 made it."

Entrance to the universities is by rigorous examination; thus, many fail and have to go to technical or trade schools. And the need is for workers in a country already boasting total employment.

"Maybe," Mikhailov smiles, "our paper had as one of its faults saying how nice it would be to become a cosmonaut." Cosmonauts hold a special niche in Russian admiration of heroes.

Komsomol Smena was founded in December 1919, kept publishing during the Siege of Leningrad when even a city almost didn't survive, and today has a circulation of 210,000.

Mikhailov said the bulk of circulation is among the 14 to 25 age bracket. The Young Communist League consists of the 14 to 28 year age group. And Smena's editor candidly tells an interviewer the main goal of the paper is "to extend youth's horizons...to bring up young. active fighters for communism...to understand Marxism and Leninism."

But it has sections of family living, physical education and sports, creative activities, and Komsomol news of course. It also has pioneered, helping to start wedding palaces for young couples and its latest, palaces for christening of the newborn. And it sponsors both intra-U.S.S.R. and international sports competitions.

Mikhailov, a member of the Communist Party (not every Russian is by any means; you have to be invited in), conceded that a lot of Western world ways were getting into the Soviet system. Guitar and pop music, for instance.

And miniskirts. They'e not as abbreviated in the U.S.S.R. as in, say, New York, but he wishes "our young people didn't follow the West but the West followed us."

GAY PAULEY, UPI women's editor, looks at Komsomol Smena, a youth newspaper published in Leningrad, with one of it's editors, Vitale Mikhailov, 32. The paper's goal is "to extend youth's horizons . . . to bring up young, active fighters for Communism . . . to understand Marxism and Leninism." (UPI Cablephoto)

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Spoiled Daughter Gets Money But No Responsibility From Father

DEAR HELEN:

I always knew our daughter was spoiled — what could I do when her Dad gave her everything? But this is too much.

She's been married three years. Her husband gets jobs, but loses them. They say it's hard work. I say it's hardheadedness plus no ambition.

Last month Diane asked to borrow our credit cards as she needed clothes for the baby and couldn't pay cash "until Johnny gets the first check from his new job." She brought the cards back a week later — and today I got the bills.

Not only were there baby clothes charged, but a washer and dryer, a color television, clothes from men's and women's wear. And this may not be everything. When I read the riot act to Diane, she couldn't quite remember all she's bought at different stores. Then she wept all over her Dad, who caved in again.

Well, my slow burn has finally come to a boil. I insisted Diane and John sign a promissory note for repayment of all debts, plus interest, with a time limit.

Now I'm considered grasping and selfish. My husband says "Forget it — they're our flesh and blood. Should I?—HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT:

Stand by your guns. You should have done it long ago.

DEAR HELEN:

A friend was recently divorced after a long marriage. Her husband found someone younger and, of course, it was a shattering experience.

I listened patiently to her moaning and misery, from the minute she found out to the final decree, but Helen, this woman is driving me insane. She has turned into a leech. She has no young children as I have, and she's constantly calling up and inviting herself over, even for meals. If she doesn't phone, she just pops in, whether I have company or not. Then she gabs on and on about her unfaithful husband. For her, there's no other subject. Self-pity done up with whines, that's her.

My husband is furious. He says to lose her, but I can't be that cruel. How can I get it across that it's time she forgot the past and stopped boring people to death with it? — MRS. RELUCTANT EARS

DEAR MRS. R. E.:

Why don't you tell this gal that tears only water down a friendship. Somebody has to. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have almost always agreed with you until now. You advised a young mother to earn her own money (through at-home jobs such as babysitting) because "It's better than fighting with a chintzy husband."

If this man can afford $20 to $50 for sports, he can afford to give her and his child proper clothing. No woman should be treated as a financial idiot, a subservient doormat. She should lay it on the line to her husband — either he loosen the purse strings and makes it "ours" not "my" money, or she clears out. He'll probably be begging her to come back.

"Frustrated" should never have allowed this situation to exist, and she certainly shouldn't give in to his stinginess by getting a job. — FOR WISE BUDGETING

Dear All of You Who Disagreed with my answer to "FRUSTRATED:" (There were many!)

You're absolutely right. Chintzy husbands should reform. Wives shouldn't allow such stinginess. But wives of chintzy husbands could spend a lifetime running on the reform ticket, for such men seldom change.

My proposed solution wasn't ideal — just realistic. — H.

West German Marriages

marriages is still strong in the country.

The situation is having some interesting results. For example, nearly 55 percent of Germans emigrating from their country each year are women (total emigrees number about 76,000 annually).

And marriages to non-German males are becoming increasingly popular among German women — something which is greatly aided by the image of the "Fraulein wonder" which has developed since World War II.

In 1967, the last year for which statistics are available on the category, 16,933 German women tied the knot with non-German partners.

Library Users Get Best Grades

NEW YORK (UPI)—Students who get the best grades and learn the most in college are usually the ones who were library users in high school, studies have shown.

Other studies indicate that high school youngsters who use their library the most are those who got the habit in grammar school.

"It's no wonder, then, that most educators agree that you need a good library to teach reading today," says William J. Worrell, founder of the Pilgrim Book Society, which was formed 11 years ago to promote good reading.

49ers Have Whammy Over Colts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Baltimore Colts are glad they don't have to play the San Francisco 49ers anymore. Who can blame them?

The 49ers came from behind yesterday with an 18-yard touchdown pass from John Brodie to rookie fullback Jim Thomas with 1:45 to go for a 20-17 victory.

The loss, Baltimore's second to the 49ers this year, all but knocked the Colts out of a chance to defend their National Football League title.

"Well, I guess we're out of the thing now," remarked a dejected Coach Don Shula, whose Colts, 5-4 trail Los Angeles, 9-0, in the Coastal Division race and play Chicago next week.

"It's ironic," remarked 49er Coach Dick Nolan. "Now that we've beaten them twice after not being able to beat them since 1962, they are leaving the league."

Under the merger arrangement, the Colts will switch next year to the American Football League with Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

The 49ers, who haven't been able to beat anybody but Baltimore in 15 games, counting six preseason losses, play New Orleans next week.

The 49ers grabbed a 13-0 lead in the first half, in which the Colts' John Unitas completed only one of nine passes for three yards and had two intercepted. The Colt running game wasn't much more effective, netting only 32 yards.

Earl Morrall replaced Unitas and got the Colts moving in the third period. They scored on Terry Cole's two-yard plunge and Lou Michaels' 41-yard field goal, then marched to the 49ers' 11 with three minutes left in the game.

From there, Unitas hit Ray Perkins in the end zone to give Baltimore a 17-13 lead. Morrall had left before the touchdown play after getting the wind knocked out of him.

Shula was undecided which quarterback will start against Chicago, saying Unitas had not complained of a sore arm.

While Unitas had his troubles, Brodie, playing his second game after missing two with a sore elbow, completed 29 of 37 passes for 290 yards.

"Brodie sure didn't look like he had a dead arm," remarked Shula.

"Hell, it doesn't hurt as much when you win!" Brodie quipped.

Ken Willard's two-yard plunge and Brodie's three-yard pass to Dick Witcher—set up by Thomas' 45-yard catch-and-run-play—accounted for San Francisco's first half scoring.

Smith, the 5-foot-6, 155-pound return specialist the 49ers obtained from Kansas City, sprinted 34 yards with a kickoff to put the 49ers at their own 43.

They scored in five plays, including 12-yard runs by Thomas and Bob Windsor on an end-around play.

Notre Dame Accepts Cotton Bowl Bid

Irish Will Oppose Arkansas Or Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Notre Dame accepted an invitation today as the guest team in the Cotton Bowl, marking the first appearance of the Fighting Irish in a post-season bowl in 45 years.

Notre Dame's opponent will be decided Dec. 6 when second-ranked Texas and fourth-ranked Arkansas tangle in Fayetteville, Ark., on national television.

In another development today, Louisiana State players voted not to accept any bowl bids, the A.P. learned.

Notre Dame has been opposed to bowl play in the past because of class time the students would have to miss. Modern travel has made that obstacle obsolete.

The announcement was made by the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of the university and chairman of the faculty board in control of athletics.

VACATION TIME

Father Joyce pointed out that "bowl-connected activities of the football team will fall largely on vacation time." Notre Dame's Christmas vacation runs from Dec. 16 to Jan. 5.

Father Joyce said "the crucial consideration" involved an urgent need by Nore Dame for funds to finance minority student academic programs and scholarships.

"Notre Dame's share of bowl game proceeds will be dedicated to this pressing university need," he added.

FINANCIAL AID

Father Joyce said the change in the bowl policy resulted from recommendations by the university's committee on financial aid and scholarships and the board of the Notre Dame Alumni Association.

The request subsequently was approved by the athletic board; the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, university president, and the executive committee of the university's board of trustees.

Another Chance For S.F.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors are heading home for another clash with the Milwaukee Bucks tomorrow night, smarting from a 129-123 loss in overtime.

Key factors in Milwaukee's Sunday night win were a flashy rebound and floor-length pass by Lew Alcindor with just 33 seconds remaining.

The former All-American from UCLA grabbed the ball and sent it soaring to Jon McGlocklin, who bucketed it to send the Bucks in front 126-122.

Three free throws were added later by Guy Rodgers after San Francisco started fouling to get the ball.

REDWOOD FALLS

San Marin Wins On Field Goal

By GARY TISCHLER

Only the night before, Terra Linda's Bob Daniele had booted the Trojans to the Marin County Athletic League title with a 16-yard field goal with no time left for a 29-27 win over San Rafael at San Rafael High School.

The next day, Mexican-born kicker Urbano Bouscieguez kicked a 32-yard field goal in the last ten seconds to shoot San Marin's first-year Mustangs to a harrowing 17-14 win over Redwood and a tie for second place with the Giants.

CLIMAX

For the Mustangs, it was a marvelous climax to a tremendous season, at least for a school in its first season of varsity football competition as they finished with a 4-2 league mark and a 6-2 overall record, second only to Terra Linda (8-1).

For Redwood, it was a deflating, bleak afternoon. The Giants, who only a week ago played and lost to the Trojans for the league crown and still had hopes for a title early Friday night, blew what looked like a safe two-touchdown lead to the scrappy, pesky Mustangs as all the emotion and momentum seemed to drain out of them in the second half.

TIED

That was when the game was already tied and only a little while later the Giants might have settled for a tie, if they had had the chance. But stuck with their backs to the wall on the four-yard line, they were forced to punt with only seconds to go. Mike Van Horn returned it to the 26-yard-line and the Mustangs immediately set up for the field goal try, with Bouscieguez booting high and

District Judge Denies Black Athletes' Appeal

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) U.S. District Judge Ewing T. Kerr of Cheyenne denied today a motion calling for immediate reinstatement of 14 black athletes to the Wyoming football team.

The players were kicked off the Wyoming team a month ago for taking part in protest demonstrations.

In his decision, Judge Kerr ruled against a three-judge panel to review the case, and another motion for a temporary restraining order.

Judge Kerr's decision stems from a hearing last Monday in Cheyenne in which testimony was heard from University of Wyoming president William D. Carlson and four of the 14 dismissed athletes.

The 14 blacks were kicked off the Cowboy football team Oct. 17 by Wyoming head football coach Lloyd Eaton, who said they broke an athletic department rule prohibiting participation of athletes in protest demonstrations.

The rule has since been relaxed. It now permits athletes to take part in protest activities as long as they don't carry the activities in practices or games.

The 14 had appeared in Eaton's office on the morning of Oct. 17 wearing armbands in connection with a planned protest against Brigham Young University's ties with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

The blacks said they were protesting the Mormon Church's restrictions on permitting Negroes to hold high offices in the church's hierarchy.

Eaton dismissed the players, maintaining they were fully aware of the rule against protesting.

Belvedere Yacht May Be Winner

LONG BEACH (UPI) —With the Windward Passage the elapsed time winner, other class winners and the corrected time leader were streaming across the finish line today in the Long Beach to La Paz, Mexico Yacht Race.

The 40-foot aluminum sloop Bohemia, skippered by Peter Salz of the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere was apparently the corrected time leader.

Officials of the race at the Long Beach Yacht Club said it might take a day or two to determine the class winners and the corrected time champion which will be determined on handicaps.

Skipper Mark Johnson brought the 73-foot Windward Passage into La Paz Saturday for honors as the first finisher in the third biennial race. The ocean going ketch defeated Ken De Meuse's Blackfin by nearly two hours in the renewal of an old rivalry between the almost identical ketches.

Windward Passage finished the 960-mile race in six days,21 hours and 53.47 minutes. She flew the pennant of the Lahaina Yacht Club of Hawaii. Backfin, from the St. Francis Yacht Club of San Francisco, had an elapsed time of six days, 23 hours and 3.29 minutes. Concerto and Dorothy O, both from the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, arrived late Saturday night.

Raiders Look Dull, Play Just Good Enough To Win

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders head into the critical final four weeks of the season convinced of at least one fact:

They are going to have to play a lot better than they did yesterday against San Diego if they are going to have a chance to repeat as champions of the American Football League's Western Division.

The comeback 21-16 victory over the Chargers—which came on a mighty 80-yard pass play from Daryle Lamonica to Warren Wells late in the game — kept the Raiders within one-half game of the Kansas City Chiefs in the West.

KEY GAMES

But with two games with the Chiefs coming up — the first next week in Kansas City — one with the Jets in New York and one at home against Cincinnati — who beat the Raiders in their first encounter — Oakland's offense will have to be far more potent than it was against the Chargers.

Lamonica's two scoring passes, the first for 19 yards to Fred Biletnikoff in the second period, were the only things resembling a Raider offense.

SAYS MADDEN

"On your way through a season," said Madden, "successful people are going to win games in different ways. Sometimes, things don't come easy. Successful teams, no matter what type of game it is, still win. Sometimes, you look great; sometimes, you don't."

The unhappiest man around at the end of the game was new San Diego Coach Charlie Waller, who took over last week when Sid Gillman stepped down because of illness.

"I'm really mad," said Waller, almost in tears. "It was extremely disappointing, not in the effort, but in the fact we lost. We came here expecting to win."

GRID COACH TROPPMANN MAY RESIGN

Rumors that Bob Troppman would end his football coaching days at Redwood High School have been neither denied or confirmed by the veteran football coach and athletic director.

Troppmann would not comment on speculation that he may not be back to coach the Giants next year. According to rumors, he was observed to have told his players that "this would be my last game" after the Giants, who came very close to tying for the Marin County Athletic League title this season, had lost to San Marin, 17-14, in the last seconds at Larkspur Saturday afternoon.

NEW FIELD CHRISTENED

Victory For Sonoma State

By STEVE WYNNE

In perhaps the best dedication any field could have, the Sonoma State College Cossacks christened theirs Saturday with a 20-15 win over the Sacramento State JV's in a game that decided the Far Western Conference "unofficial" junior varsity championship.

The Cossacks, fielding a football team for the first time in the school's history, finished the year with a 5-0 mark against FWC junior varsity opposition. The Cossacks will play an independent varsity schedule next season before moving into the Far Western Conference varsity loop in 1971.

DEFENSE

A rugged Cossack defense was the key to victory Saturday as some 200 fans braved the cold weather to watch Cossack linemen Charlie Rada, a former College of Marin lineman, and Benny Guerra toss Sacramento quarterback Jim Holmes for 30 yards in losses. The defensive secondary, led by Bob Depippo's two interceptions, came up with three key interceptions and broke up several third down pass plays. One interception late in the first half put Sonoma State in position for the winning touchdown.

Halfbacks Chris Alvarado led the Cossacks' offensive effort as the flashy sophomore racked up 197 yards in 29 carries. Herm Manuel, Luther Nelson, and Aaron Berhel teamed with Alvarado to anchor a Sonoma State rushing attack that was good for 342 yards and all three Cossack touchdowns.

6-0 LEAD

Quarterback Bill Cox put Sonoma State ahead 6-0 early in the first quarter when his one-yard keeper capped a 69 yard drive in 10 plays. Alvarado's 31 yard burst was the key play in the drive.

Sacramento rallied to go ahead 7-6 after Cox's fumble at midfield put the Hornets in scoring position. Holmes hit Alton McSween on the next play for 49 yards and the score.

A 22-yard Cox-to-Jack Trujillo pass set up the Cossacks second touchdown, coming on a 5-yard run by Manuel; and Chet Rogers interception at the Sacramento 13-yard line allowed Alvarado to scamper 5 yards for the winning score.

Sonoma State finished with an overall 5-3 mark, losing all three "non-league" games.

PACIFIC-8 ROUNDUP

They're All Big Games Next Weekend

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The four games that close out the Pacific-8 Conference schedule Saturday are all big ones — a matching of traditional rivals where victory is just a little sweeter and defeat more bitter.

FOURTH

The USC Trojans are after an unprecedented fourth straight trip to Pasadena. To stop them the Bruins have to win. A tie won't do it for UCLA.

Neither the Trojans nor the Bruins has been beaten in nine games. But each was tied once and UCLA's draw was in the conference — 20-20 against Stanford.

California goes to Stanford for the 72nd Big Game, needing an upset over the Indians to change a mediocre season to an acceptable one.

Up north Oregon and Oregon State meet in Eugene for the 73rd time — each needing to win to put its conference record on the plus side. Oregon State is 3-3 in the league and 5-4 over-all, and Oregon is 2-2 and 4-4-1.

WINLESS

In Seattle, Washington and Washington State fight it out for the 61st time, each with an 0-6 conference mark.

Washington, 0-9 over-all, outplayed sixth- ranked Southern Cal in Seattle Saturday in the first three quarters and had a 7-7 tie going into the final period.

Then Ron Ayala kicked a 31-yard field goal and Clarence Davis ran for a touchdown that made the final 16-7.

Oregon came just as close to a stunning upset at Eugene against UCLA before losing 13-10. The Ducks led 10-7 entering the fourth quarter, getting all their points in the third period on a safety, a two-yard plunge by John Harrington and a two-point conversion on a Harrington pass.

But in the fourth period's opening minute, Dennis Dummit lofted his 14th touchdown pass of the season — a UCLA record — to Gwen Cooper.

FIELD GOAL

A second- quarter field goal was all Washington State's Cougars could score at Corvallis, Ore. against the Oregon State in the other Pac-8 game last weekend. Dave Schilling scored the first two touchdowns in the Beavers' 38-3 victory.

In nonconference games California downed San Jose State 31-7 and Stanford flew by Air Force 47-34. Those victories brought the Pac-8 record against outsiders to 16-10-2.

California was behind 7-6 at halftime but rallied for 25 points, starting late in the third period. Randy Wersching got Cal's first points with field goals of 31 and 22 yards in the second quarter and concluded the game's scoring with a 27-yarder. As of the halftime intermission, Cal had been without a touchdown for 10 straight quarters.

Air Force got off to a 7-0 lead at Stanford and was ahead 14-7 in the second period when the Indians' offense got into high gear.

Quarterback Jim Plunkett passed for two touchdowns and completed 22 of 38 tosses for 278 yards. His 18 touchdowns for the season is one more than the old Pac-8 mark.

Cadets Remain Winless

San Rafael Military Academy's football wound up its season with its finest game Saturday.

Unfortunately, it wasn't enough for the Cadets to come up with their first win, as they lost to Bay Counties League champion Menlo, 20-6, and finished with an 0-7-1 record, in the annual "Little Big Game" at Menlo.

The Cadets' only touchdown came on a quarterback sneak by Tom Kewell from one yard out. Kewell also passed 11 completions in 17 tries for 77 yards.

Fastest Time

Bob Rosburg Wins PGA Club Crown

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Few golfers were happy yesterday when wind began snapping across the Roadrunner Golf Course, site of the final round of the $50,000 PGA Club Championship.

Bob Rosburg didn't mind. "I was hoping for that wind," he smiled.

Unlike most golfers, Rosburg counted the wind in his favor. "I play better in wind. I figure it's an advantage for me," the 43-year-old tour veteran from St. Louis, Mo. said after pocketing the $8,000 first prize check.

Rosburg scored an even-par 72, his worst round of the 72-hole tournament, to edge Jimmy Wright, Inwood, Long Island, by one stroke. Wright, who carded a 73 Sunday, finished at 276. Rosburg capitalized on two successive rounds of 66 to finish at 275.

Rosburg and Wright went into the final round deadlocked at 13 under par. They two played even until the 190-yard sixth hole, where Rosburg's drive hit the pin and landed two feet from the hole.

He tapped the ball in for a birdie. Wright, however, ran into trouble and took a one-over-par 4.

Glenview, Illinois pro Bill Ogden closed with a 70 to take third place at 278—10 strokes under par. Tommy Bolt, Sarasota, Fla., and John Molenda, Birmingham, Mich., followed at 279.

The Mustangs hoisted their coaches up in a victory salute, a fact watched glumly by Redwood fans who made up a sparse crowd of some 900.

The Giants pushed into a 14-0 lead on a one-yard shot by Mike Farley and a nine-yard pass from Cooney to Steve Fleishman.

Meanwhile, the Mustangs, with only two first downs in the first half, got in their licks on a screen pass from Ken Gnoss to Steve Lambert, with Lambert outracing the Giants for an 82-yard touchdown play. The Mustangs tied it when Gnoss pushed in from 10 yards out on a quick sneak straight over the middle.

SEASON FINALE

Novato Edges Tamalpais

Novato High School's football team escaped the Marin County Athletic League cellar Saturday by nipping Tamalpais, 28-20, on the throwing arm of sophomore quarterback Marti Moroski before some 900 fans in Mill Valley.

Moroski completed 9 of 19 passed for 221 yards and two touchdowns and scored twice himself to bring the Hornets from behind on three separate occasions.

The young Indians, playing without star running back Billy Washington, made it close in the final period when they trailed by only 21-20 before a 46-yard pass from Moroski to Le Magers made it 28-20.

Novato thus won its third straight game and second straight league game for a 4-5 season mark and a 2-4 loop record while the Indians shared the cellar with Drake at 1-5. They had a 2-7 season mark.

Taylor, Chiefs Run Over Jets

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I had a pain out there today," said Otis Taylor, nursing his self-inflicted punctured ribs. The New York Jets also had a pain Sunday—Taylor.

The burly Kansas City receiver shook off the agony of those punctured ribs to haul in two Len Dawson touchdown passes—he already had one TD reception before his accident—as the Chiefs stormed past the Super Bowl champions 34-16 before a record American Football League crowd of 63,849 at Shea Stadium.

SEVEN

The seventh straight triumph for the Chiefs, now 9-1, enabled them to maintain their half-game lead over Oakland, which rallied late to escape San Diego 21-16, heading into next Sunday's showdown between the Western Division powers.

Boston turned back Cincinnati 25-14, Buffalo routed Miami 28-3 and Denver tied Houston 20-20 in other AFL activity.

Taylor, back after a three-game absence because of an abdominal injury, hurt himself in the first half shortly after taking an 18-yard TD pass from Dawson, whose father died two days before the game.

Otis said he had just pulled in a Dawson toss and when "I got hit, my feet left me and my elbow swung and punctured my ribs.

'IT HURT'

"I played two quarters like that, and every time I got hit it hurt."

But the pain didn't appear to bother Taylor. He took a seven-yard pass from Dawson that snapped a 10-10 tie and wrapped up the scoring with a 10-yard catch of another Dawson fling.

The setback stopped New York's six-game winning streak, but the Jets maintained their comfortable lead in the Eastern Division because of runnerup Houston's tie.

Quarterback Joe Namath managed to complete 24 of 50 passes for 327 yards against the stern Chief defense—best in the AFL—but was intercepted three times. Dawson picked up 298 yards in the air, hitting 22 of 37 passes.

Boston forced Cincinnati into a bevy of mistakes, picking off three of rookie quarterback Greg Cook's passes, in picking up only its second victory in 10 games.

SIMPSON

Rookie O. J. Simpson caught two touchdown passes and returned the game-opening kickoff 73 yards to set up his first TD as Buffalo's anemic offense suddenly came to life against Miami.

Simpson's opening jaunt took the ball to the Miami 26. He then took 18 and eight-yard passes—the second one in the end zone—from quarterback Jack Kemp.

Tomales Crushes Calistoga

After trailing for three quarters, Tomales High School's football team exploded for 28 points in the final period Saturday to bury Calistoga, 50-29, and win the North Central II title for the third straight year in inaugurating its new football field in Tomales.

Ron Petroni of Tomales scored four touchdowns and two conversions to boost his season total to 116 points, two points more than the school record of 114 points set by Gary Dellepere three years ago.

Petroni also rushed for 180 yards in 21 carries while quarterback Dennis Rodoni, who missed most of the first half with a knee injury, came back to complete 9 of 13 passes for 112 yards.

Tomales finished with an 8-1 season record and a 4-0 league mark.

Punchless Seals Fall Down To Fourth Place

CHICAGO (AP) — The Oakland Seals, who haven't won a National Hockey League game this month and have dropped from the top of the West Division into a tie for fourth, must live with that situation until Wednesday night.

The Seals couldn't hold a two-goal lead against the Chicago Black Hawks Saturday and went down to a 3-2 defeat. Their current winless string of seven games — including one tie — is the longest for the club in two years.

The Seals play Wednesday against Minnesota, currently West Division runnerup to St. Louis. Next Saturday they go on to Montreal, East Division runnerup to new York. So prospects of ending their victory famine are not good.

Within two minutes in the second period, Mike Laughton and Ted Hampson scored against Chicago, and the Seals led 2-0 at 11:03.

Two minutes later Dennis Hull scored for the Hawks and at 10:51 of the third period Eric Nesterenko tied it at 2-2.

St. Vincent Wins; Coach Resigns

St. Vincent High School Mustangs of Petaluma ended their 1969 football season on a winning note Saturday with a 19-0 victory over Mendocino High at Petaluma. It gave the Mustangs a final 3-6 season won-lost record.

Immediately after the game St. Vincent coach Bob Martin announced his resignation but gave no reason or plans.

Rams Finally Wake Up In Time To Beat Eagles

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philadelphia Eagles 10, Los Angeles Rams 0? somebody must be kidding.

But that's what the score was at the end of the first half yesterday in what was supposed to be a Ram romp.

Turns out, it wasn't really the Rams in that first half, according to Coach George Allen. The Real Rams came out in the second half, see, and went on to beat the Birds, 23-17, in the National Football League contest.

"We were not playing our game in the first half . . . we were lethargic and outplayed," said Allen. "In the second half we woke up and began to play Ram football."

The victory just about wrapped up the Coastal Division title for Los Angeles. The Rams now are 9-0 and have a four-game lead over Baltimore, 5-4, which lost a 20-17 heart-breaker to San Francisco yesterday.

Minnesota, behind Fred Cox's golden toe, booted Green Bay, 9-7, to take a stranglehold on the Central Division race; Dallas thrashed Washington, 41-28, behind Calvin Hill's mercurial dashes to strengthen its Capitol Division lead, and Cleveland slammed Pittsburgh, 24-3, behind Bill Nelsen, to stay atop the Century group in other key games.

With gifted quarterback Roman Gabriel having one of his better years for the Rams and Philadelphia quarterback Norm Snead reported lame, Los Angeles was supposed to have a soft touch.

Only nobody told fired-up Philadelphia in the first half.

"They (the Eagles) are a considerably improved football team and one certainly to be reckoned with in several years," said Allen. But he admitted he was not too worried about the first half score.

It was another game in the second half, however, as the Rams' defense galvanized and shot down a bunch of Eagles. Los Angeles defenders, led by safety Ed Meador's fumble recovery and pass interception, scored or set up 16 last half points as the Rams galloped back.

"They had the balls right there for me," Cox said of the center, Mike Tingelhoff, and the holder, Paul Krause. "They had them right on the money and if I can get a good look at the ball, I should be able to make it."

Hill, that man from Yale, rolled up 150 yards and scored two touchdowns in leading Dallas' victory over Washington. Hill, however, wasn't taking any bows.

"Unless you're a natural like Gale Sayers, you learn each year," he said. "I'm learning to run inside. I'm cutting better. But like I say, it's a learning process."

Quarterback Nelsen completed 18 of 32 passes for 290 yards and Leroy Kelly banged for 97 yards overland as the Browns clubbed the Steelers.

Careless Card Action May Be Contagious, Says Sherlock

"Come away quickly, Watson," Sherlock Holmes urged in a stage whisper. "This kind of bridge may be contagious." Dr. Watson looked sharply at the great detective, but there was no smile on Holmes' face, and the two friends walked out of the Baker Street Bridge Club.

LOW CLUB

West had opened the nine of clubs on the hand immediately preceding the departure of Holmes and Dr. Watson. Declarer looked approvingly at the dummy, Dr. Watson remembered, and he won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs. Then he led the jack of hearts from dummy.

Things happened rather quickly after that. East stepped up with the ace of trumps and led another club. West ruffed, and South lost 100 points. He also lost two kibitzers.

It was all very unlucky, Dr. Watson reflected. Still, Holmes evidently thought that declarer had misplayed the hand, and Holmes was usually right in such matters.

OBVIOUS DANGER

South ignored an obvious danger. Not every opening lead is a singleton but declarer shou'l consider the possibility that the opening lead is from a very short suit. He should guard against this danger if he possibly can.

In this case South had a very easy way to protect himself. He should lead a spade to the ace at the second trick, cash the ace of diamonds and then ruff a diamond in dummy with the eight of hearts. When nothing alarming happens on this trick, declarer leads the king of spades from dummy to discard his last club.

ONLY THEN SOUTH

DAILY QUESTION

♠ Q 7 6 3 2
♦ 8 7 5 3
♣ 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You hate to leave your partner in one club, especially if that may be a three-card suit, but it is even more dangerous to bid with so weak a hand. If you respond one spade, partner may jump to three clubs or two notrump or some such uncivilized bid, and you will wish you were home in bed.

ALMANAC

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1869, the Suez Canal, between the Arabian Desert and the Sinai Desert was formally opened.

In 1881, Samuel Gompers organized the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions, the forerunner of the American Federation of Labor.

In 1948, the British House of Commons voted to nationalize England's steel industry.

Processing Firm At Northgate Links To Computer In Oakland

The Northgate Industrial Park data processing firm, Fair, Isaac and Co., which has been in Marin since 1962, has installed new facilities enabling it to give improved service to local businesses.

The installation is based on a direct leased phone connection to a UNIVAC 1108 computer in Oakland which will perform up to 1,333,333 arithmetic operations per second. The Northgate terminal has a 300-line per minute printer and a 300-card per minute reader. The start of transmission of cards from this office is said to have a maximum wait of four seconds.

The company reports it is now able to provide a full range of data processing complete with tapes and drums and is undertaking to perform all or any part of these operations for local firms.

RYDAX, INC., a company organized last January to produce specialized digital communications equipment and headquartered at 76 Belvedere Street, San Rafael, has turned out its first product.

Technically this is described as a teleprinter automatic control terminal designed for use with a Model 32 Teletype or equivalent five-level printer. It is said to provide in a single package all the functions required to convert a high-frequency radio transceiver and teleprinter into a communications terminal.

JOHN T. PONTING of Larkspur has been elected vice president in charge of training and communications at Bank of California's San Francisco head office. He joined the bank in 1964, was named project officer in the personnel division two years later and was promoted to assistant vice president in 1968.

Martin receives a handful of graded earth from Harold Valceschini of Coldwell, Banker and Co. in the recent groundbreaking ceremony for Western's new home office building at Northgate. In the days when few could write the act of exchanging a handful of soil was accepted as a covenant marking transfer of property ownership. When completed in March, the new building will house both Western Travelers and Mutual Fund Associates, Inc. — the latter moving from San Francisco.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Wife Needs Savings For Peace Of Mind

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband recently sold his business. Our entire savings are invested in one stock because he does not believe in keeping money in the bank at 5 per cent. I was raised in poverty and can't sleep nights because he refuses to keep even $15,000 in a savings account. This would be only a small percentage of our holdings. He is a good manager and I have no quarrels with his investing. But how can I get him to put aside this small amount? — M. W.

A. If you can speak to your husband as eloquently as you have written to me I am sure you will be able to convince him how vital a bank account is for your peace of mind. While I do not condone his modus operandi, he is probably one of those few individuals who, although incapable of prudence, is extremely successful. This is one form of gambling for which I have no stomach.

Q. You recommend Alpine Geophysical as a long-range speculation. I have 100 shares at an avcrage of 23. Should I buy additional shares now that it is lower or build up my holdings in Executone? I can invest about $300 a month. — S.B.

A. Alpine Geophysical's diverse ocean-oriented interests should eventually pay big dividends. Patience, however, will be required. A modification of the Food and Drug Administration's regulation on the use of marine protein as a food additive is being sought by Alpine. However, in light of the investigations now under way on food additives — cyclamates, monosodium glutamate and so forth — early approval seems unlikely.

The company's five bulk cargo vessels continue to provide a sizable percentage of total revenues. Wheher you should add to your shares would depend on what portion of your capital is now invested in risk situations and how much you can afford to assign to this category.

Executone reported good third-quarter results and is still selling at a relatively reasonable multiple. Additional purchases are warranted.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Wrong Knee Exercise Can Hurt Even Athletes In Good Shape

VAN DELLEN

Deep knee bends are not for everyone. This form of calisthenics places considerable stress on all structures of the joint and more so when deep squats are done while holding weights on the shoulder.

In their book, "The Knee in Sports" (Pemberton Press, Austin, Tex.), Prof. Karl K. Klein and Dr. Fred L. Allman Jr. offer convincing evidence that knee bends considerably overstretch the collateral ligaments leading to joint instability.

Cartilage can also be damaged when squatting and more so when the toes are pointed outward.

LIGAMENTS ARE the first line of defense against knee injury. The stronger and tighter they are, the quicker they bring into play the protective muscles when in danger of injury.

Instead of strengthening the muscles via deep knee bends, it is better to do certain exercises while sitting on a special bench.

Finally, these investigators believe that football heel cleats should be replaced with ordinary lifts to prevent the heel from locking in the turf during cutting and turning actions.

ALONG THIS LINE, are your joints, tendons, and muscles tight or loose? According to Dr. James A. Nicholas, physician for the New York Jets, some people are not built to touch their toes or do push-ups.

Dr. Nicholas has found that football players with relaxed ligaments often emerge from a massive pile-up with injuries. He uses five tests to determine looseness or tightness — touching the palms to the floor, hip rotation, and flexing the shoulder, elbow, and knee.

He applied these tests to 139 players. The 39 who could do three or more of the above exercises were classified "loose," yet 28 of them sustained ruptured knee ligaments that required surgery. In contrast, only 9 out of 100 players who could do fewer than three of the exercises sustained ruptured ligaments.

IN OTHER WORDS, the "tight" boys are better able to withstand injury.

PALE LIDS AND LOBES

A. D. writes: Can a doctor tell if a person has anemia by pulling down his lower eyelids and ear lobes?

REPLY

Yes, but it is more scientific to extract a drop of blood from the ear lobe for an accurate count. What you asked about is of value only when marked anemia exists. By then it is not necessary for the physician to pull down the eyelids or ear lobes as he can tell by looking at the patient's pale face that he is anemic.

CATNIP TEA

A reader writes: A friend of mine is expecting in November. Meanwhile, she is drying catnip to make tea for the baby. She says it is good for hives. Isn't catnip considered a drug? What effect will it have on the baby?

REPLY

Tell your friend to wait until the baby is born to see if he (or she) will develop hives. Catnip is a drug and a poor remedy for hives.

THE HOOKAH

F. S. writes: In regard to smoking, does the use of an oriental water pipe like a hookah sufficiently protect the smoker against lung cancer?

REPLY

I would say yes, because the water tends to filter out the tar and nicotine. In all probability, it has the same cancer risk as smoking a pipe.

EPILEPSY AND SHOCK

C. E. writes: Could a severe emotional shock cause epilepsy?

REPLY

The cause of epilepsy is not known but the majority of victims develop the disease without experiencing an emotional upheaval.

AT OAK RIDGE

Lab Explores Ways To Combat Fallout

The "horns" are of the same composition as the normal horns a steer wears on his forehead—but on that piece of cowhide they are lumpy, misshapen growths, the result of fallout from America's first atomic bomb set off at Alamogorda, N.M., in July of 1945.

WIDESPREAD RESEARCH

That piece of cowhide represents the start of a research program under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission which is producing blackberry bushes without briars, albino barley, new color variations in flowers and decorative plants, and civil defense information on the effects of radioactive fallout on corn and other basic crops.

This program also is hoping to find a way of saving the American chestnut tree from the ravages of a blight which has all but wiped it out.

Director of the laboratory is Dr. Nathan Hall, a soil scientist who took over in 1957, nine years after the first studies were begun.

"In animal research, we have four basic interests," says Hall. "We want to know the effect of radiation on the animal's reproductive processes, the long term effects such as life shortening, the early effects on skin and organs and metabolic disturbances—what finally happens to the fallout material the animal eats."

COMMON, RARE

In these studies, the laboratory makes use of such ordinary farm animals as hogs, cattle, ponies, sheep, chickens, and some not so common animals such as Asian quail and Mexican burros, along with rats and rabbits.

"We have founr," says Hall, "that near fatal doses of radiation produce a definite shortening of the life expentancy of the animal, but during the animal's life there are indications that its capacity to go about its normal work is not impared."

Those first Hereford cattle, caught in the fallout from the initial atomic blast, bought by the U.S. government and shipped to Oak Ridge, recovered from their radiation lesions and produced normal, healthy calves for as long as 16 years after the explosion.

HOT PLANTS

Hall says there are in existence 60 plant lines which have radiation in their backgrounds. Florida has a new oat variety from such experimentation, South Carolina a new lespedeza, North Carolina new peanut lines, and commercial chrysanthemum growers have been working with radiation mutations for some time.

In producing new plant lines radiation is applied to the seed to the whole plant, to the ova of certain plants or to the pollen. One mutation out of 200 to 500 plants is considered a good ratio in these experiments.

Once the mutation is produced, its characteristics are studied to see if desirable results have been achieved. There is no way of predicting the outcome beforehand.

"We play a kind of number game," says Hall, but with plants it doesn't matter. Hundreds of thousands can be produced in a short time and in little space. The laboratory has about 5,000 acres to work in here at the edge of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory facilities.

TV REVIEW

NBC's Bag This Week: Two Dramas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week it was an entire evening of variety and comedy specials. This week NBC will offer two original dramas back to back on Friday night.

It's all part of the network's new scheduling gimmick which it calls "Multi-Special Nights." A 90-minute "Hall of Fame" suspense tale, "The File on Devlin," will be followed by an hour-long "On Stage" production of "Mirror, Mirror, Off the Wall."

In past seasons, a "Hall of Fame" or an "On Stage" production was set in the network schedule like a rare jewel. They are the prized and prestigious dramatic series of NBC, never before put together in one economy-sized package. Even more unusual, both productions are on the light side.

DAME JUDITH

George Schafer, who produced and directed many of the old "Hall of Fame" shows, produced and directed "The File on Devlin." It stars Dame Judith Anderson and David McCallum.

"We tried to do a take-out on the spy melodrama, and we're playing it in the spirit of camp", Schaefer said. "I like actors and I like television and I think it is easier to sustain drama in it. We're all locked up together for three intensive weeks of rehearsal and shooting. Then that's it. It's not at all like doing motion pictures in little pieces."

"Mirror, Mirror, Off the Wall" is a David Shaw comedy about a failing writer who turns out a dirty best-seller under a nom de plume with, hopefully, hilarious results in his private life. George C. Scott and Maureen Stapleton star in this one.

The three networks went all out, as usual, in their coverage of Friday's Apollo 12 launching, starting hours before blast-off and staying with it afterwards.

SAME THING

Since the public has watched so many previous launchings and so much of the coverage consists of simulations, animations, interviews and only an occasional glimpse of the departing astronauts and the rocket on its pad, it does seem that the time has come when the TV coverage could be reduced. Coverage of the upcoming moon exploration is, of course, something else.

Perhaps the networks, having started this extensive coverage, don't quite know how to back away gracefully. Except for the awesome sights of the blast-off itself, the proceedings can be followed just as well on the radio. And the radio coverage by the networks was as well organized and learned as that of television.

Houston Voters Return Mayor

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mayor Louie Welch, whose campaign stressed his experienced management of the nation's sixth largest city, won the right Saturday to manage Houston for two more years.

Welch, 51, carried 53 per cent of the vote to win his fourth straight term as head of Houston's city government.

The biggest threat of his five opponents was state Rep. Curtis Graves, 31, who polled 31 per cent of the vote as the first Negro in modern times to run for mayor. Racism was not made an issue in the low-keyed campaigns.

Welch had said he feared voter apathy. However, a record 189,488 voters—about 48 per cent of the electorate—went to the polls.

DRAMA REVIEW

Similar To 'Hair' In Style

By WILLIAM GLOVER

The show uses all those trappings of McLoonish uproar that are paradoxically making under-30 entertainment revolt into the new conformity. But there's also volatile enthusiasm, sweet sincerity and even talent to offset the high-decibel, strobe-light formula hysteria.

"Stomp" began last winter at the University of Texas in Austin, with Doug Dyer, a graduate drama student, and some lower class collegians expressing restlessness against the political-social status quo. In more developed form and augmented with recruits from other schools, the song-sketch entertainment was done later at the Atlanta Art Center.

"HAIR" PRODUCER

Joseph Papp, impresario of New York's Shakespeare Festival and the man who first produced "Hair," caught the show and brought it to town. During a rehearsal month the 23 lads and lasses of the combine have lived at the theater.

Audience involvement is the keynote. At curtain time all spectators are turned loose in a scramble for seats on benches, and a good many end up squatting in the center of the room. The performers ramble among them, rearrange customers from time to time, exhort them up into holy-roller singalongs and finally lead them down a firestairs for a torchlit rally in the street.

NO PROGRAM

There's no program, so who performs what remains a communal mystery. One girl lips a moody trumpet. Someone else pipes a wooden flute. There are lots of guitars and electric organ, four-letter words and a little cautious nudity.

Some sketeches, including a confrontation with an Establishment spokesman, are very square A lot of the original music is plaintive and touching. A couple of staging effects are theatrically electric. Omitted by the all-white cast in the barrage of protest is any reference to racial integration.

One thing is certain: everyone who attends is going to respond. And most will find that trip downtown both provocative and exhiliarating.

Friendly Rhino

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Tertia, a white rhino in a game reserve near here, polished up her horn on the front bumper of a visitor's car. Every time she rubbed, the car bounced up and down, delighting the occupants. "Tertia was so friendly we experienced no fear at all and were fascinated by her antics," said car owner Desmond White.

Ship Concludes Dream Voyage

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI)—The SS Manhattan returned home yesterday upon successful completion of a 500-year dream to find a northwest passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans.

The 125,000 ton vessel left the Sun Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. here in early August, traveled the ice-locked northwest passage to Alaska and docked at New York Wednesday.

The icebreaker-tanker's mission was to determine whether it would be economically feasible to transport Alaskan oil to east coast markets. The Humble Oil Co., which sponsored the $30 million "gamble" said it would take several months to evaluate data.

Quads Born To Italian Woman

BERGAMO, Italy (AP) — A 30-year-old schoolteacher who took five fertility pills has given birth to quadruplets.

Three boys and a girl were born last night to Giacomina Grassi, wife of an engineer. She and the babies were reported in good condition today.

Conflicts Of Interest Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three employees of Shell Chemical Co. had jobs with a federal agency which deliberated for five years before issuing labeling restrictions for "Shell's "No-Pest Strip," a House committee says.

The finding raises "serious conflict of interest questions," the House Government Operations Committee said in a report issued yesterday.

Two of the Shell employees held positions with the Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Regulation Division and a third was appointed to a task force studying operations of the division.

They were identified as John S. Leary Jr., a former section head in the division; Dr. Mitchell R. Zavon, a part-time consultant to the division, and Dr. T. Roy Hansberry, who was on the task force.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles In Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain.

In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Nixon Asks Change On Nuclear Arms

Call Issued To Helsinki Delegations

HELSINKI (UPI)—President Richard M. Nixon called today for a reversal of the U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms race.

His statement was read to the long-awaited opening session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) which brought the two super powers together today in a first preliminary session.

The talks opened with a champagne toast in the mirrored portrait-lined salon of Finland's yellow stucco banquet hall which was built for the Czarist governors 150 years ago.

ASKS CONFIDENCE

Nixon's statement called the SALT meeting "one of the most momentous negotiations ever entrusted to an American delegation." He asked for an agreement in which both sides can have confidence.

Today's opening session was purely ceremonial. The real talks begin tomorrow in the U.S. Embassy and will alternate between the U.S. and Soviet embassies. They could last for months, even years.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir S. Semenov, chief of the Russian group, listened attentively as Nixon's remarks were translated into Russian. Semenov in his opening remarks had said "it is our desire to see this meeting in Helsinki successfully solving its tasks."

IMPORTANT GOAL

"Curbing of the strategic arms race, limitation and subsequent reduction of such armaments—this is an important goal the achievement of which would meet the vital interests not only of the Soviet and American peoples but also of other nations of the world," Semonov said.

Nixon's statement was read by U.S. arms director Gerard C. Smith, head of the American SALT delegation. Nixon listed recent agreements such as the Antarctic, the limited test ban, the outer space and the nonproliferation treaties and said:

"Other tasks remain on the agenda of the United Nations and the conference of the committee on disarmament. Today, however, you will begin what all of your fellow citizens in the United States and, I believe, all people throughout the world, profoundly hope will be a sustained effort not only to limit the buildup of strategic forces but to reverse it."

Nixon spoke of the difficulties, suspicion and distrust surrounding the conference and said:

"I believe it is possible, however, that we can carry out our respective responsibilities under a mutually acceptable limitation and eventual reduction of our strategic arsenals.

NIXON HOPEFUL

"I am, nevertheless, hopeful that your negotiations with representatives from the Soviet Union will serve to increase mutual security. Such a result is possible if we approach these negotiations recognizing the legitimate security interests of each side."

Nixon said the Americans "are prepared to engage in bona fide negotiations on concrete issues, avoiding polemics and extraneous matters."

The Russians have accused the Americans of trying to link the SALT talks with other unresolved East-West problems.

TWO-DAY PENALTY

San Rafael High Forbids Smoking

San Rafael High School has reinstituted a former policy of suspending students for smoking on campus.

Florence Abraham, administrative assistant to the principal, has notified parents through the school's newsletter that any student caught smoking will be suspended for two days.

"A student who is suspended from school is expected to be at home during school hours and may not participate in any school-sponsored activities during the period of suspension," she announced.

Students have been warned of the rule, she reported, emphasizing that smoking by those under 18 is against the law.

A decade ago, smoking on campus was the No. 1 cause of suspension of students at San Rafael High School. In recent years, however, there has been little enforcement of the campus smoking ban.

No Official Reaction To Alleged Massacre

SAIGON (AP) — The province chief of Quang Ngai province said today that villagers told him 460 Vietnamese civilians were killed during an American military operation in March 1968, but he said he had no firm evidence they were executed by American troops.

Two soldiers, a lieutenant and a staff sergeant, have been arrested in connection with the alleged massacre on March 16, 1968, at Song My village, six miles northeast of Quang Ngai city.

Newsweek Magazine and the New York Times reported yesterday, however, that eyewitnesses said 50 or more soldiers were involved. They said the villagers were herded together, their homes destroyed, and then they were mowed down by GI gunmen.

The province chief, Col. Ton That Khien, said in a telephone interview that three months after the operation by the U.S. Americal Division, villagers "cried that the Americans killed them when they went through the village and made contact with the Viet Cong and they opened fire."

Asked if he believed the villagers were telling the truth, he said: "I think there is some truth but there is also an extension of it. Maybe they exaggerate because of Viet Cong propaganda, because it is a Viet Cong hamlet and the people have been trained by the Communists. The people are guided by the Viet Cong."

Khien said American and Vietnamese investigators from Saigon visited his area about a year ago and discussed the incident. He said the investigators "could not go into the hamlet because it was still in Viet Cong control."

Asked if the Viet Cong still control the village, he said, "No, sir, there's only snipers." The colonel said villagers told him that 370 civilians were killed in one hamlet called Tu Cung and another 90 were killed in the hamlet of My Hoi. Both are part of Song My village.

Khien said he could not confirm the number of dead, that "is the village chief's report."

Khien said he had not spoken to any witnesses to the killings.

"When the villagers told me the Americans deliberately opened fire on them," he said, "I asked, 'Who saw this?' They said they didn't see it for themselves."

Khien said he was aware that bodies of civilians had been buried in rice fields outside the village. But he said there were no plans to dig them up because "they are old bodies."

Both the U.S. Command and U.S. Army headquarters in Saigon refused to comment on the published reports of the alleged massacre, saying they lacked sufficient information to discuss the case.

"We have no records," said an Army spokesman, "everybody involved in the case is gone, and the investigation is being conducted under another command's jurisdiction. We have nothing to base a statement on."

Newsweek said yesterday the case of an Army lieutenant accused of murdering Vietnamese noncombatants "was only one of a string of related incidents in which a total of 567 South Vietnamese in three separate hamlets were slain."

The New York Times, in today's editions, carried a dispatch from Troung An, South Vietnam, relating the same tale and reporting about 60 soldiers implicated. The Times said the slayings took place March 16, 1968.

Apollo 12 Nearing First Moon Orbit

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — America's Apollo 12 explorers swept into the grip of lunar gravity today as the good ship Yankee Clipper hurtled unerringly toward an orbit of the moon tonight.

Their target, a shimmering silver crescent, loomed larger and larger as their home planet shrank in the distance.

At 8:38 a.m. (EST) astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean zipped through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal.

Once across this invisible line, lunar gravity took hold and Apollo 12's speed accelerated after slowing to about 1,500 miles an hour on the long outward coast. The ship was 211,322 miles from earth and 38,933 miles from the moon.

The speed will increase to about 5,700 miles an hour as the astronauts loop behind the moon's backside tonight. At 10:47 p.m. (EST), the are to fire Yankee Clipper's big engine to whip into lunar orbit.

The spacemen were asleep as they entered the lunar sphere of influence. They retired at 7:15 a.m. for a 10-hour rest period after Conrad and Bean inspected the cabin of the lunar landing craft for 45 minutes and reported it in excellent condition. A scheduled eight-hour rest period was extended to 10 hours when the near-perfect flight allowed an afternoon midcourse change to be canceled.

They will attempt to steer the lander, called Intrepid, to a pinpoint landing in a 400-foot-wide circle on the moon's Ocean of Storms early Wednesday to open a new era of discovery, the first detailed exploration of the lunar surface.

Conrad and Bean carried along a television camera to transmit live color pictures of their transfer through a three-foot connecting tunnel into the cabin of the fragile, four-legged vehicle.

As Conrad and Bean moved into the lunar module for the familiarization check, the camera watched as they removed the tunnel hatch and the har-

IT WASN'T COATLESS OUT TODAY

It was a bit nippy in Marin and Southern Sonoma this morning as temperatures plunged to the freezing mark. Frost covered roof tops and cars for a decorative warning of winter.

However, the weatherman predicted temperatures would be in the upper 40s tonight and mild daytime weather would continue tomorrow.

Lowest temperatures were reported in Petaluma and Terra Linda where the overnight low was 32 degrees. Other overnight readings were Novato, 33 degrees; Mill Valley and Tamalpais Valley, 38; San Rafael, 39, and Sausalito, 40. The temperature at 8 a.m. today in Bolinas was 44 degrees.

Bridge Board Hires Chief Of Ferryboats

Harlan L. Soeten of Mill Valley, long-time advocate of reviving ferries on San Francisco Bay, has been hired by the Golden Gate Bridge District as its first chief of ferryboat operations at $16,500 a year.

Soeten, 55, had recently joined the new Oakland Museum as manager of services after leaving the San Francisco Maritime Museum, where he was curator for eight years.

He has 10 years experience at sea as a deck officer, and was Matson Navigation Co.'s night port captain in San Francisco before becoming curator at the maritime museum.

Soeten, in a 1967 interview with the Independent-Journal, proposed four 25-knot, 2-500-capacity passenger ferries with sailings every 20 minutes during peak hours between Marin and San Francisco. He also favored a single terminal in Corte Madera, near the end of the Greenbrae Boardwalk.

He envisioned ferries with "overstuffed seating, coffee shop and restaurant, TV lounge, showers and locker facilities."

Soeten was a member of the San Francisco-Marin Water Transportation Study Committee, which made a $45,000 study that concluded ferryboats would be feasible. The committee's recommendation has been incorporated in a decision by bridge directors to set up a joint commuter bus and ferry system.

Soeten, also in charge of the interim ferry operation resumed last week from Tiburon, reported today that 850 to 900 one-way trips were recorded daily, up slightly from the 700 to 800 before the service was halted by a strike in June. Commuter use was down slightly, he said, but the addition of midday runs had attracted enough shoppers to fill the gap.

Also hired by the bridge district, at $12,500 a year, was Jerome M. Kuykendall, former transportation analyst for the Marin County Transit District. He has been hired to work on the bridge district's long-range transit plan, due to be submitted to the 1971 Legislature.

Mrs. Gandhi In A Major Victory

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi easily won today her first major test in Parliament since the breakup of her ruling Congress Party — indicating her government will be able to survive despite the loss of its absolute majority.

With the aid of independents, Socialists and Communists, she defeated a censure motion brought by the right-wing Swatantra party criticizing the government's participation in the Rabat Islamic summit conference in September.

The vote, 306 to 143 in Mrs. Gandhi's favor, showed she was able to pick up more votes than she had lost by the split in the party.

Byrd Attacks News Media For Anti-Haynsworth Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd said today opponents of the nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. are unwiling to recognize that President Richard M. Nixon won last year's election and that the people want more conservative Supreme Court Justices.

The West Virginia Democrat told the Senate that "the real motive forces" behind the opposition to Haynsworth, now chief judge of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, are powerful economic and bloc pressure groups.

"Specifically," he said, "I refer to the NAACP, certain organized labor groups, and the so-called 'liberal' establishment which controls much of the news media of this nation and which cannot reconcile itself to the results of the last presidential election."

"The truly paramount issue involved in this nomination," he added, "is whether these groups will be able to exercise a veto power over the appointments to the Supreme Court by the President of the United States."

Byrd led off the day's debate on the nomination, expected to be voted on later in the week.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, the acting GOP leader, told newsmen he thought the showdown would come Wednesday or Thursday. He said he expects Haynsworth to be confirmed.

Byrd, the No. 3 Democrat in the party's Senate leadership, said "a frenetic effort" had been made to convince the public that Haynsworth had been guilty of unethical or illegal conduct but that on examination all

Joseph Kennedy Is Reported Near Death

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, father of an American political dynasty, was near death today at his seaside home in the Kennedy compound on Cape Cod.

His condition was described as "very low" by his son-in-law, Ambassador Sargent Shriver, shortly before 8 a.m.

"The end is only a matter of hours aways," Shriver told a newsman after attending early morning mass at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in Hyannis.

Kennedy, father of the late President John F. Kennedy, is 81 and has been in poor health for eight years.

He suffered what a doctor said was a minor heart attack over the weekend.

Shriver said the former ambassador has been unable to eat for several days.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, matriarch of the Kennedy clan, also attended mass this morning at St. Francis Xaiver's, though not with Shriver. She entered the tiny church quickly, and remained inside for several minutes after the service was over.

There was no word on whether Kennedy was conscious, but one unofficial source said he was given the last rites of the Ro-

Reagan Will Use Road Funds To Combat Smog

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Reagan said today that some highway funds will be diverted for smog relief in his 1970-71 budget proposal.

The often-made suggestion that highway funds — derived from taxes on motor vehicle fuel —be used for things other than highway construction and maintenance has been a hotly debated item for years.

In the keynote address at his Conference on California's Changing Environment, Reagan didn't say how much money will be designated to fight smog, but made clear his budget, for the first time, will include it.

"While we are not planning to open up the highway trust funds to finance everything under the sun as some would have us do," he said, "let there be no misunderstanding about our feelings on the use of highway funds to battle smog.

"We have the responsibility to invest these dollars to develop, operate and maintain our streets, highways and freeways. Since the automobiles which use them are the major single contributors to air pollution in California, we also have the definite responsibility to solve the statewide air pollution problems which these automobiles cause."

Mass Protest—Peaceful Or Violent?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The demonstrators who jammed the capital for the biggest peace demonstration in history have gone home, leaving behind a dispute over whether the mass protest against the Vietnam war was peaceful, as they had promised, or violent, as the government had warned.

"I do not believe that, overall, the gathering here can be characterized as peaceful," Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said yesterday of the massive gathering that brought at least a quarter-million war protesters to Washington.

He accused the organizing New Mobilization Committee of failing to heed Justice Department warnings of potential violence.

"That's a lie," New Mobe project director Ron Young retorted when told of Mitchell's statement. "Yesterday, thousands of people were gassed in Washington by this government. Yesterday, hundreds of people were killed in Vietnam by this government. Yesterday, villages were destroyed in Vietnam by this government.

Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson had estimated 250,000 demonstrators turned out Saturday. But he said that estimate was modest.

Herbert G. Klein, who speaks for President Richard M. Nixon, said although the demonstration "again proves that this is a country which allows people to express themselves. "I don't think there's a value in trying to form policy for the United States government, or any government, from crowds on the street."

Nixon himself had nothing to say publicly about the demonstration. He went to a football game yesterday after having spent rally day in the White House, conducting official business and watching a televised football match.

Mitchell, contending the gathering had not been peaceful, pointed to two clashes between police and a militant fringe group of the antiwar protesters.

Near the South Vietnamese Embassy Friday night, and at the Justice Department Saturday after the rally, the police used tear gas to rout the several thousand militants.

A total of about 130 persons were arrested in the two days—only two in connection with the main march and rally. Most were charged with disorderly conduct and released on posting collateral. No serious injuries were reported, and damage appeared limited to several dozen broken windows.

Mitchell, in a statement delivered to news offices as the last stragglers were hitching rides out of the capital and workmen were cleaning up yesterday, said he was "pleased that the great majority of participants obeyed the law."

"I seriously doubt," he said, "that any other nation in the world would have extended the formal and informal cooperation that this government extended, in view of the enormous numbers of persons expected and the substantial likelihood of violence . . .

"Unfortunately, the planned demonstrations were marred by such extensive physical injury, property damage and street confrontations that I do not believe that, overall, the gathering here can be characterized as peaceful."

The department had hestiated for weeks in granting a parade permit for the main march down Pennsylvania Avenue. Intelligence reports, it said, told of impending violence by militant groups that endangered the capital.

"I see no reason," Mitchell said, "to condone the illegal actions of a hard core of militants merely because they were undertaken during a 'peace' demonstration.

"There is only one conclusion that any reasonable person can derive from this series of events:

"The New Mobilization Committee expected violence to occur and that was the result.

"The committee aided this violence through a combination of inaction and affirmaive action.

"The blame for the violence must lie primarily with the New Mobilization Committee—pecifically with those influential members of the steering committee who knew the gathering in Washington would be a vehicle for violence."

Mitchell's statement also blamed the committee for violence "at the Department of Labor."

Although a brief rally was held there Saturday, there were no reports of violence. The Justice Department confrontation was three blocks away.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, meanwhile, began planning for its December activities. Sources within the committee said it was tentatively planning to observe at least one December moratorium day on Christmas Eve.

While the New Mobilization Committee activities had focused entirely on the Saturday march and rally, spokesmen said yesterday the committee will meet next weekend to determine what future steps the peace movement can take.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Still On Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States still has chemical warfare agents on Okinawa nearly four months after announcing plans to speed their removal.

The question could come up for discussion by President Richard M. Nixon and Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato, who arrives here today for talks, including the future of Okinawa.

"Preparations for its removal are under way," is the Pentagon's standard reply to questions about the status of chemical weapons, including nerve gas, on the island south of Japan.

Trip Protest

The biggest police turnout in memory kept the leftists from making good on their threat to prevent Sato's departure.

Some 22,000 riot police and plainclothesmen guarded the roads to Tokyo's international airport. Another 3,000 men were deployed throughout the terminal building.

Cycle Stolen

Link Is Urged

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union should join their communications satellite systems into a worldwide communications link for all nations, experts from 10 nations say.

The proposal was made yesterday by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the Twentieth Century Fund, summarizing the conclusions of a conference of experts held Sept. 21-25 in Talloires, France.

The report conceded that "obstacles undoubtedly exist" to setting up such a system, but said the 68-nation United States Intelsat system and Russia's proposed seven-nation Intersputnik system could be merged without technical difficulties.

Jet Noise Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's first limits on jet airplane noise go into effect Dec. 1, but it probably will be many months before the public notices any less whine in the sky.

Initially the limits are aimed at the four-engine Boeing 747, first of the jumbo jets, a 360-passenger flying hotel lobby scheduled to enter airline service late in February.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the new rules will not be applied strictly at the start because the 747 engines will come close to, but will not actually meet, the standards.

In addition to the 747, the standards, announced by the FAA Nov. 12, will apply to the three-engine Lockheed L1011 and Douglas DC10 air-bus giants, scheduled for delivery to the airlines late in 1971 or in 1972.

U.S. Jets Cross Into Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers crossed the Cambodian border today for the second day of strikes against North Vietnamese artillery pounding the Bu Prang Special Forces camp on the South Vietnamese side of the border.

The U.S. Command said the air and artillery strikes against the gun positions inside Cambodia, which began yesterday, were "an inherent right of self-defense against enemy attacks."

The American bombers returned to Cambodia's skies after a two-hour North Vietnamese artillery bombardment early today against a South Vietnamese task force headquarters a mile southeast of Bu Prang.

Ten South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded, but the results of the retaliatory air strike were not immediately reported.

South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed twice later in the day with North Vietnamese soldiers southeast of Bu Prang. Nine enemy soldiers were killed, and there were no South Vietnamese casualties, spokesmen said.

Yesterday, American fighter-bombers streaked across the border near Bu Prang to attack 85mm and 105mm artillery and 37mm antiaircraft guns.

The U.S. Command said the artillery had fired more than 100 rounds at the camp, 110 miles northeast of Saigon, while the antiaircraft guns had forced down a small American observation plane.

The command said the raiders destroyed two North Vietnamese guns and silenced the others.

During the night, about 20 B52 bombers dropped some 600 tons of bombs on other North Vietnamese targets less than two miles inside South Vietnam between Bu Prang and Duc Lap, another Special Forces camp 25 miles to the north.

Egyptian Frogmen Hit Israeli Ships; Retribution Is Demanded

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli newspapers today angrily demanded swift retribution for an attack by Egyptian frogmen on Israeli ships in the southern Israeli port of Eilat.

Cairo indicated the frogmen took off from the Jordanian port of Aqaba, which faces Eilat across three miles of the Gulf of Aqaba.

"Jordan is responsible for the acts committed from its territory, and it could not have been unaware of plans for this one," said the semiofficial paper Davar.

The last time Eilat was hit—by Arab rockets seven months ago—Israel retaliated with an air raid on Aqaba.

"Aqaba, Jordan's only sea outlet, could be completely paralyzed without a single Israeli soldier crossing the frontier," said the English-language Jerusalem Post, "and there is nothing the Jordanians could do to prevent this from happing."

"It is unthinkable that Israel will not repay the attackers with a strong hand," commented Haaretz.

The papers mentioned the "gentleman's agreement" between Israel and Jordan whereby the two ports are off limits to attack because of their mutual vulnerability.

"It must be made clear to the Jordanians that what goes for Aqaba goes for Eilat," said Haaretz.

Israeli military authorities at first thought yesterday's raid was staged by Arab guerrillas based in Jordon. But Cairo took the credit, claiming the "destruction and sinking" of three ships. Cairo spokesmen said the frogmen were Egyptian regulars dropped near the port by aircraft Sunday morning, and that they returned safely to Egyptian territory after accomplishing "their heroic mission successfully."

Israeli officials said five football-sized holes were blown in the hulls of two ships, the beaching of one to keep it from sinking.

Spokesmen in Tel Aviv said the ships were the 1,800-ton coaster Hey Daroma and the 13,700-ton freighter Dalia. The Hey Daroma was holed twice and had to be beached when it started sinking. The Dalia reported three holes, but damage was described as light and it remained at its anchorage. Both crews were removed without casualties.

The Cairo statement claimed that "the targets were enemy vessels which took part in the recent assault against our Suez Gulf position. Those ships were equipped to be used for military operations . . . These ships had carried enemy troops to attack our coastal positions."

Israeli spokesman said the Hey Droma was sometimes used to carry military supplies.

Israeli naval vessels made a search for the frogmen, but Tel Aviv spokesmen said they escaped.

Guideline For Teaching Of Morals Attacked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Parents testifying before a state board of education committee opposed a proposed guideline for teaching morals in the schools on grounds that the guidelines wasn't moral enough.

"At least teachers should be restrained in the classroom from teaching against morality, against manners and against patriotism," said Mrs. Joseph Bean of La Crescenta at the Los Angeles hearing.

Hearings were held throughout the state Saturday on the newest version of a proposed code. Several parents opposed the code because it lacked biblical references.

"The original moral guidelines mention God 68 times," said Wendy Anderson of Ramona, testifying in San Diego, "while the new draft refers to God only once and that in a quotation."

MOSES, UNCLE SAM

Bus Drivers Win Battle Of Beards

NEW YORK (AP) — Are beards on bus drivers beyond the fringe of neatness?

No, an arbitrator ruled, pointing out that Uncle Sam, Moses and Abraham Lincoln were never labeled slobs for their face hair.

Eight bearded bus drivers for the Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority were suspended for their foliage. The authority and the Transport Workers Union sought arbitration from labor lawyer Theodore Kheel.

Any beard is all right if it is neatly trimmed, Kheel ruled yesterday, and the eight beards he surveyed were neat.

"I was not completely persuaded of the soundness of the analogy," Kheel ruled. "A ragged beard can be trimmed back. There is no legal retreat from pregnancy."

The authority had demanded in a 1963 directive that drivers "must be clean-shaven while on duty." It made exceptions for "neatly trimmed mustaches," but forbid "beatnik-type beards, unusually long sideburns or other facial hair that detracts from dignified appearance."

The directive was reissued last May and the crackdown began.

Twenty-one bearded drivers were ordered to shave. Nine refused and were brought before a suspension hearing. One more gave in bare-facedly.

But the bearded eight vowed to fight. "The beard is part of me. I want to be me. This is my happiness," one driver told the hearing.

In 1870, horse-drawn trolley operators were bewhiskered, Kheel noted. And what about Biblical characters, Aristotle, Plato, King Arthur, Father Time, Uncle Sam and Santa Claus? he asked.

"The rule must be interpreted in light of the times," Kheel ruled. "I am of the opinion, and hold, that beards, sideburns or other 'facial foliage' or hair styles are permissible providing they are 'neatly trimmed.'"

Even though some famous men have been depicted with a flowing untrimmed beard, he said, "I do not believe the riding public is quite ready for that."

Fresh Food Labels Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Leonard Farbstein introduced today a bill requiring packagers of perishable foods to put on the label the date after which it can not safely be used.

"The store manager should not be the only one able to recognize fresh food," said the New York Democrat, noting many stores have an internal system of coding foods with a date beyond which they will spoil if left on shelves.

The measure would allow the secretary of health, education and welfare to determine how long a food can be kept before deteriorating and require the packager to print it on the label.

Execution Date Set For Robles

A Jan. 7 execution date has been set for Anthony Jose Robles, San Quentin Prison inmate convicted of killing a Los Angeles store owner during a 1966 robbery. The date was set in Los Angeles by Superior Court Judge William B. Keene.

Robles is the only inmate now on Death Row whose execution date has been set. The California Supreme Court upheld Robles's death penalty in September.

The Death Row population fluctuates around 75 to 80 men as inmates are granted new trials, appeals or stays of execution.

KENNEDY

man Catholic Church yesterday.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, a long-time family friend, said yesterday that he had received a telephone call from the family "advising me that he had a very serious setback, and it seems that the good Lord is about to take him in the foreseeable future."

Besides Edward and his family and the Shrivers, other members of the family at the compound included Patricia Kennedy Lawford and Jean Kennedy Smith, whose husband Stephen also was there.

And a family spokesman said Ethel Kennedy, widow of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, had been notified of the elder Kennedy's condition and might return to the Cape also.

Kennedy, a financier and one of the nation's wealthiest men, was U.S. ambassador to Great Britain from 1938 to 1940.

He suffered through the loss of three of his four sons—Joseph P. Jr., his eldest, in a plane crash during World War II; John, felled by an assassin's bullet in 1963; and Robert, also killed by an assassin in Los Angeles in 1968.

Tragedy also befell son Edward last summer when his car plunged into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island, south of the Cape, taking the life of Miss Mary Jo Kopechne.

Family sources said that while Kennedy was told of Robert's assassination—though not immediately—he never was informed of Edward's accident.

Kennedy suffered a stroke in Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 19, 1961, and has been partially paralyzed ever since.

He suffered setbacks from time to time in the years that followed. His latest seizure, a spokesman said, occurred Saturday.

Land Rezoning To Be Studied

Rezoning of 710 acres south of Highway 37 and west of Black Point to planned community will come before the Novato City Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The council was considering the master plan for this area for John E. Kenney when City Att. Clark M. Palmer Jr. on Nov. 4 gave the legal opinion that previous zoning by the county did not apply on annexation to the city. Now the council must rezone it before it can consider the master plan.

Other items on the agenda include the awarding of a contract for the spray pool at Pioneer Memorial Park, funding of the senior citizens program and an appeal by Jack D. Kinner for a 40-foot cutbank for a convalescent hospital on Hill Road at Indian Valley Road.

Jill Hebbron, 41, of 1004 Los Gamos Road, San Rafael, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken leg suffered when her car struck a parked car on the Terra Linda off-ramp from Highway 101 at 3:05 a.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported. The parked car was owned by Elaine Wallace, Box 143, San Geronimo.

Novatan Is Booked On Weed Probe

A 22-year-old Novato man was booked into Marin County Jail last night on suspicion of marijuana possession after an off-duty sheriff's deputy allegedly noticed the drug in his auto.

His companion, a 20-year-old Washington youth was booked for investigation of being in a place where marijuana is used.

The arrest occurred at a boat launching ramp on Harbor Drive in Black Point when Deputy Richard Borba, returning from a boating trip noticed a car parked in the middle of the ramp. When Borba went to ask the driver, to move, he saw, a plastic bag containing a green substance, believed to be marijuana, on Fountain's lap and what appeared to be a hand-rolled cigarette.

Fountain was ordered to appear at 2 p.m. in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow. Jones was to appear this afternoon.

150 Hike In JFK's Memory

More than 150 persons hiked to the top of Mount Tamalpais Saturday to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the death of President John F. Kennedy.

Hikers were accompanied by the Piedmont High School Bagpipe Band which gave a brief concert half way up the mountain, according to Mill Valley City councilman Jerome C. Hauke, master of ceremonies for the hike.

At the summit, telegrams from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Cmdr. James T. Lovell, chairman of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, were read, Hauke said.

The annual march was sponsored this year by the Mill Valley Youth Commission.

Patrolman Hit; Injuries Minor

A California Highway patrolman from Novato was injured Saturday when he was struck by a car as he was setting out flares for a tow truck, the patrol reported today.

The patrol said he was placing flares on a connector road on the south side of Golden Gate Bridge when he was hit at 4:50 p.m. by a car driven by Fred Casissa, 74, of San Francisco, who braked too hard and skidded. Casissa's car then went into the path of a second tow truck driven by Steven Paul Saft, 28, of San Francisco.

Inside the lander cabin, the astronauts beamed pictures of the control panels, the back packs they'll wear on the moon, window markings that will help them land on the moon and dust particles floating in weightlessness.

Through one window they showed the receding earth, about three- quarters in darkness. And through another they pictured the moon, a thin sliver of light.

"The view is spectacular," Bean commented.

"It seems that we're in suspended animation," Conrad said.

An Accident, Weather And Traffic

Beautiful weather, baseball fans returning to Marin from Candlestick Park and an injury accident on the Golden Gate Bridge got together yesterday afternoon and came up with one of the worst Sunday jams ever to hit the congested corridor.

The accident was at 5:35 p.m., when three airmen returning to Travis Air Force Base hit the rear of a second car, bridge officers reported. One, Robert Campbell, 20, suffered minor injuries, but was not removed from the scene by ambulance until shortly after 6 p.m.

By then, however, northbound traffic had backed up to Lombard Street, onto the Marina, and back to Fulton Street. The glut did not ease until after 6:30 p.m.

California Highway Patrol officers reported that they asked the bridge officers to open a third northbound lane after the accident, but bridge officers said the shift of traffic dividers would have had to have been switched back to give southbound traffic four lanes.

The bridge district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring, said his staff is studying installation of automatic "pop-up" lane dividers. They would cost "several million dollars," he noted.

Airmen Injured In Span Crash

Three Travis Air Force Base airmen were injured yesterday when their car hit the rear of a second car stopped for heavy traffic on Golden Gate Bridge, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The patrol said their car hit the rear of one driven by Richard Frank Czapleski, 27, of 1801 Vistazo West, Tiburon, at 5:30 p.m.

JUDGE

of the cases cited "amount to nothing."

"The real reasons for the high pressure campaign to defeat the Haynsworth nomination are his judicial philosophy and the fact that he is a white, conservative Southerner," Byrd said.

"To be brutally frank," he said, "President Nixon was elected because his political position appeared to be less liberal than that of the candidate of my own party, a fact which apparently is not fully understood by some members of the President's own party in the Senate.

"Now Mr. Nixon is criticized because he does not adopt the politics of the losers in appointing Supreme Court judges. Haynsworth has a conservative image but that, after all, is what our nation voted for."

Debate on the confirmation began Thursday and at week's end an Associated Press poll showed 40 senators against and 37 for Haynsworth.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott, meanwhile, said Nixon should name another southerner and a "strict constructionist" to the high court should Haynsworth's nomination be rejected.

"I said if it should fail," the Pennsylvanian said. "The President fully expects it to be confirmed."

Scott was interviewed yesterday on the ABC program "Issues and Answers."

HIS WISH GRANTED

Susan Anderson(left), a 16-year-old San Rafael High School junior, ran out of gas Friday on Highway 101 at Puerto Suello Hill and later she was "terrified" when no one stopped to help and thoughts of what to do raced wildly through her mind. Then Fred Katen (right) came along. Katen, who lives in Petaluma and is employed as a truck driver for a road construction outfit currently working on the freeway, offered some of the company's gas. Susan accepted and offered a return favor. Katen laughed it off but Susan persisted. "Well," he said finally, "Id like a chocolate cake." Susan obliged that afternoon.

Firm Agrees To Restudy Center Plans

Representatives of the Bothin Real Estate Co. have agreed to restudy development plans for a shopping center on nine acres at the intersection of Camino Alto and Miller Avenue to provide more commerical recreational development, Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon reported.

Bragdon said the developer's plans for the shopping center were opposed by approximately 12 Mill Valley merchants and land owners at a workshop session held Saturday by the Mill Valley City Council and Planning Commission.

Commissioners and councilmen also opposed a general commercial development, Bragdon said, and asked developers to resubmit plans for a commerical recreational center with general commercial development as a secondary use.

Businessmen argued that the downtown, Miller Avenue and Alto Bowl commercial areas already provide adequate area for commercial development and that development of an additional nine acres could not be justified.

Additionally, Bragdon said, commissioners and councilmen said that because the proposed development will be adjacent to two schools and the city's proposed yacht harbor, a recreational commercial use would be more appropriate.

12-Horse Corral Denied By Zoner

A 16-horse corral in Santa Venetia, next to Gallinas School and Venetia Oaks housing project for the elderly, must be discontinued, County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill ruled this morning.

His ruling may be appealed to the Marin County Planning Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bosch of 11 Meadow Drive operate the horse stable on 10.6 acres at 257 North San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia. The property is owned by the estate of the late Paul Schmidt. Bosch is administrator of the estate.

Residents, Princnpal Virgil Birdsall of Gallinas School and Edwin T. Ryken, executive director of the senior coordinating council, cited danger from runaway horses and health hazards from flies, manure and dust caused by the corral.

Ryken reported that about six months ago, runaway horses nearly charged a group of elderly people on the sidewalk in front of Venetia Oaks.

Birdsall said that last year a school child was bitten by a runaway horse from the corral.

The only person in support of the stables was Bernard Todman of San Francisco, a member of the Marin Sheriff's Posse, who keeps two horses there. He said his stable is always clean, and the fences around the corral have been repaired to prevent runaways.

Mrs. Bosch said the horses have been there for years, and no complaints had been received until now.

Cordill said the property is zoned for suburban agriculture, which permits only three horses. He said the keeping of any horse on a commercial stable basis appears to be detrimental to the health and welfare of the surrounding residential areas.

Open Space Policy Will Be Studied

A basic disagreement on future planning of open space will be discussed when the Corte Madera Town Council meets at 7:30 p.m. today at town hall.

The planning commission has submitted its reactions — unfavorable — to the county planning staff's report on open space. The county planners reported that it is "a deception" to imply that local zoning can meet open space needs, and said state or regional zoning will be needed.

The town planning commission last week objected to state or regional zoning, and suggested the council consider dropping out of the City-County Planning Council when the current agreement ends in 1970 because its meetings "have tended to be more of a monologue than the dialogue which was originally intended."

The council also will discuss a proposed policy statement by the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen about city-county services and tax equity. Cities have complained that the county slights incorporated areas in services although collecting taxes from them.

Near-Collision Sparks Brawl, Four Arrests

A near head-on collision between an unmarked Marin County sheriff's car and a vehicle carrying four youths led Thursday to a brawl and the arrest of one of the youths for suspicion of assaulting a police officer, deputies said Saturday.

Arrested was Robert J. Kirby, 19, of 105 Garden Avenue, San Rafael. He posted $6,500 bail and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers Alfred Teixeira and Dennis Sawdon were patrolling on San Pedro Road near China Camp at 3 p.m. when their car was nearly hit by a car driven by Kirby, deputies said.

Upon stopping the car, officers noticed open cans of beer in the vehicle and informed the quartet they were under arrest for possession of alcohol by minors and having an open container of beer in the car.

Kirby, officers reported, resisted arrest by first shoving Teixeira then kicking him in the groin. He allegedly attacked Sawdon.

The officers reported that a second youth, Michael L. Goelz, 18, of 27 Montecillo Drive, San Rafael, yelled "Lets get them" and jumped from the car.

Teixeira, however, drew his revolver and held the other three at bay while Sawdon battled for several minutes to subdue Kirby.

Goelz, Randell L. Pagano, 18, of 195 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, and Bruce D. Smith, 19, of Petaluma, were arrested on suspicion of possession of alcohol by minors.

Sigma Delta Chi Rebukes Agnew For Media Blast

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Sigma Delta Chi, the nation's largest journalistic society, has rapped Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for unconstructive criticism and pledged itself to reject any governmental attempt to control the news or its analysis.

The group, which represents about 19,500 journalism students and newsmen in both the print and electronic media, adopted a resolution rebuking Agnew at the society's 60th annual convention during the weekend.

The resolution said the group "rejects and condemns efforts by the vice president or other government officials to control or impede coverage and the flow of legitimate comment on and analysis of the news."

Decision On Dues Brings Peace To Employees Group

The northern regional conference of the League of County Employees Association agreed to a slight raise in dues to the statewide organization, at a conference held in San Rafael Saturday.

About 60 representatives from the Bay Area to Shasta County were hosted by the Marin County Employees Association at Holiday Inn.

The question of dues was the big issue, said Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association. Dues for some smaller counties will go up, but for Marin, it will remain about the same, said Prevo. Marin County Employees Association dues at present are about $800 per year.

Southern California wanted a raise in dues from each county organization. Northern counties resisted, causing a split at the statewide convention held in Fresno last Oct. 16-18. Prevo said Saturday's decision by the northern bloc to go along with the southern suggestion means that peace has been restored in the state league.

However. the permit has not been issued, pending comment from the state which could take as long as six more weeks, a corps spokesman said.

Fairfax Marchers Call For Peace

By CHARLES YOAKUM

The little corner restuarant was closed and a small sign in the window explained why.

"No business as usual Nov. 14-15. Vietnam moratorium march."

An elderly couple who had come down for noon coffee Saturday peered into the dark restaurant, read the sign, then sauntered up the street toward an open coffee shop.

Around the corner, about 100 yards away, a handful of people cast apprehensive glances skyward, where dark, threatening clouds were forming, as they busied with a loundspeaker mounted on a flatbed truck.

Then the first sign cautiously poked its head out against the grey skyline, followed quickly by others, as the vanguard of the march reached the top, then started down the gentle slope leading to the Fairfax city park.

There were mostly children and tee-agers in the front, shuffling really rather than marching, but as the procession snaked down into the park, its fat middle bulged with adults.

When the tail of the snake coiled comfortably in the park, more than 300 persons — who had started from various locations around Fairfax but who joined into one parade on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — crowded around the flatbed truck that was to be the center stage for an afternoon rally.

Almost everybody had a sign of some kind. Some big, some small. Almost all carried one message . . . "Peace" Only one sign differed. It read "Only in Fairfax does freedom of speech end at dark," alluding to a court decision Friday which limited the rally to the daylight hours.

The audience was mixed. There were long-haired, barefooted teen-agers, and crew-cut, turtle-necked adults.

There was Councilman Adelaide P. Wilson, who said she had decided it was time local political bodies became active in trying to convince the Nixon administration to end the war.

Then there was Fairfax's senior citizen director, Eleanor Jones, who called for the younger generation to "bear with the establishment" and to unite in an effort to end the war.

Then there was Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. who said he was concerned most about the "serious polarization of opinion brought on by this tragic controversy."

Then there was Sir Francis Drake High School teacher Gerald M. Lucey who called for the immediate withdrawal from Vietnam and an "immediate end to this terrible and immoral war."

And in between there was music, some folk, some rock.

By about 3 p.m., the crowd had dwindled. Mothers left to take children home for naps, long overdue. Others were driven away by the cold wind, and threatening rain.

There had been fears there might be violence at the rally, but there was only one untoward moment all afternoon.

About 3 p.m., a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. truck appeared and cut power in the park. Police Chief James R. Orr said someone had complained the hookup was illegal.

However, the turn-on had been cleared with the city and the PG&E district manager in the name of a PG&E official who lives in Fairfax.

The committee had guaranteed payment and members said they thought it had been turned on by PG&E. However, there was no argument as committee members switched to a power source across the street.

At 5:30, with only a handful of faithful remaining, the rally concluded with a candlelight ceremony.

Democrats To Study Endorsement Policy

Circumvention of a state law barring official political organizations from pre primary election endorsements will be considered by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 204 of the Marin County Courthouse, San Rafael.

Notices of the meetings sent to committee members and others said the main purpose of the meeting was "to seek means to have one candidate and only one contending for the nomination for state senator at as early a date as possible."

Section 11702 of the state Election Code declares that state and county central committees "shall not endorse, support or oppose any candidate for nomination by that party for partisan office in the direct primary election."

The notices were written and mailed by the committee's corresponding secretary, Gordon Pusser. Informed by the Independent-Journal of the state code's restruction, Pusser said, "If that's the case, we won't do it."

But he added that the committee "only is doing in the open what other parties do in secret."

The committee's chairman, S. Robert Politzer, objected that Pusser's notice "did not use the correct words." The committee only would discuss "lending suppor to a preprimary endorsing convention," Politzer said.

But Politzer stressed that the while the committee may "sponsor" such a convention, persons attending the convention would represent the volunteer Democratic groups in the three-county senatorial district, and would not represent the central committee.

Politzer acknowledged that memberships in Democratic volunteer groups had fallen, and that the convention instead may be opened up to all registered Democrats, Pusser noted that the two known contenders for the nomination, Richard M. Adams of Belvedere and Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, would attend and "test the wind." Pusser said one of the two reportedly may drop his candidacy, but he declined to say which one.

Unification Vote On Board Agenda

Proposed legislation to eliminate mandatory school unification elections in California will be discussed at Wednesday's meeting of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. in the county school board's office in Corte Madera.

The committee, which agreed to back the legislation at its Oct. 15 meeting, has asked for responses on the proposal from all county committees on district organization and Marin school boards.

Letters and resolutions received in answer to the inquiry will be presented and considered at the meeting.

The committee will also elect a new chairman and vice chairman.

A MESSAGE OF IMPORTANCE TO ALL PEOPLE AT THE REBELLIOUS AGE.

There comes a time in your life when it seems absolutely right to rebel against old ideas. Against all the things that seem to be stacked up against your generation.

Your Faith echoes the very feelings you probably have right now. About injustice. Inhumanity. Poverty. Cruelty. Prejudice. Hate.

That's why your Faith is the very thing you should be working with.

It can strengthen you. It can make things happen. In yourself, and in all the world around. But only if you let it. And only if you put it to work.

Klein Urges Media Debate On Coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's criticism of network television news coverage raises "a legitimate question," but one that should be debated within the industry, says a spokesman for President Richard M. Nixon.

But should the industry fail to scrutinize itself, said Herbert G. Klein, "you do invite the government to come in. I'd like not to see that happen."

REEXAMINE CALL

"He (Agnew) was proposing that the networks, and I think you can go beyond that, all the news media, needs to re-examine itself in the format it has and its approach to problems of news to meet the current issues of the day," he added.

Klein, a former newspaper editor and now Nixon's director of communications, said yesterday of Agnew's contention that a "small and unelected elite" in the national television networks is abusing its power over public opinion:

"I think there's a legitimate question to be debated within the industry. I would be opposed to government participation in it. But in the industry, whether we're doing a good enough job, whether we're being objective enough and whether we might not spend more time in self-examination."

Klein appeared on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation." Meanwhile, a top Republican leader was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

SCOTT'S VIEWS

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Agnew's Des Moines, Iowa, speech last Thursday "brought out the issue that to a degree television isn't always objective.

"You aren't. And it isn't your role to be," Scott told his interviewers. "I think he has asked everybody in the country to look at television and compare it with the press and say to television that 'we hope you will give us the straight news . . . but when you're editorializing say so.'"

Scott also said he would oppose any attempt by government to censor the news.

The vice president was accused by some network officials of advocating news censorship when he said: "Perhaps it is time that the networks were made more responsible to the views of the nation and more responsible to the people they serve."

REVIES PLAN

Agnew, however, said he was not proposing government censorship.

NBC board chairman Walter D. Scott said in New York yesterday he did not interpret Agnew's speech as a call for censorship, but for "restrictions we don't agree with.

"Implicit in the vice president's speech was a call for restrictions on the ability to conduct journalistic enterprise, the NBC chief said.

Pegging his speech to network analysis and comment on Nixon's Nov. 3 Vietnam policy address, Agnew also said: "They are challenged to turn their critical powers on themselves . . . toward improving the quality and objectivity of news presentation."

WAS HIS OWN

Klein said Agnew's speech was his own, but acknowledged the Nixon administration is concerned about television news coverage of its activities.

"I think that there's concern," he said. "It's a concern among all the American people as is evidenced by response to the vice president's comments, which was a tremendous outpouring."

To Discuss Duties

The Tamalpais High School District Discipline Study Committee will discuss the duties assigned it this year by the district board when it meets at 4 p.m. tomorrow in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Cat Burglar Hits Shop Inside Walls Of Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A cat burglar hid in the cupola of St. Peter's Basilica last night, looted a souvenir and jewelry shop on the cathedral's roof and escaped through a side door early today.

The Vatican said he got away with $8,000 to $9,600 in gold and religious objects and cash. A small part of loot was money, said the Vatican press spokesman, Msgr. Fausto Vallainc, adding that none of the Vatican treasures were missing.

The thief apparently made no attempt to break into the sacristy on the main floor of the basilica, where the so-called "treasure of St. Peter's" is kept. The treasury is locked at night and extensively rigged with burglar alarms, making illegal entry extremely difficult.

The treasury contains vestments, missals, chalices, monstrances, crucifixes and similar religious objects. Its most ancient possession is an 8th century bronze crucifix set with jewels and containing a fragment of what is aid to be the original cross.

Vatican sources said the thief apparently entered the church with the crowds yesterday and hid on scaffolding inside the cupola, which is being restored. After the cathedral closed for the night, he presumably went through the door leading out to the roof and went to the shop at the base of the dome.

After the theft, he apparently came down an interior stairway, found a set of keys and let himself out through a side door called the Door of the Dead. It was found open at 6 a.m. by a gendarme making his rounds.

The doors of the basilica were kept closed for an hour and a quarter later than usual this morning while officers checked the premises.

The theft was the first of its kind at St. Peter's. Another souvenir shop was burglarized at night several years ago, but it is located outside the basilica, on its north side, near the Vatican post office.

A week ago there were reports that priceless paintings had been stolen from Pope Paul's own apartment, but the Vatican denied the reports.

Announcing the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe.

If it wasn't for the way it copes with panic stops and unexpected curves, it would be just another beautiful automobile.

The announcement of the new Mercedes-Benz 250 Coupe might easily become lost amid the din of pronouncements like "daringly different," "startlingly bold," and "dramatically new" which emanate from Detroit each year at new car introduction time.

But it hasn't escaped the notice of automotive experts and Mercedes-Benz enthusiasts. They recognize that the 250 Coupe introduces the pure, simple and honest styling of a Mercedes-Benz in a classical coupe configuration.

Sharply raked windscreen and formal rear pillars of the 250 Coupe are attractive indeed. But the true beauty lies in the way it performs in a tight situation.

Reacts professionally under stress

The rake of the windscreen and the graceful slope of the formal rear pillars give the Coupe a certain élan. Yet Mercedes-Benz scorns the concept of automobiles that rest their reputation on beauty—but then turn ugly in a tight situation. The true beauty of the Coupe, they insist, is the professional way it reacts under the stress of an emergency. A beauty you have to experience to appreciate.

You know the feeling. Another driver runs a stop sign. Or brake lights suddenly flash ahead of you on a busy, high-speed expressway. No matter how beautiful your car is on the outside, your heart shudders momentarily as you make what is aptly termed a "panic" stop.

You may still get that feeling the first time a similar situation confronts you in the 250 Coupe. But after you experience the enormous stopping power, you begin to appreciate the priceless value of this automobile. For suddenly you are a more confident driver.

Disc brakes reduce fade

Hopefully, you will never need the heroic stopping power of disc brakes. But Mercedes-Benz refuses to just hope. So they insist on attaching a massive disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Automotive engineers acknowledge the superiority of disc brakes over common drum brakes.

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in smoking panic stop situations—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus resist fading.

Racing car suspension

If you ever built a soapbox racer, you know the principle of a solid-beam rear axle—one wheel at each end of a rigid shaft.

In combination with springs and shock absorbers, a solid-beam axle is a simple, relatively inexpensive way to suspend the rear of an automobile. The design enjoys widespread acceptance—in fact all domestic sedans use solid-beam rear axles.

But like most simple solutions, it raises other problems. You have to choose between boulevard ride and surefooted handling. Soften the suspension and you sacrifice road holding—so important in those circumstances that demand sharp reflexes from both car and driver. Stiffen the suspension and the ride becomes unduly harsh. You improve cornering—at the expense of your backbone.

But there is another way. Independent rear suspension. Put four joints in the axle to allow each rear wheel to move over bumps independently of the other just as the front wheels do.

Enjoy driving again

The sophisticated braking and suspension systems that make you a more confident driver also work to make driving enjoyable again. In an era when most automobiles are designed to transport you from point A to point B in ultimate isolation and boredom, the 250 Coupe is a revelation.

With its 2.8-liter overhead camshaft engine, the responsive and obedient Coupe is engineered for those red-blooded souls who refuse to relegate their driving skills to monotonous turnpikes. Designed for more than just "straight line" driving, Mercedes-Benz automobiles exhibit the versatility of a decathlon champion under all types of driving conditions.

So avoid the expressways when the mood strikes you. Take that interesting back road and enjoy scenery more dramatic than someone else's exhaust pipe. You'll find the 250 Coupe and all Mercedes-Benz motor cars make driving something to do—not something that must be done.

A lasting investment

It takes a bit longer than your first refreshing drive to appreciate the durability of the 250 Coupe. Perhaps 50,000 miles or so. Then you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle. For the Coupe, like every Mercedes-Benz, is not bolted into being like most cars, but fused into a single rattle-thwarting unit by thousands of welds.

But Mercedes-Benz engineers don't stop there. They stubbornly insist that each component be designed and inspected to be as staunch as the next. Vital engine parts are probed with X rays to spot invisible flaws. Tolerances are checked on special marble tables with instruments so precise a human hair propels the recording device off the scale. Even items like washers, screws and dashboard knobs are regularly sliced in half and analyzed by infrared spectrography.

The end result of this demand for perfection is not something that you can see, but something you will appreciate—in time.

Understanding Mercedes-Benz styling

Ten years ago, rocket-ship taillights, bumper exhausts and wraparound windshields were "in." Today it's decal "racing" stripes, peekaboo headlights and spoilers that don't really spoil anything at legal speeds. Tomorrow—who knows?

Mercedes-Benz does not employ "mod" designers to create and pander to these fads. For fads seldom last more than a couple of years. Certainly not the lifetime of a Mercedes-Benz.

Example: The graceful roof was engineered as an integral part of a sturdy safety zone surrounding the occupants.

Example: The hood covers the engine. Period. You don't push around yards of sheet metal in front of the radiator for the sake of imagined status.

Drive the 250 Coupe for ten years—and it will be on its way to becoming a "classic"—not a laughable reminder of passé fetishes.

The California Highway Patrol said his car was eastbound on Stage Gulch Road, drifted into the south shoulder and overturned into an enbankment.

He is survived by his wife, Lupe.

San Bernardino Curfew Lifted

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — The five-day old dusk-to-dawn curfew, imposed during scattered violence on the predominantly Negro West Side, was lifted this weekend at the request of Negro City Councilman Norris P. Gregory Jr.

Mayor Al C. Ballard Saturday called off the curfew after racial tension subsided in the two square mile area, which was the scene of five nights of scattered rock and bottle throwing.

Gregory, speaking for "the collective voice of the black community," asked the mayor to lift the curfew after meeting earlier Saturday with black youths and adults in the community, comprising a group called Black Fathers, Inc., a Negro men's group formed after racial violence had flared last month at San Bernardino High School.

Court Changes Mind On Obscenity Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court issued an order today indicating it was about to review its position on obscenity—but two and a half hours later the court announced it had made a mistake.

The court announced first that it would hear an appeal from a Watertown, N.Y., grocery and sundry store operator, Louis Carlos, who was convicted of selling girlie magazines.

Later the court issued a new order saying without explanation, that the earlier order was revoked. A court spokesman said the switch was the result of an error but would not elaborate.

Putting the Carlos case on the calendar for argument would have been a major step since in similar cases in the past the court has summarily reversed convictions without going through a formal hearing.

The case remains pending before the court, which could later reject the appeal, overturn the conviction or set a hearing. Setting a hearing would give the court a chance to say more on the obscenity question, one of the most controversial issues currently before the courts.

This was the third such slipup by the court this term. In October the court announced it had taken on an Alabama criminal case, then said it had made a mistake and dismissed the case the following week.

Later in October the court announced it had taken on a draft case but said at the end of the day it was an error. It has done nothing about the case since.

Suspects Booked On Grand Theft

A Lagunitas man and an East Bay man were booked into Marin County Jail early this morning for investigation of grand theft.

Lance L. Brown, 22, of Alto Road, and James R. Watkins, 22, of El Sobrante were arrested about 7 a.m. after sheriff's deputies discovered them in a truck allegedly containing 18 sheets of plywood taken from a 20th Century Homes building site in Mill Valley.

On a tip from a neighbor, the deputies went to the site on Montford Avenue and made the arrest.

Both were held to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Pair Jailed For Exploring Span

Two San Francisco men who tried to walk on the underside of the Golden Gate Bridge Saturday to study the understructure found they would have to learn about it some other way.

The two, Arthur Robert Martin, 37, and Larry O. Brandon, 34, were seen going over the rail and ordered to return. Martin did, but Brandon refused and officers reported they had to lift him over the rail.

Both were booked into San Francisco City Prison on suspicion of trespassing and Brandon was also booked on suspicion of being drunk in public.

Hiking Salaries Of Six To Be Reviewed

Salary raises for six elected county officials, ranging from $3,400 to $6,800 a year, will be considered by the Marin County Board of Supervisors tomorrow.

If the supervisors adopt the new salaries, they must do so before February, when filing starts for the next four-year terms for the posts, according to County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney.

Two-step raises will be recommended by county personnel director Maren Rinne, one to take effect Jan. 1, 1970, and the second effective Jan. 1, 1973.

The proposed salaries: Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, now paid $22,000 a year, to $25,200 in 1970 and to $27,800 in 1973.

Sheriff, Louis P. Mountanos, $21,600 now, to $24,000 in 1970 and $26,400 in 1973.

County Clerk, George Gnoss, same as Fontez.

County Recorder, Niel T. Giocomini, $15,000, now to $19,350 in 1970 and $22,300 in 1973.

Coroner-Public Administrator Donovan O. Cooke, $13,000 now, to $15,150 in 1970 and $16,400 in 1973.

The supervisors will open a long agenda at 9:15 a.m. tomorrow when Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, will present the board a $17,000 check from the state for Bolinas Lagoon, now under county jurisdiction.

The supervisors are also to pick seven youths to serve on the Marin Youth Commission from a list of 11 presented by the commission's screening committee.

The board will also hold hearings on alignment of the Miller Avenue extension in Tamalpais Valley, a special assessment district for sewer installation at Oceana Marin subdivision at Dillon's Beach, and future street width lines on Merrydale Road, Los Ranchitos.

The board also will discuss alignment of South San Pedro Road at Bayside Acres, and a recommendation by the Public Works Director Donald R. Frost that the Los Ranchitos Road entry to Highway 101 be closed.

A hearing on the request by Smith Ranch airport for commuter flights to San Francisco has been withdrawn.

Urbanization Continues To Swallow Land

Marin lost 40 per cent of its cultivated agricultural land to urbanization between 1960 and 1966, according to an agricultural resources report released by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The report indicated Marin lost 8.6 per cent of its land area to new subdivisions during that period.

Land in field crops in Marin dropped from 5,944 acres in 1960 to 3,500 acres in 1966 in Marin, the study showed. Marin's total acreage is 332,800, nearly half of it in livestock production, including dairying. Marin had 167,817 acres in pasture and range in 1960, which droped in 162,441 acres in 1966, according to the study.

The Bay Area loses an average of 13,000 acres of agricultural land a year to other uses, the report said, but farm production has remained constant at $300 million a year because farmers have turned to higher yeild crops and increased productivity.

The study, noting that a third of the Bay Area's best farm land has been converted to urban use, suggested a detailed method local planners can use to determined actual costs and benefits of keeping or developing agricultural land in future.

The study recommended that the value of agricultural land as an open space resource be considered by local governments, as well as its value in production, flood plain protection, airshed quality protection, visual attractiveness and as a tourist attraction.

A recent state law giving landowners a tax break if they promise to keep the land in agricultural use for 10 years has been only moderately successful in keeping land in farm use, the study noted. The study said Marin has more agreements under the law than any other Bay Area county, although a greater acreage in Santa Clara County is covered by the agreements.

Essex Street Rezone Before Hub Council

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing on rezoning from single family to planned community of three acres on Essex Street at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

Three Are Critical From Santa Cruz Gang Rumble

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Three persons were in critical condition today, two of them shot in the head in a clash between Negroes and a band of motorcyclists.

It appeared simply a fight between two groups, one of local blacks and another "either members or followers" of the Hells' Angels, said detective Lt. Charles Scherer.

Just how it started was not known, officers reported. "Some one said something and one thing led to another," said police Sgt. William Pinard.

Police arrived soon after the fighting erupted and controlled the two groups quickly, Pinard said.

By that time, three persons had been downed by bullets. Wounded in the head were Larry Smith, 17-year-old black, and Elizabeth Bigwood, 19, white, both of Santa Cruz. Shot in the stomach was Larry Wilder, 19, white, of Santa Cruz, whose condition was listed as fair at Santa Cruz Hospital.

Also listed as critical was Rick Gutierrez, 28, white, of Oakland, who had been hit on the head with a blunt instrument.

Two blacks, Lewis Jones, 22, and William S. Blam, 18 were arrested and booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

The clash involved about 12 blacks and 15 cyclists, Sherer said.

A .22-caliber rifle was found at the scene and investigators believe a .38-caliber gun also was used, he added.

Quarterly Service Taken By Library

The Mill Valley Library is now subscribing to the Congressional Quarterly Service, a news research service which provides an up-to-date thorough and objective account of national government and politics, according to librarian Dorothy Thomas.

Although the service focuses on congress in operation, it also encompasses national politics, presidential activity, major judicial decision, lobbying and reviews of significant national issues, Mrs. Thomas said. A weekly listing of how members of Congress vote on roll calls is also provided.

Clausen Given Distinguished Service Award

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, today was presented the Distinguished Service Award by the board of trustees of the Americans for Constitutional Action.

The award is given every two years to legislators whose voting records in Congress support legislation which strengthens and defends the principles of the Constitution.

Admiral Ben Moreel, chairman of ACA board, made the award in Washington. He praised Clausen for "devotion to the fundamental principles of good government which serve to promote individual rights and responsibilities, a sound dollar, a growing economy and a desire for victory over Communist agression."

Clausen, serving his fourth term in Congress, is a member of the House public works, and interior and insular affairs committees.

Goals On Agenda

ART REVIEW

Scope Of Biblical Drawings Powerful

By LAURA DEVENDORF

There is almost nothing to them — just a few black lines on an expanse of white. Yet Eleanor Dickinson's huge, life-size drawings of biblical characters have more flesh, soul and substance than many more elaborately drawn figures or even painted work.

An exhibit of these unusually powerful Old Testament figures is being shown through Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. And though the selection is small, there is enough to describe the artist's total empathy with human emotion.

Her figures, while inspired by biblical people and events, are more simple human beings in the act of caring and loving, of meeting pain and punishment and of responding with all the despair, fortitude and hope within the human psyche.

The emotions are complex but Mrs. Dickinson's spartan style gives them a directness and reality which is gripping. Just a few sure lines and the Job she shows fallen naked to the ground, head in hands, personifies the anguish of his words, "If a man dies, may he live again? . . . I loathe my life; I will not live forever. Let me alone for my days are a breath."

In "The Awakening of Adam," the head lifting from the earth seems to look up into a new life, awed, and not a little anxious.

Mrs. Dickinson's characters wear no masks. The looming figure of "Lot's Wife," as she looks behind her at home and children, is a face mingling resignation with pain. It is a face heavy with living.

With equal agility the artist composes others which are fresh with youth or tense with anger. Or, as in the leanly drawn lovers in "The Song of Songs Which is Solomon's," they are filled with a protective, regenerative power flowing through each other that states all there is to say about love at its most perfect.

Through body attitudes, eyes, beautifully expressive hands and faces Mrs. Dickinson covers it all in a clean knowledgeable stroke of line. The beauty of what she does is in its lack of overstatement, and her simplicity is inspiring.

Hours of the exhibit are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 9:30 to 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Writer Of Andy Hardy Films Dies

Ruskin also wrote the song, "I May Be Wrong, But I Think You're Wonderful." With Oscar Hammerstein II, he wrote "Ballyhoo." He came to Hollywood in 1931 after selling his first work to Florenz Ziegfeld for the 1923 Follies.

Sebastopol Driver Hurt In Collision

Hazel E. Campo, 64, of Sebastopol, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma with multiple cuts and bruises suffered in a two-car collision on Highway 101 near Cotati, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The patrol said the accident occurred at 5:05 p.m. Friday when Mrs. Campo swerved her car to avoid a slow-moving auto and collided with a car driven by Everett D. Nell, 35, of 29 Cherry Street, Petaluma. Mrs. Campo was thrown from her car by the impact.

MUSIC REVIEW

Westover Ensemble —A Rare Concert

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A new chamber group, the Westover Chamber Music Ensemble, presented yesterday afternoon in the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater, a rare concert in the college concert-lecture series.

Consisting of four violinists, two violists and two cellists, the ensemble was founded by Wynn Westover of Sausalito, known in Marin music circles as a teacher of music in the adult education program of the college and for his own system of sight reading and ear training.

Of late he has been concentrating on conducting orchestras, using his own theories on breaking down barriers between performers and audiences, but in this concert he appeared as violinist, turning over the duties of conductor to Randall Keith Horton. Horton is founder and conductor of the Black Madonna Symphony Orchestra in San Francisco.

I was hoping to see Westover's theories about breaking down barriers in practice, but while he did introduce the various numbers with pleasing informality and used the technique of singing major themes of two works and requesting the audience to read them with him, this particular concert was not suited to demonstrating the technique. The audience was too small and too scattered throughout the large auditorium to permit success.

The program of late romantic French chamber music of Ernest Chausson and Lucien Capet was interesting and unusual, performed, however, with varying degrees of success.

Though certain elements could be pointed out to make inclusion of Brahms' sonata "The Rain," Opus 78, with the French works relevant, I felt it could have been omitted, since the program was too long. The sonata was played by Westover on the violin and pianist Norma Di Tano.

The best parts of the concert were the Chausson and Capet songs sung by lyric coloratura Joan Smith and the Concerto in D Major, Opus 21, for piano and violin by Chausson.

In the "Chanson Perpetuelle" by Chausson and "Nuages" and "Wild As The Wind; And Soft As The Falling Snow" by Capet, Miss Smith, whom I have heard many times, showed she has achieved the maturity and assurance of a full fledged concert artist. The songs were well suited to her lovely vocal quality and talent for sensitive interpretation. She was ably accompanied at the piano by Judy Ballora.

Westover, playing the violin, and Miss Di Tano at the piano, accompanied by the ensemble, were more successful, despite some confusion in the last movement, with the richly sensuous romanticism of the Chausson concerto than with the cool elegance of the Capet Quatuor N. 1, Opus 10.

Both works were conducted well with rhythmic grace by Horton, but his frequent hitting of the music stand with his baton, whether accidental or deliberate, was disconcerting.

Miss Di Tano, who was at the piano for all but the songs, was an accomplished pianist.

Misner Renamed To GOP Leader

Gerald E. Misner of San Anselmo was reelected general chairman for 1970-71 of the First Congressional District Rupublican Committee at the group's annual meeting Saturday in Ukiah.

Robert D. Huber of Mill Valley was reelected legal counsel of the volunteer group, which has about 300 active members.

Misner, Huber and Norman B. Livermore Jr. of San Rafael, secretary of the state Resources Agency, were awarded life memberships. None of them, under the 1967 redistricting of California's congressional districts, lives in the First District.

DRAMA REVIEW

A Tribal Bash Novato Style

By GARY TISCHLER

The Novato Community Players put on something called "Far Out Fling" Saturday at the Novato Community Center. It looked like a grand tribal bash in which half the population of Novato participated and as such, it was good, mostly clean fun.

I suppose, if you come with an extremely severe set of eyes, you could also say it was terribly amateurish, pointless, obvious and long, but I don't think that's the whole idea of this original revue written, according to the credits by director Lei Mann and "Friends."

It struck me that this was no night for purists, not with ladies in net stockings selling champagne and popcorn, and hawkers taking orders for beer in buckets. I would assume that everybody was supposed to have a good time, get just a little tipsy ogle the dancing girls and clap for friends and relatives on the stage.

As such, it was all innocent fun. Like a child's birthday party, a New Year's Eve bash in the summer, Ted Mack gone West, faint reminders of a respectable burlesque house, theater in the barn, and jokes by a barbecue. It was all a little rowdy, sometimes a little naughty, songs every two minutes, and three drinking intermissions hung around a threadbare chase plot that gave the designers a chance to throw in several exotic sets that ranged from Japan, Araby, and Spain to the moon, which is pretty far out.

The story, as far as it went, concerned a scientist who has discovered something called Super X, which half the world is after. Which leads to a hectic chase with Russian, British, Japanese, Arabic, Spanish and Hippie spies in tow. Otto Haiungs does a beautiful imitation of a bewildered, latter-day Dagwood Bumstead in the role of the scientist while Vivienne Terry is his panting lady-friend.

The exotic settings give vent to equally exotic musical numbers, spiced with dancing girls of considerable variety. There was "Sukiyaki", done quite well by John Bernardi, and "If I Were A Rich Man," a Jewish song from "Fiddler on the Roof," as sung by Scott Wright as an Arab beggar. The Spanish set piece got a couple of ovations with J. D. Nichols singing "Spanish Eyes" twice.

Elaine Bernardi had a funny number in the continuing role of Verushka, the bosomy Russian lady spy, singing "I Spied For You" as in "I Cried for You."

There were also God-awful puns, a gay "Gay Cabellero" and a yodeler in the grand finale, which should make the Swiss happy.

Cavanagh's Condition Reported As Improved

Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital reported his condition as good. Mrs. Cavanagh said that he is expected to remain in the hospital for another week for a thorough rest. Cavanagh is now permitted visitors.

Chance Now Looks Good For Saving Seashore

The chances look very good that Point Reyes National Seashore will be saved — all 54,000 acres of it.

The bill to appropriate $38-365,000 to complete purchase of the land designated eight years ago for the park, which cleared the national parks and recreation subcommittee of the House last Friday, has been ticketed for "priority action" by the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

This means that Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D—Colo., who heads that committee, has put his weight behind it. And when Representative Aspinall gets behind a bill, his committee does not say him nay.

THERE IS STILL a long road ahead for the measure — House passage, Senate concurrence, presidential signature. But opposition is lacking, so the way may not be too hard even though long.

The many, in Marin and elsewhere, who have lobbied for the measure should not take premature satisfaction from subcommittee approval and give up their efforts. We feel sure they will not do so.

The bundles of Save Our Seashore petitions collected by the committee headed by Peter H. Behr should make their impression on congressmen and the President.

They represent a genuine "grass roots" lobby — a thing rare enough so that those in Washington give it respect.

IT IS A LONG time since the acreage was set aside for the seashore and Congress appropriated $19,-135,000 to buy it — a figure which those in the National Park Service who set it were told at the time was far too low.

The cost now is more than it should be — as usually turns out to be the case when insufficient money is put aside initially.

The land purchase program the government followed may not have been wise. A key section of beachland almost escaped through subdivision while those in Washington argued and passed the buck. But now the pressure must be kept on to complete the entire purchase.

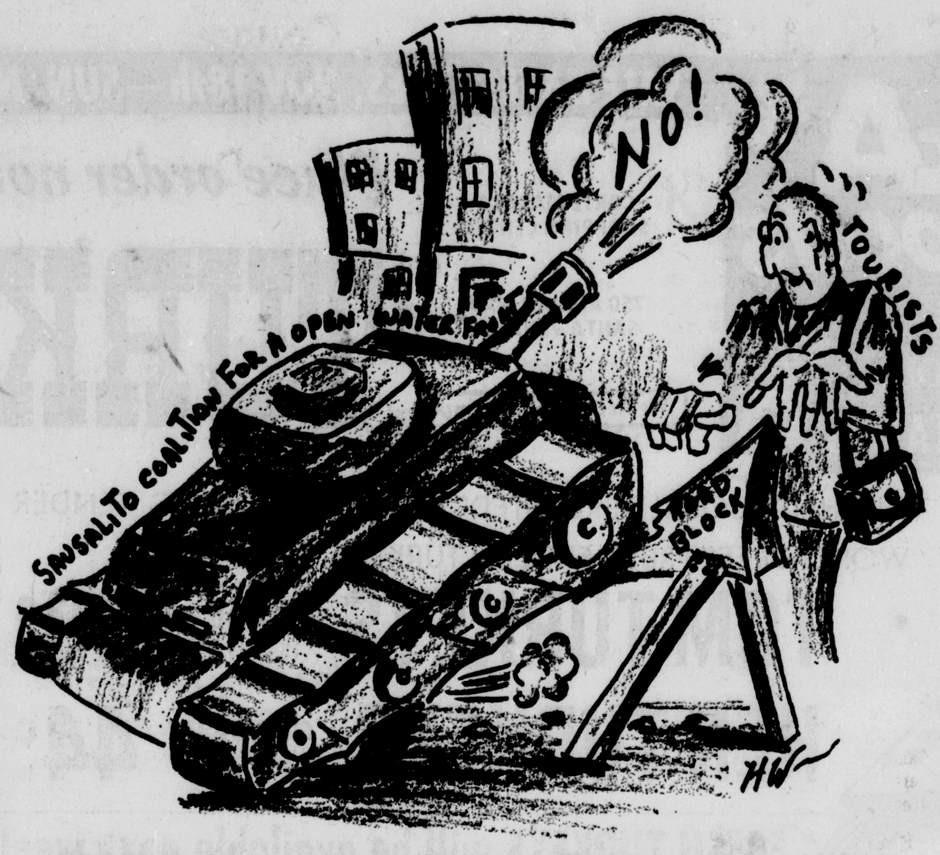
THAT HAS BEEN well recognized here in Marin. It seems almost like a chapter out of ancient history to recall the objections of some landowners and others to spending public money for a "fog-bound shore that nobody would care to visit anyhow."

In the current chapter, none of that has been heard from Marin — though some old echoes have rolled out of Sacramento now and then.

The drive for completion of the land purchase has seen remarkable unanimity in this county which is so often beset by neighborly quarrels.

A GREAT MANY people deserve credit for the push that may save the seashore. Certainly near the head of the list must be Rep. Don. H. Clausen, R-First District, who has worked tirelessly on behalf of this project that was initiated by his predecessor, the late Clem Miller.

All the people who led the drive — and all who signed the petitions — deserve credit. Their reward will be deep satisfaction if the bill goes through, is signed by the President, and the stretch of the Point Reyes Peninsula is preserved as open country for this and future generations.



NEWS ITEM: Rival "tourist-oriented" and "resident-oriented plans for Sausalito's waterfront will be discussed by the Sausalito City Council at its meeting at 8 p.m. today.

THE DRUMMONDS

Mansfield Gives Democrats New Direction In Senate

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

Their newly developing strategy on three main points is this:

1. They are deliberately taking the play away from the Senate Democratic doves in the conviction that a peace-at-any-price image will be a grave political liability.

2. They are turning away from nearly automatic hostility to the Nixon administration to selective but meaningful support.

3. They are acting to move policy toward the Democratic political center and away from the left.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield isn't talking a lot about this, but he is doing it by taking more active and decisive personal command of party leadership than at any time since he succeeded to the leadership nine years ago.

WHY IS MANSFIELD turning his party in these directions? Apparently he concluded that the Democrats, especially in the Senate, were slipping into a do-nothing trench and heckling the President instead of helping the nation, and that such a course, being both bad policy and bad politics, would lead to party disaster.

Here is what he has done already:

HE DID WHATEVER was necessary to insure that the Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would veto Chairman Fulbright's repeated intention to use public hearings to attack the President's peace efforts.

He vetoed Senator Kennedy's efforts to keep his draft-reform hearings going so long that nothing would be done to adopt the President's proposed lottery system. He induced both Senators Kennedy and John Stennis, the powerful chairman of the Armed Services Committee—both draft-reform delayers—to give up their tactics and support quick passage of a bill authorizing the lottery as Mr. Nixon asked. All of this was done in Mansfield's office at Mansfield's urging with Mansfield's influence.

Again, Mansfield is putting the majority of Senate Democrats strongly behind President Nixon's Vietnam peace plan and against the moratorium advocates of hasty withdrawal. He blandly detoured the Foreign Relations Committee and put the extremist Democratic doves—Fulbright, Gene McCarthy, George McGovern and others—into the background. He accomplished this by amending and then joining to support a fully bipartisan Senate resolution, proposed by Republican leader Sen. Hugh Scott, endorsing the President's peace efforts and urging him to press for a mutual cease-fire which he is already doing.

WHETHER OR NOT there is a new Richard Nixon, there is certainly a new Mansfield—or at least a Mansfield determined to use the powers of his leadership to save the Democratic Party from putting itself in the position of frustrating the President's peace plan and from arousing the ire of the voters by devoting itself so constantly to opposition to the President's legislative requests.

Mansfield is, of course, fully aware that the Senate leader whose party does not control the White House can be a tower of influence on national decisions and can strengthen his party for future elections more by discriminating support of the President than by indiscriminate opposition.

Sen. Everett Dirksen proved this under President Johnson. Sen. Lyndon Johnson proved it under President Eisenhower, and in foreign policy Sen. Arthur Vandenberg proved it under President Truman.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Smog Readings Spotlight Problem

Thank you for your newest service to our community: Daily publication of air pollution readings. This could be the greatest long-range good the I-J has ever given Marin County.

Your publication of these readings evidences your awareness of this real and growing problem — and of too many citizens' total disregard of it. "Not in Marin" is a myth difficult to eliminate.

One large group acutely — and painfully — aware of our polluted air is comprised of suffers from obstructive airway diseases such as emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma. Representatives of this rapidly expanding group attend Marin's Christmas Seal-financed outpatient clinic, and I have observed that without exception each of these patients suffers a "bad spell" every time the pollution level rises . . .

With the I-J spotlighting this urgent health problem, surely our citizens will be sufficiently aroused to demand official corrective action — for example, stringent emission controls now on private cars pending government-spurred or sponsored development of steam and/or electric cars, plus development of adequate mass transportation throughout the Bay Area.

It's truly a matter of life and breath.

Firemen, Police Respond Quickly

My wife and I wish to extend our greatest appreciation to the Fairfax Fire Department and the police department for the greatest maximum efficiency possible which was extended to us by the aforementioned departments.

Early Tuesday morning (Nov. 11) we found our son lifeless in his bed. While I attempted artificial respiration, my wife called the emergency fire number which was stenciled on our phone. As she hung up the receiver we could hear the siren. Upon their arrival our neighbor, Tom Bogue, summoned the police department for a vehicle to rush our son to Marin General Hospital. Their response was equally efficient.

We wanted this printed so that our neighbors might sleep more easily knowing that those people responsible are doing an outstanding service for our community.

These days there are rash decisions and easy criticisms of the police and fire departments which we feel are unfair. They are doing a wonderful job and we feel a deep gratification and commend them highly.

SMALL WORLD

Rights Eroded By Council Action

I am the person who was to have conducted the Candlelight Vigil for Peace and in memory of the men who died in Vietnam this Saturday night in Fairfax. I was not able to be at the city council meeting Monday evening, when the decision to allow the observance was reversed, much to my shock. I wrote the council last week telling them of my responsibitlty and plans for the vigil, and asking for any particular instructions.

I see two of my constitutionally guaranteed rights being denied by the invoking of some obscure ordinances. I do not plot the overthrow of our government, I am not a dupe of the international Communist conspiracy, I am simply a concerned taxpaying citizen who does not agree with U.S. foreign policy. I am concerned about the insidious erosion of my rights in this precious republic. The stifling of dissent by the Fairfax City Council, the making of mental health policy by the board of supervisors beyond the public view, and the refusal of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District to reveal the major sources of ths health hazard to myself and my family, all constitute this kind of erosion of our rights.

We invite destructive confrontations when we deny basic rights, Why is the working of real democracy viewed with such hostility and fear by so many of us.

REV. RICHARD N. WILMINGTON

Seashore Efforts Bearing Fruit

Thank you for the outstanding publicity you have been regularly giving to the efforts to perserve the Point Reyes National Seashore. Many persons, both public and private, have given a great deal of effort to save this part of our county for our own and future generations. For several years, the members of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, both in Marin County and elsewhere, have been contributing to the campaign to preserve this area. One of the primary purposes, of course, of the Native Sons and Native Daughters is to help to preserve both California's historic and natural heritages.

Hopefully, now it appears that the united efforts of all will meet with success. Your own cooperation has made a significant contribution.

Pollution Index Related To Burning

If Mr. M. A. Raiser, in his letter of Nov. 1, "Burning Ban Delay Would Help," would check the CPI figures for Marin County for the month of October, he would see that the first light rain fell on Oct. 10, a Friday. The CPI that day was 28. Over that weekend Marinites took the light rain as a signal to open burn, even through the ban was not officially lifted until Nov. 6. The CPI rose to 46 and 42 respectively. The next Monday through Thursday the readings were again down (26, 18, 28, 35). It rained heavily that week and the next week a combination of unusually warm weather causing an inversion and widespread open burning (despite the hot weather) ran our CPI up to 69 on Monday and 93 on Tuesday compared to San Francisco's 65 and 88. During the rest of the week we again dropped down to 27, 18, 18, and again the weekend saw a 50, 30. Halloween week saw a 25, 24, 39, with a sharp increase Thursday through Sunday (63, 55, 49, 40).

If Mr. Raiser would worry less about his own personal inconvenience and more about our frightening pollution problem, he would quickly see the urgent need to insist that local cities take the responsibility of providing alternative disposal methods . . .

WHAT OTHER EDITOR'S SAY

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The growing dangers to American cities of nuclear fuels in fission-heated electric generating plants have been brought home to the public as never before in two recently published books, "Perils of the Peaceful Atom" and "The Careless Atom."

As these volumes make quite clear, circumstances are combining to concentrate construction on the most dangerous of all types of atomic furnaces; to build them at increasingly enormous sizes, heats and pressures which involve special hazards and for which there has been no experience; to situate them extremely close to and sometimes in the very hearts of major cities; and to suppress effort by private citizens and private organizations to be heard with respect to these matters, much less heeded.

CENTRAL TO THIS whole untidy picture is the United States Atomic Energy Commission with its built-in conflict of interests. As its former chairman, David E. Lilienthal, has put it: "The AEC, as a general promoter of atomic power, must also decide the quasi-judicial issue of whether a license is issued. With a world of goodwill and integrity and technical competence on the part of the AEC, how well is the public protected by this dual and conflicting role?"

How well? The commission has been routinely licensing construction of plants about whose designs there were grave questions of safety, on the basis of the fiction that unless the questions were satisfactorily settled meanwhile the constructed plants, costing many millions of dollars, would not be licensed to operate. Licenses to operate have been awarded despite dangerous defects in construction which have been exposed and condemned in the strongest terms by Admiral Rickover, who has directed the development of the U.S. Navy's atomic submarines.

WE THINK the only cure for these conditions is to take away the licensing authority from the Atomic Energy Commission and vest it either in the Federal Power Commission or in a new agency specially set up for administration of safety and licensing. In either case provision should be made for mandatory inspection of the design, construction and operation of nuclear plants closely and continuously.

At the same time research into safe means of disposal of radioactive wastes from nuclear plants should be put on a crash basis, as the emergency in this area demands. We do not agree with the extreme view that the nuclear power program should be shut down.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Our country, right or wrong. When right, to be kept right; when wrong, to be put right. — Carl Schurz.

Two and two continue to make four, in spite of the whine of the amateur for three, or the cry of the critic for five. — James McNeill Whistler.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Lowering Of Voting Age Would Require Many Changes

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO. — (CNS) — Some tremendous pressure is being applied on behalf of lowering the voting age in California to 18 years, and it will not be surprising if a measure is placed on the 1970 general election ballot to that effect.

However, the question is more complicated than most people realize, according to the Assembly Committee on Elections and Constitutional Amendment, headed by Paul Priolo, R—Santa Monica The committee has just completed after lengthy study, the job of rounding up the multitudinous policy questions involved.

Without commenting on whether the state should or should not invoke age 18 as the minimum age of statutory responsibility, or the "age of majority" the committee report points out that more than 60 categories in the law of major nature would have to be changed should the minimum age of statutory responsibility be changed.

THERE IS MUCH more to allowing 18-year-olds to vote than the mere appearance at the polls and the casting of ballots for the candidate of their choice. It is probably certain that the majority of the electors of the state, and the young people themselves, have given little thought to the responsibilities of attaining majority at 18 years.

Probably the most discussed of the privileges and obligations of a civil nature involve the question of proximity to alcoholic beverages, and matters of marriage.

BUT THESE are only a couple of legal matters out of more than a dozen in this category alone. Others are questions as to whether a person 18 years of age should be qualified to sit on a jury, have authority to disaffirm certain types of contractural agreements, be permitted ot change a name without consent of parent or guardian , control his own estate, he licensed as doctor, dentist, druggist or in many other categories.

Also, should persons under 21 be eligible for appointive or elective office, act as administrators of estates, sue and be sued without interference from parents or guardians?

Then in the field of criminal law, would the Youth Authority or Adult Authority have jurisdiction? And could 18-year olds be permitted to possess a concealable weapon without permission of parent or guardian?

The field of motor vehicles is another involved. Parents now are responsible for civil liabilities for persons under 21 years old. Also, parents must sign for drivers' licenses. Presumably, this requirement would drop to age 18 if a constitutional amendment were passed dropping the voting age.

THUS IT IS readily seen by these few examples that lowering the voting age to 18 years, involves radical changes.

"The responsibilities of citizenship go with the privileges of citizenship," an observation made many years ago is no less true today.

Don't Count On Auditorium Being Open By Next Summer

The new Veterans Memorial Auditorium, under construction at the Civic Center, was scheduled to open for business in January or February next year, or maybe in the spring.

But the unofficial word is that the opening may be closer to September of 1970, which is a pretty good guess. If the delays encountered in the new Hall of Justice (it's more than a year behind schedule) are any indication, the auditorium completion would even be pushed back to January of 1971.

IN THE EXISTING administration building, the planter areas in the basement floor, which are fed by sunlight from the overhead skylight, are doing fine. But plants in the darker corners aren't doing too well.

Learning from this experience, they've installed special overhead growing lights in the new Hall of Justice to simulate the sun and fool the plants into growing.

CLEAN AIR campaigners who are circulating petitions to put two measures on the 1970 ballot are shifting into high gear because the deadline is only about a week away.

Jean Barnard of Mill Valley, one of the petition circulators, reminds us that Nov. 26 is the last day for petition signing. Those who want to sign or circulate the petitions may notify Mrs. E. P. (Betty) Franklin of Fairfax. The measures seek to outlaw pollution by putting the responsibilities on industries and strengthening laws on industrial and vehicular pollution.

Mrs. Barnard will plant herself in front of the Civic Center entrance tomorrow morning behind a card table to continue the petition campaign.

AMERICAN ZOETROPE, a film company that used the Civic Center grounds for scenes for a science fiction movie last month, has mailed a $100 check to the county parks and recreation department in lieu of a rental fee.

It was a voluntary contribution but probably helped along by a letter from the recreation and park director, Pierre W. Joske, who suggested: How about a contribution to the park acquisition fund since your company found the park-like setting at the Civic Center area useful for their scenes?

Wonder if Twentieth-Century Fox, which used the Civic Center and courthouse much more extensively, including tying up downtown traffic, came through with a similar contribution?

IT'S ENOUGH to make you wonder how much faith you can put in "expert" testimony presented at hearings and trials.

One professor with years of forestry work and soils analysis says that logging on Bolinas Ridge is one of the cleanest and best operations he has seen, and assures you there will be no silt flowing into Bolinas Lagoon and little or no erosion.

Other experts with comparable degrees and experience assure you with just as much conviction that the logging operations will cause serious erosion and choke the lagoon with silt.

Two Kids, Two Blocks Apart, And Two Different 'Messages'

When I came down out of the Utah mountains after having been snowed in for three days and another three looking at the big country, I was told of the news I had missed by being away, and it was that Jack Kerouac had died.

Did I know Kerouac? I don't know. Maybe. I'm always asked that question. I could have. We both came from Lowell, Mass., both the same age, give or take a bit, and he rumbled around the Moody Street area. Market Street was where I kicked the cobblestones. The streets run parallel and only a couple blocks apart — but the distance is much greater than can be measured with a tape, a speedometer or any other kind of meter.

YEAH, I COULD have known him. We could have played baseball in one of those catch-as-catch-can games that we used to put together whenever someone showed up with a bat and a ball or rolled over some of the pebbles and dust of the Common in a game of football or maybe in the summer we might have gone swimming together in the Moody Street Canal.

But if I knew him, I knew him as just another dirty little French kid, a crazy Canuck, and not as the man who made the scene in San Francisco and gave the Beat Generation its name — Jack Kerouac, the Beat poet. I didn't know him as that, and as that we came from different worlds light years apart.

OUR PATHS crossed once though, in an odd sort of way, about 10 years ago. John Farrar, the publisher, had asked me to go to New York to talk publication of my book, a novel. At dinner Farrar, who was publishing Kerouac and pleased about it, asked me what I thought of him.

"I can't read him," I said, "except a paragraph at a time. I suppose it's all this essence of things and pureness and foreverhood and unbornness and holy honey and all that, which for me is just another way of saying jazz."

Farrar looked at me, his eyes glazed. I didn't know enough to keep my mouth shut.

"All this business about the way of Zen and Ramakrishna and you've read the Vedic Hymns and the beautiful Buddha and the pure Dharma. Sure it makes poetry, and it is, and who can argue with poetry?"

HAVING JUST finished dinner, we were having cognac. At this point, I was into my second cognac.

"Poetry is poetry and truth is truth and there's nothing — nothing ever has or ever will make them necessarily both. It all comes out jazz."

By this time Farrar was twitching.

"I like to sink my teeth into what I'm chewing," I said. "When I slap a chick on the butt, I like the feel of it. I don't give a damn about the metaphysical-ness of it.

"Sure we're both looking for the same thing. Kerouac is looking for it in oneness and universality. He mixes Frenchness with Americanness in a pot of Oriental oneness. Beautific!"

THE SILENCE was terrible.

Farrar never did publish my book. But then I never bothered reading any more of Kerouac after that. All Kerouac ever told me was: I don't know. I don't care. It doesn't make any difference!

And I'm too Greek for that.

Council Due Business Fee Debate

Long-dormant discussion of a revised business license ordinance will be revived by the San Rafael City Council at 8 p.m. today in the city hall.

The council last May proposed changes in the ordinance to base license fees on a flat rate plus an amount for each employee. It delayed adopting the ordinance at that time at the request of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, which wanted to study the measure.

City Mgr. James H. McCown will present a revised ordinance to the council, embodying some of the suggestions of the chamber of commerce.

Other items to come before the council include a joint powers agreement with the San Rafael Sanitation District for maintenance of sewers, group insurance for city employees, finding a spoils disposal site for the dredging of the turn basin in San Rafael Canal, the fourth phase of widening of San Pedro Road, annexation of seven acres at Main and Bayview drives and an increase in the cost of the new animal control program.

Two Chutists Collide; Both Fatally Injured

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP) — Two men died yesterday from injuries suffered when they collided while making parachute jumps over Burlington County Airport.

Police said Kay K. Komae, 28, of Maple Shade, and John J. McGuire, 28, of Philadelphia jumped with two others from an aircraft flying at 7,000 feet and that Komae and McGuire intended to perform a linkup and then ride their chutes to the ground.

However, as McGuire's chute opened, Komae was still in free-fall above. As McGuire decelerated, Komae slammed into him.

The collision sent Komae spinning away to plummet 3,000 feet to his death. His skull was fractured and he died at the scene.

TOAST FOR COURT SUCCESS

Norman Aguinaldo, 23, and his wife, Julie, 22, dined at San Francisco's swank La Bourgogne last night on the heels of suing Norman's Father, Daniel, a millionaire Filipino businessman, for $14 million in San Francisco Superior Court. The elder Aguinaldo maintains a home in Tiburon. The son seeks $12 million damages, charging his father with conspiracy and conversion of stocks and personal property given him prior to marriage. White Man Proves Surprise As Kenya Parliament Boss

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — It was a shock to some visitors to see the bewigged, resplendently robed white man overruling African members of Kenya's Parliament, and on occasion even the country's attorney general.

They won't see it much longer, for Humphrey Slade has just announced plans to leave the speakership he has held since 1960.

"As I told the president," Slade remarked to an interviewer, "you don't want the head of an institution to become an institution himself."

Of his wine robes and powdered wig, the 64-year-old lawyer said he had asked the Kenyans repeatedly "if they wanted to junk all this archaic European outfit as a remnant of colonialism. But they said they wanted to keep it."

WHITE MAN'S ROLE

Slade said he thought it was part of his job to assure all minority voices a hearing in Parliament. He added that he thought a white speaker was preferred by the Africans here at first because one might be more objective than a man from one of Kenya's 50 tribes.

Only one member of Parliament is white.

Parliament adjourned this month in anticipation of new elections. Slade will remain on the job until Parliament is reconvened and elects a new speaker.

LIKE A TEACHER

Slade has been compared with a schoolmaster and he agrees his role was to teach, but adds: "I think it is the time when Parliament needs a change of horse; we are entering a different phase of Kenya's history."

But he says: "I have no fear of the future of these Parliaments."

Educated at Eton and Oxford, Slade came to Kenya about 40 years ago and served on its ruling councils for 17 years. The father of four and a grandfather, he plans to fish and putter in his garden when he retires.

The newspaper East African Standard commented: "No Parliament could have wished for a better speaker, patient and tolerant, yet firm when necessary."

County, Officers Targets Of Suit Over Jail Fray

A 31-year-old San Francisco man has filed a $60,000 suit in Marin Superior Court against Marin County and several law offices, claiming that he was beaten in the county jail Nov. 16, 1968.

The man, Daniel John Kelleher, said he sustained injuries which caused some permanent damage and that he was unable to work for a period of time.

Named in the suit, filed Friday, are Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, Deputy William Nabers, Belvedere police Sgt. William P. Brust and Deputy James Hickey, as well as the county and the board of supervisors.

Kelleher said he was arrested by San Rafael police on Nov. 16.

Jail records show that he was arrested on Nov. 17 by Brust for disturbing the peace and being drunk in a public place.

There is a lengthy report saying Kelleher berated Brust and jailers, refused to remove his belt and shoes, and struck officers, finally being placed in the padded cell. The report also says that Kelleher was given a bandage for a small cut on his face which was apparently sustained in a scuffle with the officers.

New Drug May Prove A Blessing In High-Risk Heart Surgery Cases

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A new and still-experimental drug may pave the way to corrective surgery for defective heart valves —and possibly other cardiac defects—for many patients who would normally be considered too ill to withstand "open heart" operations.

This was reported to the American Heart Association Saturday by Dr. Bernard Burack of Montefiore Hospital, New York, to seven gravely ill patients before replacing their defective valves with artificial ones — and had achieved highly gratifying results.

Declaring all seven patients were initially classified as high-risks for surgery—including some who ordinarily would have been refused surgery outright—he said six of them are now alive and active 16 months after surgery. The single death was unrelated to the operation.

The drug, called phenoxybenzamine hydrochloride, is designed to keep tiny blood vessels —called capillaries—wide open during surgery.

Dr. Burack indicated that the stress of any kind of surgery tends to constrict these tiny vessels—thus impairing blood flow to the tissues. In "open heart" surgery—where an artificial heart-lung machine takes over the job of pumping blood and allows surgeons to work directly on the heart—there is special stress of this nature, he said, and it's particularly dangerous for a severely ill patient.

At a news conference Friday on another subject—increased efforts to reduce the nation's 300,000 deaths annually from coronary heart attacks—Dr. Arthur J. Moss of the University of Rochester said a major contributor to the sustained high deaths toll is the following:

Many victims of heart attacks, including even some physicians who have had a previous attack, are not prompt enough about seeking help.

What's needed, he said, is a "sophisticated program of public education so that people will seek out help earlier"—especially those who already are in a "high-risk" category as regards suffering a coronary. These would include people who have had prior attacks, diabetics, and people who suffer from angina pectoris, episodes of vise-like pain in the chest.

But he and Dr. James V. Warran of Ohio State University Hospital conceded that further research is needed to pinpoint specific "early warning signs" of an incipient coronary that could trigger action by people who never previously had had any cardiac or related trouble.

'Nutcracker' Set For Children

More than 1,200 Marin school children will attend two special performances of the "Nutcracker Suite," presented by the Marin Civic Ballet Association at the College of Marin.

The children, from Granada, Bel Aire, Novato Elementary, Greenbrae, Dixie, Laguna, Lucas Valley, Larkspur-Corte Madera, Ross, Don Timoteo, Manor and Ross schools, will see the show Dec. 18 at 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jody White, director of the ballet's apprentice group, will give special demonstrations of ballet prior to the shows and will explain the "Nutcracker" story to the youngsters.

College Policies On The Agenda

Possible revisions in discipline sections of the college policies handbook will be discussed when the Marin Junior College District board meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in Room 69 of Olney Hall at College of Marin.

Proposed for revision are sections 7020 through 7025, which deal with the powers of the student conduct committee and the appeal process available to students suspended or otherwise disciplined.

Since the suspension of four students and placing of a fifth on probation for disrupting an October board meeting, student government groups and the Academic Senate have recommended changes in the rules.

Marriageable Men Over 40 Are Scarce In Germany – Survey Tells

BONN, GERMANY (GF) — Six million women over 40 in west Germany would like to marry — if only they could find a partner!

Statistics drafted for a study by the country's federal government reveal there are only 1.3 million eligible bachelors in the over-40 bracket on the domestic market. And in fact, not even all these are on the market: 13 percent say they are determined to remain single.

On the other hand, 97 percent of those six million women definitely want to march down the aisle. But they are not the only age group finding it difficult to lasso a partner.

The government study reveals German girls 20 to 25 generally have few problems finding a man to marry. But only 50 percent of single girls at age 31 are able to do so. By age 40, the chances have dropped to 20 per cent and at 50 to five percent.

Forty-five percent of German girls in the 28-37 age group today are married to men younger than they are — even though the broad prejudice against such

Job Choice Is Soviet Worry

By GAY PAULEY

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (UPI) —Ask an editor of one of the oldest youth newspapers in the Soviet Union what problems beset the young people and the answer is:

Choice of jobs.

The Soviet has no drug problem with its youth, no alcoholism, he insists, and no generation gap as you hear of it in the Western world.

And because the young are worried abut their futures, the daily paper, Komsomol Smena, now in its 50th year of publication, recently started a front page column called, "Hello, Working Generation" offering advice and a clearing house for jobs with special mention of technical and trade opportunities.

It was Vitale Mikhailov, 32, an engineer turned editor and father of a three and one-half year old daughter, speaking in the offices of the publication.

The woman editor in chief, Alla Belyakova, was on vacation.

The building serves also as the center of other Komsomol (Young Communist League) activities in the greater Leningrad area.

Mikhailov invited some of his department heads, including three women, to sit in on our conversation. When I mentioned that youth world-wide seemed to get the same hangups (he understood the slang even through the interpreter), he just as persistently explained why job futures are the special problem with the Soviet young.

"This year," he said, "76,811 young people in Leningrad wanted to go on to higher education (universities). Only 25,000 made it."

Entrance to the universities is by rigorous examination; thus, many fail and have to go to technical or trade schools. And the need is for workers in a country already boasting total employment.

"Maybe," Mikhailov smiles, "our paper had as one of its faults saying how nice it would be to become a cosmonaut." Cosmonauts hold a special niche in Russian admiration of heroes.

Komsomol Smena was founded in December 1919, kept publishing during the Siege of Leningrad when even a city almost didn't survive, and today has a circulation of 210,000.

Mikhailov said the bulk of circulation is among the 14 to 25 age bracket. The Young Communist League consists of the 14 to 28 year age group. And Smena's editor candidly tells an interviewer the main goal of the paper is "to extend youth's horizons...to bring up young, active fighters for communism...to understand Marxism and Leninism."

But it has sections of family living, physical education and sports, creative activities, and Komsomol news of course. It also has pioneered, helping to start wedding palaces for young couples and its latest, palaces for christening of the newborn. And it sponsors both intra-U.S.S.R. and international sports competitions.

Mikhailov, a member of the Communist Party (not every Russian is by any means; you have to be invited in), conceded that a lot of Western world ways were getting into the Soviet system. Guitar and pop music, for instance.

And miniskirts. They'e not as abbreviated in the U.S.S.R. as in, say, New York, but he wishes "our young people didn't follow the West but the West followed us."

GAY PAULEY, UPI women's editor, looks at Komsomol Smena, a youth newspaper published in Leningrad, with one of it's editors, Vitale Mikhailov, 32. The paper's goal is "to extend youth's horizons . . . to bring up young, active fighters for Communism . . . to understand Marxism and Leninism." (UPI Cablephoto)

DEAR HELEN:

I always knew our daughter was spoiled — what could I do when her Dad gave her everything? But this is too much.

She's been married three years. Her husband gets jobs, but loses them. They say it's hard work. I say it's hardheadedness plus no ambition.

Last month Diane asked to borrow our credit cards as she needed clothes for the baby and couldn't pay cash "until Johnny gets the first check from his new job." She brought the cards back a week later — and today I got the bills.

Not only were there baby clothes charged, but a washer and dryer, a color television, clothes from men's and women's wear. And this may not be everything. When I read the riot act to Diane, she couldn't quite remember all she's bought at different stores. Then she wept all over her Dad, who caved in again.

Well, my slow burn has finally come to a boil. I insisted Diane and John sign a promissory note for repayment of all debts, plus interest, with a time limit.

Now I'm considered grasping and selfish. My husband says "Forget it — they're our flesh and blood. Should I?—HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT:

Stand by your guns. You should have done it long ago.

DEAR HELEN:

A friend was recently divorced after a long marriage. Her husband found someone younger and, of course, it was a shattering experience.

I listened patiently to her moaning and misery, from the minute she found out to the final decree, but Helen, this woman is driving me insane. She has turned into a leech. She has no young children as I have, and she's constantly calling up and inviting herself over, even for meals. If she doesn't phone, she just pops in, whether I have company or not. Then she gabs on and on about her unfaithful husband. For her, there's no other subject. Self-pity done up with whines, that's her.

My husband is furious. He says to lose her, but I can't be that cruel. How can I get it across that it's time she forgot the past and stopped boring people to death with it? — MRS. RELUCTANT EARS

DEAR MRS. R. E.:

Why don't you tell this gal that tears only water down a friendship. Somebody has to. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have almost always agreed with you until now. You advised a young mother to earn her own money (through at-home jobs such as babysitting) because "It's better than fighting with a chintzy husband."

If this man can afford $20 to $50 for sports, he can afford to give her and his child proper clothing. No woman should be treated as a financial idiot, a subservient doormat. She should lay it on the line to her husband — either he loosen the purse strings and makes it "ours" not "my" money, or she clears out. He'll probably be begging her to come back.

"Frustrated" should never have allowed this situation to exist, and she certainly shouldn't give in to his stinginess by getting a job. — FOR WISE BUDGETING

Dear All of You Who Disagreed with my answer to "FRUSTRATED:" (There were many!)

You're absolutely right. Chintzy husbands should reform. Wives shouldn't allow such stinginess. But wives of chintzy husbands could spend a lifetime running on the reform ticket, for such men seldom change.

My proposed solution wasn't ideal — just realistic. — H.

A CHARREADA horsemanship display, ancient ruins, a cocktail party where the lights went out and a Mariachi Mass highlighted Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore's trip to Mexico City.

At a rancho outside Mexico City, they were entertained with luncheon and a riding and roping display by Mexican cowhands called a charreada.

In Pedrigal, they were honored with a cocktail party by Dr. and Mrs. Angel Gonzaeles. A power shortage caused all lights in that area to go out, but the party continued by candelight and in Spanish.

The situation is having some interesting results. For example, nearly 55 percent of Germans emigrating from their country each year are women (total emigrees number about 76,000 annually).

And marriages to non-German males are becoming increasingly popular among German women — something which is greatly aided by the image of the "Fraulein wonder" which has developed since World War II.

Library Users Get Best Grades

NEW YORK (UPI)—Students who get the best grades and learn the most in college are usually the ones who were library users in high school, studies have shown.

Other studies indicate that high school youngsters who use their library the most are those who got the habit in grammar school.

"It's no wonder, then, that most educators agree that you need a good library to teach reading today," says William J. Worrell, founder of the Pilgrim Book Society, which was formed 11 years ago to promote good reading.

Eye Makeup

Mindful of the saying that "where there's smoke, there's fire," officials are issuing fire-retardant pajamas. The ban on smoking remains, despite the fact that the 15,000 pairs of new fiber pajamas have replaced the standard cotton ones.

49ers Have Whammy Over Colts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Baltimore Colts are glad they don't have to play the San Francisco 49ers anymore. Who can blame them?

The 49ers came from behind yesterday with an 18-yard touchdown pass from John Brodie to rookie fullback Jim Thomas with 1:45 to go for a 20-17 victory.

The loss, Baltimore's second to the 49ers this year, all but knocked the Colts out of a chance to defend their National Football League title.

"Well, I guess we're out of the thing now," remarked a dejected Coach Don Shula, whose Colts, 5-4 trail Los Angeles, 9-0, in the Coastal Division race and play Chicago next week.

"It's ironic," remarked 49er Coach Dick Nolan. "Now that we've beaten them twice after not being able to beat them since 1962, they are leaving the league."

Under the merger arrangement, the Colts will switch next year to the American Football League with Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

The 49ers, who haven't been able to beat anybody but Baltimore in 15 games, counting six preseason losses, play New Orleans next week.

The 49ers grabbed a 13-0 lead in the first half, in which the Colts' John Unitas completed only one of nine passes for three yards and had two intercepted. The Colt running game wasn't much more effective, netting only 32 yards.

Earl Morrall replaced Unitas and got the Colts moving in the third period. They scored on Terry Cole's two-yard plunge and Lou Michaels' 41-yard field goal, then marched to the 49ers' 11 with three minutes left in the game.

From there, Unitas hit Ray Perkins in the end zone to give Baltimore a 17-13 lead. Morrall had left before the touchdown play after getting the wind knocked out of him.

Shula was undecided which quarterback will start against Chicago, saying Unitas had not complained of a sore arm.

While Unitas had his troubles, Brodie, playing his second game after missing two with a sore elbow, completed 29 of 37 passes for 290 yards.

"Brodie sure didn't look like he had a dead arm," remarked Shula.

"Hell, it doesn't hurt as much when you win!" Brodie quipped.

Ken Willard's two-yard plunge and Brodie's three-yard pass to Dick Witcher—set up by Thomas' 45-yard catch-and-run-play—accounted for San Francisco's first half scoring.

They scored in five plays, including 12-yard runs by Thomas and Bob Windsor on an end-around play.

Notre Dame Accepts Cotton Bowl Bid

Irish Will Oppose Arkansas Or Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Notre Dame accépted an invitation today as the guest team in the Cotton Bowl, marking the first appearance of the Fighting Irish in a post-season bowl in 45 years.

Notre Dame's opponent will be decided Dec. 6 when second-ranked Texas and fourth-ranked Arkansas tangle in Fayetteville, Ark., on national television.

In another development today, Louisiana State players voted not to accept any bowl bids, the A.P. learned.

Notre Dame has been opposed to bowl play in the past because of class time the students would have to miss. Modern travel has made that obstacle obsolete.

The announcement was made by the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of the university and chairman of the faculty board in control of athletics.

VACATION TIME

Father Joyce pointed out that "bowl-connected activities of the football team will fall largely on vacation time." Notre Dame's Christmas vacation runs from Dec. 16 to Jan. 5.

Father Joyce said "the crucial consideration" involved an urgent need by Nore Dame for funds to finance minority student academic programs and scholarships.

"Notre Dame's share of bowl game proceeds will be dedicated to this pressing university need," he added.

FINANCIAL AID

Father Joyce said the change in the bowl policy resulted from recommendations by the university's committee on financial aid and scholarships and the board of the Notre Dame Alumni Association.

The request subsequently was approved by the athletic board; the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, university president, and the executive committee of the university's board of trustees.

Another Chance For S.F.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors are heading home for another clash with the Milwaukee Bucks tomorrow night, smarting from a 129-123 loss in overtime.

Key factors in Milwaukee's Sunday night win were a flashy rebound and floor-length pass by Lew Alcindor with just 33 seconds remaining.

The former All-American from UCLA grabbed the ball and sent it soaring to Jon McGlocklin, who bucketed it to send the Bucks in front 126-122.

Three free throws were added later by Guy Rodgers after San Francisco started fouling to get the ball.

REDWOOD FALLS

San Marin Wins On Field Goal

By GARY TISCHLER

Only the night before, Terra Linda's Bob Daniele had booted the Trojans to the Marin County Athletic League title with a 16-yard field goal with no time left for a 29-27 win over San Rafael at San Rafael High School.

The next day, Mexican-born kicker Urbano Bouscieguez kicked a 32-yard field goal in the last ten seconds to shoot San Marin's first-year Mustangs to a harrowing 17-14 win over Redwood and a tie for second place with the Giants.

CLIMAX

For the Mustangs, it was a marvelous climax to a tremendous season, at least for a school in its first season of varsity football competition as they finished with a 4-2 league mark and a 6-2 overall record, second only to Terra Linda (8-1).

For Redwood, it was a deflating, bleak afternoon. The Giants, who only a week ago played and lost to the Trojans for the league crown and still had hopes for a title early Friday night, blew what looked like a safe two-touchdown lead to the scrappy, pesky Mustangs as all the emotion and momentum seemed to drain out of them in the second half.

TIED

That was when the game was already tied and only a little while later the Giants might have settled for a tie, if they had had the chance. But stuck with their backs to the wall on the four-yard line, they were forced to punt with only seconds to go. Mike Van Horn returned it to the 26-yard-line and the Mustangs immediately set up for the field goal try, with Bouscieguez booting high and

District Judge Denies Black Athletes' Appeal

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) U.S. District Judge Ewing T. Kerr of Cheyenne denied today a motion calling for immediate reinstatement of 14 black athletes to the Wyoming football team.

The players were kicked off the Wyoming team a month ago for taking part in protest demonstrations.

In his decision, Judge Kerr ruled against a three-judge panel to review the case, and another motion for a temporary restraining order.

Judge Kerr's decision stems from a hearing last Monday in Cheyenne in which testimony was heard from University of Wyoming president William D. Carlson and four of the 14 dismissed athletes.

The 14 blacks were kicked off the Cowboy football team Oct. 17 by Wyoming head football coach Lloyd Eaton, who said they broke an athletic department rule prohibiting participation of athletes in protest demonstrations.

The rule has since been relaxed. It now permits athletes to take part in protest activities as long as they don't carry the activities in practices or games.

The 14 had appeared in Eaton's office on the morning of Oct. 17 wearing armbands in connection with a planned protest against Brigham Young University's ties with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

The blacks said they were protesting the Mormon Church's restrictions on permitting Negroes to hold high offices in the church's hierarchy.

Eaton dismissed the players, maintaining they were fully aware of the rule against protesting.

Belvedere Yacht May Be Winner

LONG BEACH (UPI) —With the Windward Passage the elapsed time winner, other class winners and the corrected time leader were streaming across the finish line today in the Long Beach to La Paz, Mexico Yacht Race.

The 40-foot aluminum sloop Bohemia, skippered by Peter Salz of the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere was apparently the corrected time leader.

Officials of the race at the Long Beach Yacht Club said it might take a day or two to determine the class winners and the corrected time champion which will be determined on handicaps.

Skipper Mark Johnson brought the 73-foot Windward Passage into La Paz Saturday for honors as the first finisher in the third biennial race. The ocean going ketch defeated Ken De Meuse's Blackfin by nearly two hours in the renewal of an old rivalry between the almost identical ketches.

Windward Passage finished the 960-mile race in six days,21 hours and 53.47 minutes. She flew the pennant of the Lahaina Yacht Club of Hawaii. Backfin, from the St. Francis Yacht Club of San Francisco, had an elapsed time of six days, 23 hours and 3.29 minutes. Concerto and Dorothy O, both from the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, arrived late Saturday night.

GRID COACH TROPPMANN MAY RESIGN

Rumors that Bob Troppman would end his football coaching days at Redwood High School have been neither denied or confirmed by the veteran football coach and athletic director.

Troppmann would not comment on speculation that he may not be back to coach the Giants next year. According to rumors, he was observed to have told his players that "this would be my last game" after the Giants, who came very close to tying for the Marin County Athletic League title this season, had lost to San Marin, 17-14, in the last seconds at Larkspur Saturday afternoon.

Raiders Look Dull, Play Just Good Enough To Win

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders head into the critical final four weeks of the season convinced of at least one fact:

They are going to have to play a lot better than they did yesterday against San Diego if they are going to have a chance to repeat as champions of the American Football League's Western Division.

The comeback 21-16 victory over the Chargers—which came on a mighty 80-yard pass play from Daryle Lamonica to Warren Wells late in the game — kept the Raiders within one-half game of the Kansas City Chiefs in the West.

KEY GAMES

But with two games with the Chiefs coming up — the first next week in Kansas City — one with the Jets in New York and one at home against Cincinnati — who beat the Raiders in their first encounter — Oakland's offense will have to be far more potent than it was against the Chargers.

Lamonica's two scoring passes, the first for 19 yards to Fred Biletnikoff in the second period, were the only things resembling a Raider offense.

SAYS MADDEN

"On your way through a season," said Madden, "successful people are going to win games in different ways. Sometimes, things don't come easy. Successful teams, no matter what type of game it is, still win. Sometimes, you look great; sometimes, you don't."

The unhappiest man around at the end of the game was new San Diego Coach Charlie Waller, who took over last week when Sid Gillman stepped down because of illness.

"I'm really mad," said Waller, almost in tears. "It was extremely disappointing, not in the effort, but in the fact we lost. We came here expecting to win."

NEW FIELD CHRISTENED

Victory For Sonoma State

By STEVE WYNNE

In perhaps the best dedication any field could have, the Sonoma State College Cossacks christened theirs Saturday with a 20-15 win over the Sacramento State JV's in a game that decided the Far Western Conference "unofficial" junior varsity championship.

The Cossacks, fielding a football team for the first time in the school's history, finished the year with a 5-0 mark against FWC junior varsity opposition. The Cossacks will play an independent varsity schedule next season before moving into the Far Western Conference varsity loop in 1971.

DEFENSE

A rugged Cossack defense was the key to victory Saturday as some 200 fans braved the cold weather to watch Cossack linemen Charlie Rada, a former College of Marin lineman, and Benny Guerra toss Sacramento quarterback Jim Holmes for 30 yards in losses. The defensive secondary, led by Bob Depippo's two interceptions, came up with three key interceptions and broke up several third down pass plays. One interception late in the first half put Sonoma State in position for the winning touchdown.

Halfbacks Chris Alvarado led the Cossacks' offensive effort as the flashy sophomore racked up 197 yards in 29 carries. Herm Manuel, Luther Nelson, and Aaron Berhel teamed with Alvarado to anchor a Sonoma State rushing attack that was good for 342 yards and all three Cossack touchdowns.

6-0 LEAD

Quarterback Bill Cox put Sonoma State ahead 6-0 early in the first quarter when his one-yard keeper capped a 69 yard drive in 10 plays. Alvarado's 31 yard burst was the key play in the drive.

Sacramento rallied to go ahead 7-6 after Cox's fumble at midfield put the Hornets in scoring position. Holmes hit Alton McSween on the next play for 49 yards and the score.

A 22-yard Cox-to-Jack Trujillo pass set up the Cossacks second touchdown, coming on a 5-yard run by Manuel; and Chet Rogers interception at the Sacramento 13-yard line allowed Alvarado to scamper 5 yards for the winning score.

Sonoma State finished with an overall 5-3 mark, losing all three "non-league" games.

PACIFIC-8 ROUNDUP

They're All Big Games Next Weekend

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The four games that close out the Pacific-8 Conference schedule Saturday are all big ones — a matching of traditional rivals where victory is just a little sweeter and defeat more bitter.

FOURTH

The USC Trojans are after an unprecedented fourth straight trip to Pasadena. To stop them the Bruins have to win. A tie won't do it for UCLA.

Neither the Trojans nor the Bruins has been beaten in nine games. But each was tied once and UCLA's draw was in the conference — 20-20 against Stanford.

California goes to Stanford for the 72nd Big Game, needing an upset over the Indians to change a mediocre season to an acceptable one.

Up north Oregon and Oregon State meet in Eugene for the 73rd time — each needing to win to put its conference record on the plus side. Oregon State is 3-3 in the league and 5-4 over-all, and Oregon is 2-2 and 4-4-1.

WINLESS

In Seattle, Washington and Washington State fight it out for the 61st time, each with an 0-6 conference mark.

Washington, 0-9 over-all, outplayed sixth-ranked Southern Cal in Seattle Saturday in the first three quarters and had a 7-7 tie going into the final period.

Then Ron Ayala kicked a 31-yard field goal and Clarence Davis ran for a touchdown that made the final 16-7.

Oregon came just as close to a stunning upset at Eugene against UCLA before losing 13-10. The Ducks led 10-7 entering the fourth quarter, getting all their points in the third period on a safety, a two-yard plunge by John Harrington and a two-point conversion on a Harrington pass.

But in the fourth period's opening minute, Dennis Dummit lofted his 14th touchdown pass of the season — a UCLA record — to Gwen Cooper.

FIELD GOAL

A second-quarter field goal was all Washington State's Cougars could score at Corvallis, Ore. against the Oregon State in the other Pac-8 game last weekend. Dave Schilling scored the first two touchdowns in the Beavers' 38-3 victory.

In nonconference games California downed San Jose State 31-7 and Stanford flew by Air Force 47-34. Those victories brought the Pac-8 record against outsiders to 16-10-2.

California was behind 7-6 at halftime but rallied for 25 points, starting late in the third period. Randy Wersching got Cal's first points with field goals of 31 and 22 yards in the second quarter and concluded the game's scoring with a 27-yarder. As of the halftime intermission, Cal had been without a touchdown for 10 straight quarters.

Air Force got off to a 7-0 lead at Stanford and was ahead 14-7 in the second period when the Indians' offense got into high gear.

Quarterback Jim Plunkett passed for two touchdowns and completed 22 of 38 tosses for 278 yards. His 18 touchdowns for the season is one more than the old Pac-8 mark.

Cadets Remain Winless

San Rafael Military Academy's football wound up its season with its finest game Saturday.

Unfortunately, it wasn't enough for the Cadets to come up with their first win, as they lost to Bay Counties League champion Menlo, 20-6, and finished with an 0-7-1 record, in the annual "Little Big Game" at Menlo.

The Cadets' only touchdown came on a quarterback sneak by Tom Kewell from one yard out. Kewell also passed 11 completions in 17 tries for 77 yards.

Six-year-old Doug Ende of San Rafael took fastest time, was second in the trophy dash and finished second in the main event at the junior quarter midget auto races in Hayward yesterday.

Bob Rosburg Wins PGA Club Crown

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Few golfers were happy yesterday when wind began snapping across the Roadrunner Golf Course, site of the final round of the $50,000 PGA Club Championship.

Bob Rosburg didn't mind. "I was hoping for that wind," he smiled.

Unlike most golfers, Rosburg counted the wind in his favor. "I play better in wind. I figure it's an advantage for me," the 43-year-old tour veteran from St. Louis, Mo. said after pocketing the $8,000 first prize check.

Rosburg scored an even-par 72, his worst round of the 72-hole tournament, to edge Jimmy Wright, Inwood, Long Island, by one stroke. Wright, who carded a 73 Sunday, finished at 276. Rosburg capitalized on two successive rounds of 66 to finish at 275.

Rosburg and Wright went into the final round deadlocked at 13 under par. They two played even until the 190-yard sixth hole, where Rosburg's drive hit the pin and landed two feet from the hole.

He tapped the ball in for a birdie. Wright, however, ran into trouble and took a one-over-par 4.

Glenview, Illinois pro Bill Ogden closed with a 70 to take third place at 278—10 strokes under par. Tommy Bolt, Sarasota, Fla., and John Molenda, Birmingham, Mich., followed at 279.

The Mustangs hoisted their coaches up in a victory salute, a fact watched glumly by Redwood fans who made up a sparse crowd of some 900.

The Giants pushed into a 14-0 lead on a one-yard shot by Mike Farley and a nine-yard pass from Cooney to Steve Fleishman.

Meanwhile, the Mustangs, with only two first downs in the first half, got in their licks on a screen pass from Ken Gnoss to Steve Lambert, with Lambert outracing the Giants for an 82-yard touchdown play. The Mustangs tied it when Gnoss pushed in from 10 yards out on a quick sneak straight over the middle.

SEASON FINALE

Novato Edges Tamalpais

Novato High School's football team escaped the Marin County Athletic League cellar Saturday by nipping Tamalpais, 28-20, on the throwing arm of sophomore quarterback Marti Moroski before some 900 fans in Mill Valley.

Moroski completed 9 of 19 passed for 221 yards and two touchdowns and scored twice himself to bring the Hornets from behind on three separate occasions.

The young Indians, playing without star running back Billy Washington, made it close in the final period when they trailed by only 21-20 before a 46-yard pass from Moroski to Le Magers made it 28-20.

Novato thus won its third straight game and second straight league game for a 4-5 season mark and a 2-4 loop record while the Indians shared the cellar with Drake at 1-5. They had a 2-7 season mark.

AFL ROUNDUP

Taylor, Chiefs Run Over Jets

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I had a pain out there today," said Otis Taylor, nursing his self-inflicted punctured ribs. The New York Jets also had a pain Sunday—Taylor.

The burly Kansas City receiver shook off the agony of those punctured ribs to haul in two Len Dawson touchdown passes—he already had one TD reception before his accident—as the Chiefs stormed past the Super Bowl champions 34-16 before a record American Football League crowd of 63,849 at Shea Stadium.

SEVEN

The seventh straight triumph for the Chiefs, now 9-1, enabled them to maintain their half-game lead over Oakland, which rallied late to escape San Diego 21-16, heading into next Sunday's showdown between the Western Division powers.

Boston turned back Cincinnati 25-14, Buffalo routed Miami 28-3 and Denver tied Houston 20-20 in other AFL activity.

Taylor, back after a three-game absence because of an abdominal injury, hurt himself in the first half shortly after taking an 18-yard TD pass from Dawson, whose father died two days before the game.

Otis said he had just pulled in a Dawson toss and when "I got hit, my feet left me and my elbow swung and punctured my ribs.

'IT HURT'

"I played two quarters like that, and every time I got hit it hurt."

But the pain didn't appear to bother Taylor. He took a seven-yard pass from Dawson that snapped a 10-10 tie and wrapped up the scoring with a 10-yard catch of another Dawson fling.

The setback stopped New York's six-game winning streak, but the Jets maintained their comfortable lead in the Eastern Division because of runnerup Houston's tie.

Quarterback Joe Namath managed to complete 24 of 50 passes for 327 yards against the stern Chief defense—best in the AFL—but was intercepted three times. Dawson picked up 298 yards in the air, hitting 22 of 37 passes.

Boston forced Cincinnati into a bevy of mistakes, picking off three of rookie quarterback Greg Cook's passes, in picking up only its second victory in 10 games.

SIMPSON

Rookie O. J. Simpson caught two touchdown passes and returned the game-opening kickoff 73 yards to set up his first TD as Buffalo's anemic offense suddenly came to life against Miami.

Simpson's opening jaunt took the ball to the Miami 26. He then took 18 and eight-yard passes—the second one in the end zone—from quarterback Jack Kemp.

Tomales Crushes Calistoga

After trailing for three quarters, Tomales High School's football team exploded for 28 points in the final period Saturday to bury Calistoga, 50-29, and win the North Central II title for the third straight year in inaugurating its new football field in Tomales.

Ron Petroni of Tomales scored four touchdowns and two conversions to boost his season total to 116 points, two points more than the school record of 114 points set by Gary Dellepere three years ago.

Petroni also rushed for 180 yards in 21 carries while quarterback Dennis Rodoni, who missed most of the first half with a knee injury, came back to complete 9 of 13 passes for 112 yards.

Tomales finished with an 8-1 season record and a 4-0 league mark.

Punchless Seals Fall Down To Fourth Place

CHICAGO (AP) — The Oakland Seals, who haven't won a National Hockey League game this month and have dropped from the top of the West Division into a tie for fourth, must live with that situation until Wednesday night.

The Seals couldn't hold a two-goal lead against the Chicago Black Hawks Saturday and went down to a 3-2 defeat. Their current winless string of seven games — including one tie — is the longest for the club in two years.

The Seals play Wednesday against Minnesota, currently West Division runnerup to St. Louis. Next Saturday they go on to Montreal, East Division runnerup to new York. So prospects of ending their victory famine are not good.

Within two minutes in the second period, Mike Laughton and Ted Hampson scored against Chicago, and the Seals led 2-0 at 11:03.

Two minutes later Dennis Hull scored for the Hawks and at 10:51 of the third period Eric Nesterenko tied it at 2-2.

St. Vincent Wins; Coach Resigns

St. Vincent High School Mustangs of Petaluma ended their 1969 football season on a winning note Saturday with a 19-0 victory over Mendocino High at Petaluma. It gave the Mustangs a final 3-6 season won-lost record.

Immediately after the game St. Vincent coach Bob Martin announced his resignation but gave no reason or plans.

Rams Finally Wake Up In Time To Beat Eagles

Philadelphia Eagles 10, Los Angeles Rams 0? somebody must be kidding.

But that's what the score was at the end of the first half yesterday in what was supposed to be a Ram romp.

Turns out, it wasn't really the Rams in that first half, according to Coach George Allen. The Real Rams came out in the second half, see, and went on to beat the Birds, 23-17, in the National Football League contest.

"We were not playing our game in the first half . . . we were lethargic and outplayed," said Allen. "In the second half we woke up and began to play Ram football."

The victory just about wrapped up the Coastal Division title for Los Angeles. The Rams now are 9-0 and have a four-game lead over Baltimore, 5-4, which lost a 20-17 heart-breaker to San Francisco yesterday.

Minnesota, behind Fred Cox's golden toe, booted Green Bay, 9-7, to take a stranglehold on the Central Division race; Dallas thrashed Washington, 41-28, behind Calvin Hill's mercurial dashes to strengthen its Capitol Division lead, and Cleveland slammed Pittsburgh, 24-3, behind Bill Nelsen, to stay atop the Century group in other key games.

With gifted quarterback Roman Gabriel having one of his better years for the Rams and Philadelphia quarterback Norm Snead reported lame, Los Angeles was supposed to have a soft touch.

Only nobody told fired-up Philadelphia in the first half.

"They (the Eagles) are a considerably improved football team and one certainly to be reckoned with in several years," said Allen. But he admitted he was not too worried about the first half score.

It was another game in the second half, however, as the Rams' defense galvanized and shot down a bunch of Eagles. Los Angeles defenders, led by safety Ed Meador's fumble recovery and pass interception, scored or set up 16 last half points as the Rams galloped back.

"They had the balls right there for me," Cox said of the center, Mike Tingelhoff, and the holder, Paul Krause. "They had them right on the money and if I can get a good look at the ball, I should be able to make it."

Hill, that man from Yale, rolled up 150 yards and scored two touchdowns in leading Dallas' victory over Washington. Hill, however, wasn't taking any bows.

"Unless you're a natural like Gale Sayers, you learn each year," he said. "I'm learning to run inside. I'm cutting better. But like I say, it's a learning process."

Quarterback Nelsen completed 18 of 32 passes for 290 yards and Leroy Kelly banged for 97 yards overland as the Browns clubbed the Steelers.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Careless Card Action May Be Contagious, Says Sherlock

"Come away quickly, Watson," Sherlock Holmes urged in a stage whisper. "This kind of bridge may be contagious." Dr. Watson looked sharply at the great detective, but there was no smile on Holmes' face, and the two friends walked out of the Baker Street Bridge Club.

Opening lead — ♣ 9

LOW CLUB

West had opened the nine of clubs on the hand immediately preceding the departure of Holmes and Dr. Watson. Declarer looked approvingly at the dummy, Dr. Watson remembered, and he won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs. Then he led the jack of hearts from dummy.

Things happened rather quickly after that. East stepped up with the ace of trumps and led another club. West ruffed, and South lost 100 points. He also lost two kibitzers.

It was all very unlucky, Dr. Watson reflected. Still, Holmes evidently thought that declarer had misplayed the hand, and Holmes was usually right in such matters.

OBVIOUS DANGER

South ignored an obvious danger. Not every opening lead is a singleton but declarer shou'l consider the possibility that the opening lead is from a very short suit. He should guard against this danger if he possibly can.

In this case South had a very easy way to protect himself. He should lead a spade to the ace at the second trick, cash the ace of diamonds and then ruff a diamond in dummy with the eight of hearts. When nothing alarming happens on this trick, declarer leads the king of spades from dummy to discard his last club.

ONLY THEN SOUTH

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ Q 7 6 3 2
♦ 8 7 5 3
♣ 9.

ANSWER: Pass.

You hate to leave your partner in one club, especially if that may be a three-card suit, but it is even more dangerous to bid with so weak a hand. If you respond one spade, partner may jump to three clubs or two no-trump or some such uncivilized bid, and you will wish you were home in bed.

Chamber Music

The instrumental ensemble class of the College of Marin music department will present a concert of chamber music Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Room 72 of the Fine Arts Building. Admission is free.

ALMANAC

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1869, the Suez Canal, between the Arabian Desert and the Sinai Desert was formally opened.

In 1881, Samuel Gompers organized the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions, the forerunner of the American Federation of Labor.

In 1948, the British House of Commons voted to nationalize England's steel industry.

Daughter Not Wife In Picture Caption

The picture caption on page one of Saturday's Independent-Journal erred in identifying Laurie Washburn as the wife of William Washburn of Novato. She is his daughter.

The photograph showed the Washburns and City Councilman Joseph Gargiulo preparing to send gifts to wounded Vietnam veterans.

Club Dinner

The Black Point Improvement Club will hold a fellowship dinner Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of the club president, Alfred Rivasplata, 302 Olive Avenue.

Processing Firm At Northgate Links To Computer In Oakland

The Northgate Industrial Park data processing firm, Fair, Isaac and Co., which has been in Marin since 1962, has installed new facilities enabling it to give improved service to local businesses.

The installation is based on a direct leased phone connection to a UNIVAC 1108 computer in Oakland which will perform up to 1,333,333 arithmetic operations per second. The Northgate terminal has a 300-line per minute printer and a 300-card per minute reader. The start of transmission of cards from this office is said to have a maximum wait of four seconds.

The company reports it is now able to provide a full range of data processing complete with tapes and drums and is undertaking to perform all or any part of these operations for local firms.

RYDAX, INC., a company organized last January to produce specialized digital communications equipment and headquartered at 76 Belvedere Street, San Rafael, has turned out its first product.

Technically this is described as a teleprinter automatic control terminal designed for use with a Model 32 Teletype or equivalent five-level printer. It is said to provide in a single package all the functions required to convert a high-frequency radio transceiver and teleprinter into a communications terminal.

NEW at 833 Bridgeway, Sausalito, is Gloria Hair Styling, a project of Mrs. Gloria Abdalla of San Francisco, who is moving her home to Larkspur.

She has been in the hairstyling profession about 20 years — in Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Brazil and in Italy. This is her first venture for herself. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

JOHN T. PONTING of Larkspur has been elected vice president in charge of training and communications at Bank of California's San Francisco head office. He joined the bank in 1964, was named project officer in the personnel division two years later and was promoted to assistant vice president in 1968.

INSURANCE: J. Philip Hagan Jr. of San Rafael has joined Clifton and Co., San Francisco insurance brokerage firm, as an account supervisor. . . . Peter Cudia, Brent Burrell, Jack Downing and assistant district manager Michael E. Market Off For Fifth Day In Row

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks pulled back sharply today, stretching their slide to five sessions. Turnover was moderate.

Volume of around 10,000,000 shares was about in line with Friday's pace.

Near the close several electronics lost a point or more, while a number of oils and chemicals also showed marked weakness. DuPont attracted some selling and closed at 115 3-8 off 2 1-4. It declared a year-end dividend of $1.50 a share, bringing the total for the year to $5.25, compared with $5.50 a year ago. Xeros closed at 105 7-8 up 1 1-8.

Standard Oil of New Jersey closed at 64 1-2 off 1-4 while Texaco closed at 30, unchanged.

Aircrafts ranged to around a point lower near the close. Rails and airlines generally traded in narrowly irregular fashion. Southern Pacific closed at 37 1-4, unchanged.

Withdraws

OAKLAND, (UPI) Kaiser Ceming & Gypsum Corp. has withdrawn from the group project to build an oil refinery on Okinawa in combination with Caltex Petroleum Corp. Kaiser intended to participate in the refinery project through Ryukyu Cement Co., in which it has a half interest.

ANCIENT RITE USED IN GROUNDBREAKING

Western Travelers Life Insurance Co. president Lowell B. Martin receives a handful of graded earth from Harold Valceschini of Coldwell, Banker and Co. in the recent groundbreaking ceremony for Western's new home office building at Northgate. In the days when few could write the act of exchanging a handful of soil was accepted as a covenant marking transfer of property ownership. When completed in March, the new building will house both Western Travelers and Mutual Fund Associates, Inc. — the latter moving from San Francisco.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Wife Needs Savings For Peace Of Mind

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband recently sold his business. Our entire savings are invested in one stock because he does not believe in keeping money in the bank at 5 per cent. I was raised in poverty and can't sleep nights because he refuses to keep even $15,000 in a savings account. This would be only a small percentage of our holdings. He is a good manager and I have no quarrels with his investing. But how can I get him to put aside this small amount? — M. W.

A. If you can speak to your husband as eloquently as you have written to me I am sure you will be able to convince him how vital a bank account is for your peace of mind. While I do not condone his modus operandi, he is probably one of those few individuals who, although incapable of prudence, is extremely successful. This is one form of gambling for which I have no stomach.

Q. You recommend Alpine Geophysical as a long-range speculation. I have 100 shares at an average of 23. Should I buy additional shares now that it is lower or build up my holdings in Executone? I can invest about $300 a month. — S.B.

A. Alpine Geophysical's diverse ocean-oriented interests should eventually pay big dividends. Patience, however, will be required. A modification of the Food and Drug Administration's regulation on the use of marine protein as a food additive is being sought by Alpine. However, in light of the investigations now under way on food additives — cyclamates, monosodium glutamate and so forth — early approval seems unlikely.

The company's five bulk cargo vessels continue to provide a sizable percentage of total revenues. Wheher you should add to your shares would depend on what portion of your capital is now invested in risk situations and how much you can afford to assign to this category.

Executone reported good third-quarter results and is still selling at a relatively reasonable multiple. Additional purchases are warranted.

Wrong Knee Exercise Can Hurt Even Athletes In Good Shape

VAN DELLEN

Deep knee bends are not for everyone. This form of calisthenics places considerable stress on all structures of the joint and more so when deep squats are done while holding weights on the shoulder.

In their book, "The Knee in Sports" (Pemberton Press, Austin, Tex.), Prof. Karl K. Klein and Dr. Fred L. Allman Jr. offer convincing evidence that knee bends considerably overstretch the collateral ligaments leading to joint instability.

Cartilage can also be damaged when squatting and more so when the toes are pointed outward.

LIGAMENTS ARE the first line of defense against knee injury. The stronger and tighter they are, the quicker they bring into play the protective muscles when in danger of injury.

Instead of strengthening the muscles via deep knee bends, it is better to do certain exercises while sitting on a special bench.

Finally, these investigators believe that football heel cleats should be replaced with ordinary lifts to prevent the heel from locking in the turf during cutting and turning actions.

ALONG THIS LINE, are your joints, tendons, and muscles tight or loose? According to Dr. James A. Nicholas, physician for the New York Jets, some people are not built to touch their toes or do push-ups.

Dr. Nicholas has found that football players with relaxed ligaments often emerge from a massive pile-up with injuries. He uses five tests to determine looseness or tightness — touching the palms to the floor, hip rotation, and flexing the shoulder, elbow, and knee.

He applied these tests to 139 players. The 39 who could do three or more of the above exercises were classified "loose," yet 28 of them sustained ruptured knee ligaments that required surgery. In contrast, only 9 out of 100 players who could do fewer than three of the exercises sustained ruptured ligaments.

IN OTHER WORDS, the "tight" boys are better able to withstand injury.

PALE LIDS AND LOBES

A. D. writes: Can a doctor tell if a person has anemia by pulling down his lower eyelids and ear lobes?

REPLY

Yes, but it is more scientific to extract a drop of blood from the ear lobe for an accurate count. What you asked about is of value only when marked anemia exists. By then it is not necessary for the physician to pull down the eyelids or ear lobes as he can tell by looking at the patient's pale face that he is anemic.

CATNIP TEA

A reader writes: A friend of mine is expecting in November. Meanwhile, she is drying catnip to make tea for the baby. She says it is good for hives. Isn't catnip considered a drug? What effect will it have on the baby?

REPLY

Tell your friend to wait until the baby is born to see if he (or she) will develop hives. Catnip is a drug and a poor remedy for hives.

THE HOOKAH

F. S. writes: In regard to smoking, does the use of an oriental water pipe like a hookah sufficiently protect the smoker against lung cancer?

REPLY

I would say yes, because the water tends to filter out the tar and nicotine. In all probability, it has the same cancer risk as smoking a pipe.

EPILEPSY AND SHOCK

C. E. writes: Could a severe emotional shock cause epilepsy?

REPLY

The cause of epilepsy is not known but the majority of victims develop the disease without experiencing an emotional upheaval.

AT OAK RIDGE

Lab Explores Ways To Combat Fallout

The "horns" are of the same composition as the normal horns a steer wears on his forehead—but on that piece of cowhide they are lumpy, misshapen growths, the result of fallout from America's first atomic bomb set off at Alamogorda, N.M., in July of 1945.

WIDESPREAD RESEARCH

That piece of cowhide represents the start of a research program under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission which is producing blackberry bushes without briars, albino barley, new color variations in flowers and decorative plants, and civil defense information on the effects of radioactive fallout on corn and other basic crops.

This program also is hoping to find a way of saving the American chestnut tree from the ravages of a blight which has all but wiped it out.

Director of the laboratory is Dr. Nathan Hall, a soil scientist who took over in 1957, nine years after the first studies were begun.

"In animal research, we have four basic interests," says Hall. "We want to know the effect of radiation on the animal's reproductive processes, the long term effects such as life shortening, the early effects on skin and organs and metabolic disturbances—what finally happens to the fallout material the animal eats."

COMMON, RARE

In these studies, the laboratory makes use of such ordinary farm animals as hogs, cattle, ponies, sheep, chickens, and some not so common animals such as Asian quail and Mexican burros, along with rats and rabbits.

"We have founr," says Hall, "that near fatal doses of radiation produce a definite shortening of the life expentancy of the animal, but during the animal's life there are indications that its capacity to go about its normal work is not impared."

Those first Hereford cattle, caught in the fallout from the initial atomic blast, bought by the U.S. government and shipped to Oak Ridge, recovered from their radiation lesions and produced normal, healthy calves for as long as 16 years after the explosion.

HOT PLANTS

Hall says there are in existence 60 plant lines which have radiation in their backgrounds. Florida has a new oat variety from such experimentation, South Carolina a new lespedeza, North Carolina new peanut lines, and commercial chrysanthemum growers have been working with radiation mutations for some time.

In producing new plant lines, radiation is applied to the seed, to the whole plant, to the ova of certain plants or to the pollen. One mutation out of 200 to 500 plants is considered a good ratio in these experiments.

Once the mutation is produced, its characteristics are studied to see if desirable results have been achieved. There is no way of predicting the outcome beforehand.

"We play a kind of numbers game," says Hall, but with plants it doesn't matter. Hundreds of thousands can be produced in a short time and in little space. The laboratory has about 5,000 acres to work in here at the edge of the Oakridge National Laboratory facilities.

Poem On Space

Hilda Forman will read "Cybernaut," a poem on space by Mill Valley author E. G. Valens, at 8 p.m. Friday in the Mill Valley Library gallery.

TV REVIEW

NBC's Bag This Week: Two Dramas

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week it was an entire evening of variety and comedy specials. This week NBC will offer two original dramas back to back on Friday night.

It's all part of the network's new scheduling gimmick which it calls "Multi-Special Nights." A 90-minute "Hall of Fame" suspense tale, "The File on Devlin," will be followed by an hour-long "On Stage" production of "Mirror, Mirror, Off the Wall."

In past seasons, a "Hall of Fame" or an "On Stage" production was set in the network schedule like a rare jewel. They are the prized and prestigious dramatic series of NBC, never before put together in one economy-sized package. Even more unusual, both productions are on the light side.

DAME JUDITH

George Schafer, who produced and directed many of the old "Hall of Fame" shows, produced and directed "The File on Devlin." It stars Dame Judith Anderson and David McCallum.

"We tried to do a take-out on the spy melodrama, and we're playing it in the spirit of camp", Schaefer said. "I like actors and I like television and I think it is easier to sustain drama in it. We're all locked up together for three intensive weeks of rehearsal and shooting. Then that's it. It's not at all like doing motion pictures in little pieces."

"Mirror, Mirror, Off the Wall" is a David Shaw comedy about a failing writer who turns out a dirty best-seller under a nom de plume with, hopefully, hilarious results in his private life. George C. Scott and Maureen Stapleton star in this one.

The three networks went all out, as usual, in their coverage of Friday's Apollo 12 launching, starting hours before blast-off and staying with it afterwards.

SAME THING

Since the public has watched so many previous launchings and so much of the coverage consists of simulations, animations, interviews and only an occasional glimpse of the departing astronauts and the rocket on its pad, it does seem that the time has come when the TV coverage could be reduced. Coverage of the upcoming moon exploration is, of course, something else.

Perhaps the networks, having started this extensive coverage, don't quite know how to back away gracefully. Except for the awesome sights of the blast-off itself, the proceedings can be followed just as well on the radio. And the radio coverage by the networks was as well organized and learned as that of television.

Houston Voters Return Mayor

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mayor Louie Welch, whose campaign stressed his experienced management of the nation's sixth largest city, won the right Saturday to manage Houston for two more years.

Welch, 51, carried 53 per cent of the vote to win his fourth straight term as head of Houston's city government.

The biggest threat of his five opponents was state Rep. Curtis Graves, 31, who polled 31 per cent of the vote as the first Negro in modern times to run for mayor. Racism was not made an issue in the low-keyed campaigns.

Welch had said he feared voter apathy. However, a record 189,488 voters—about 48 per cent of the electorate—went to the polls.

By WILLIAM GLOVER

The show uses all those trappings of McLoonish uproar that are paradoxically making under-30 entertainment revolt into the new conformity. But there's also volatile enthusiasm, sweet sincerity and even talent to offset the high-decibel, strobe-light formula hysteria.

"Stomp" began last winter at the University of Texas in Austin, with Doug Dyer, a graduate drama student, and some lower class collegians expressing restlessness against the political-social status quo. In more developed form and augmented with recruits from other schools, the song-sketch entertainment was done later at the Atlanta Art Center.

"HAIR" PRODUCER

Joseph Papp, impresario of New York's Shakespeare Festival and the man who first produced "Hair," caught the show and brought it to town. During a rehearsal month the 23 lads and lasses of the combine have lived at the theater.

Audience involvement is the keynote. At curtain time all spectators are turned loose in a scramble for seats on benches, and a good many end up squatting in the center of the room. The performers ramble among them, rearrange customers from time to time, exhort them up into holy-roller singalongs and finally lead them down a firestairs for a torchlit rally in the street.

NO PROGRAM

There's no program, so who performs what remains a communal mystery. One girl lips a moody trumpet. Someone else pipes a wooden flute. There are lots of guitars and electric organ, four-letter words and a little cautious nudity.

Some sketeches, including a confrontation with an Establishment spokesman, are very square A lot of the original music is plaintive and touching. A couple of staging effects are theatrically electric. Omitted by the all-white cast in the barrage of protest is any reference to racial integration.

One thing is certain: everyone who attends is going to respond. And most will find that trip downtown both provocative and exhiliarating.

Ship Concludes Dream Voyage

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI)—The SS Manhattan returned home yesterday upon successful completion of a 500-year dream to find a northwest passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans.

The icebreaker-tanker's mission was to determine whether it would be economically feasible to transport Alaskan oil to east coast markets. The Humble Oil Co., which sponsored the $30 million "gamble" said it would take several months to evaluate data.

"I'll bathe in the moriнng. That guy we share our medicine chest with is in our tub."

Friendly Rhino

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Tertia, a white rhino in a game reserve near here, polished up her horn on the front bumper of a visitor's car. Every time she rubbed, the car bounced up and down, delighting the occupants. "Tertia was so friendly we experienced no fear at all and were fascinated by her antics," said car owner Desmond White.

Quads Born To Italian Woman

BERGAMO, Italy (AP) — A 30-year-old schoolteacher who took five fertility pills has given birth to quadruplets.

Three boys and a girl were born last night to Giacomina Grassi, wife of an engineer. She and the babies were reported in good condition today.

Conflicts Of Interest Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three employees of Shell Chemical Co. had jobs with a federal agency which deliberated for five years before issuing labeling restrictions for "Shell's "No-Pest Strip," a House committee says.

The finding raises "serious conflict of interest questions," the House Government Operations Committee said in a report issued yesterday.

Two of the Shell employees held positions with the Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Regulation Division and a third was appointed to a task force studying operations of the division.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles In Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain.

In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.
